VOTE
ELECTION DAY
NOVEMBER 5

The P. C. Editor Says:

We are near enough to the finish of this political campaign to survey it in retrospect.

It is doubtful if any national election ever produced so gross a total of misstatements, contradictory statements and plain inventions as the Willkie candidacy has brought forth. It may be that the candidate, new to rules of national politics, simply took what was handed to him and promulgated it in good faith. Evidently knowing nothing about it, for example, he came out with an explicit charge that because of governmental inefficiency, men conscripted by the draft, would for lack of shelter in the winter months be periled "from sickness and influenza." The object of such a declaration was obvious—it was to alarm the mothers and wives of the boys going into service, with the hope that it would prejudice them against the Democratic candidate. But the next day the Republican Secretary of War explained that barrack building was ahead of the enrollment and so no drafted man would be exposed to the imaginary hardships and dangers Mr. Willkie set forth.

The minority party candidate never corrected his statement. His policy has been right along to stick to his statements.

Once he proclaimed with variations that employment insurance was a delusion and a snare. "Your social security does you no good," he told his audience at Pittsburgh, "if you are paying into a government that will not, at the rate it is spending, be able to pay you back."

Confronted with the figures showing that already three billion dollars had been paid out by the Government in employment insurance, old-age pensions, etc., he made no correction or explanation.

THAT SALE "DOWN THE RIVER"

He specifically charged President Roosevelt with having telephoned the totalitarian chiefs, and as a result of these conversations had "sold Czecho-Slovakia down the river." Somebody must have told him that there had been no such telephoning so he permitted his press-agents to say that he had "mis-spoken." Nevertheless, he repeated the absurd charge in slightly varied forms in subsequent speeches.

In New England he blamed the New Deal for the moving of industrial plants from that section to the South, forgetting doubtless the Alabama speech in which he said: "I can tell you why we maintain an office in New York. It is solely because of two reasons: first, to have a convenient and advantageous point from which we can work with the Alabama Power Co. and other companies to secure the removal of Northern industries to this area. How successfully we have done this, perhaps you can judge by the fact that in the past decade the new industries division of the Alabama Power Co. aided directly or indirectly in the location of 245 industries in 129 different communities in your state."

Mr. Willkie may be deficient in knowledge about the preparedness program, and the social security acts, and the international situation, and so have been misinformed on these subjects, but certainly he knows all about the mechanism that took mills and businesses away from New York and New England to where his own outfit could have them as customers.

EVERYTHING WILL GO TO SMASH

Of course, the Republican candidate sees nothing ahead but bankruptcy, chaos, and the wreck of the whole American system if Roosevelt is reelected. He is as dire in his prophecies as was Herbert Hoover when he was telling us that if he was removed from the White House and the evil Democrats tampered with the sacred Smoot-Hawley tariff, grass would grow in our city streets. That was eight years ago and it hasn't yet been necessary to erect keep-off-the-grass signs in Wall Street, or the corresponding thoroughfares in other great cities.

Mr. Willkie sees even worse ahead. If President Roosevelt continues in the presidency, the future offers: "restriction and limitation to the clergy and to the peachments of individual religions, and offers little hope for the freedom of the press and of expression." And he added: "It is as inevitable if you continue to go down that road, as that the sun will rise in Springfield tomorrow morning."

"It's that a marvelous picture of what will ensue if our church-going, humanitarian President continues in office? Up to date perhaps no modern President has been subjected for years to such a barrage of attacks—personal and political — from the Republican press as he has had directed at him and his policies, and, strangely enough, he hasn't tried to suppress any newspaper—as Mr. Willkie did so successfully when the Chattanooga News fought for public ownership of public utilities.

However, it will all be over in a few days and then Mr. Willkie can revert to type and put away the role of defender of the American nation against the perils of the third-term and get back to his regular utility job.

Incidentally, he scoffs at the idea that his inexperience in Government should count against him. Senator Hiram Johnson backed him up in this and yet when Senator Johnson was running for the Vice Presidency on the third-term ticket of Theodore Roosevelt, Hiram made his argument against the election of Woodrow Wilson on the point that Wilson was "untried" while Theodore Roosevelt had had all the experience.—Charles Michelson.

Eighteen of the 24 national parks in America now are open throughout the entire year.

1931 Cotton Receipt Weak Beside Today's

Archie Cook, farmer living south of Sikeston, gave to The Standard Tuesday a receipt for a load of cotton sold in the fall of 1931—nine year ago in the twilight of the national Republican Administration which gives some interesting figures on farm prices.

The statement, dated October 10, shows that the price of lint is $4.90 a hundred pounds, and seed brought $5 a ton. It requires approximately 1500 pounds of field cotton to make a 500-pound bale, the rest being seed. Back in 1931, the bale would have brought Mr. Cook $24.50, and the thousand pounds of seed $2.50, or a total of $27.

Today, under the Roosevelt farm program, lint brings $9.50 a hundred pounds and seed $18 a ton. Thus, a 500-pound bale brings $47.50, which with the half-ton of seed makes $56.50—more than double that received back in Republican days

The receipt shows Mr. Cook was paid $32 for 655 pounds of lint, considerably more than the 500-pound standard. His ginning costs of $3.45 reduced the returned to $28.66. Picking amounting to $9.15 brought the income down to $19.51. This includes $2.64 allowed for 1055 pounds of seed, which was deducted from the original ginning charge of $6.07.

Mr. Cook is a firm believer in the present as compared with the past.

Will Observe Week of Prayer

The Women's Society of Christian Service will observe the week of prayer Wednesday, November 6, at the Methodist Church, meeting at 11 o'clock with lunch promptly at 12 o'clock, in order to begin the program at 1:00 o'clock. The subject for the worship service will be "New Roads Untried".

The week of prayer offering goes to establish a Chair of Christian Life and Thought in Scarritt College to honor Mrs. Clara Tucker Perry, who has been president of the Women's Missionary Council for a number of years, and who did a very effective work during the process of unification of the three branches of Methodism. One thousand dollars is the goal for the endowment.

Two articles, "Scarritt Built for the Future" and "Scarritt's New Day" will be part of the program, of which Mrs. J. N. Ross will have charge with a number of helpers.

KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE NEAR KENNETT

Roland Wilcutt, 40, was struck by an automobile and killed as he walked along a road near Kennett Sunday Milton Clinton, of Osceola, Ark., driver of the car, was absolved of blame.

MRS. GOETZ ENTERTAINS FOR VISITING SISTER

Mrs. A. J. Goetz entertained at a dessert-rook party at the Rustic Rock Inn Wednesday night, honoring her sister, Mrs. Zella Jones of Paris, Ill. Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. C. R. Watson of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Brandes of Troy, Mo.

Agricultural Situation in New Madrid County Described

Farm Bureau and Home Economics Clubs' leaders meeting in a county session last July approved a situation statement as indicating substantially conditions as they exist in New Madrid County. This statement prepared by the extension agents with the assistance and advice of farm leaders is printed herewith in several installments. The first installment follows:

"New Madrid County, in total area 417,280 acres is situated on the Mississippi river approximately 200 miles south of St. Louis, and 125 miles north of Memphis. The topography is level, there is almost no water erosion but there is some wind erosion and generally speaking its soils are fertile. While the principal soils are of the Sharkey, Sarpy and Lintonia series, practically every soil series to be found in the Mississippi delta is found in this county. Agriculture is a comparatively recent development except in certain areas on the Sikeston Ridge and smaller areas around Mississippi River to Linda. In these New Madrid and south along the areas the titles to many parcels of land go back to Spanish Grants, and some of the land has been farmed 100 or more years. A considerable area of swamp land is recleaned and put into cultivation each year. The acreage of land in farms increased more than 57 per cent between 1924 and 1940. The figures are:

RISE IN FARM ACREAGE

1924—236,592 acres, 56.7 per cent of the county area in farms.

1929—258,637 acres, 62.0 per cent of the county area in farms.

1934—289,875 acres, 69.5 per cent of the county area in farms.

1940—371,849 acres, 89.1 per cent of the country area in farms.

Rainfall is abundant and well distributed, averaging 41.42 inches per year at Cairo, less than 40 miles away. Over a 69-year period rainfall is lowest in October with 2.78 inches and highest in January with 4.08 inches. The average mean temperature is 58.4° F. The average length of the growing season is 214 days.

The Lumber Industry survives at Gideon in a stave mill and wood working plant, at Morehouse in a wood working plant, at New Madrid in a saw mill, and in a few portable saw rigs. The opportunities of supplementing farm incomes through winter work in the timber and on the trap line have practically disappeared. The WPA, however, has been providing work relief for av ariable number of farmers each month, summer and winter.

Pioneer conditions exist side-by-side with the latest developments of mechanized civilization. Leasers' tents and slab houses jostle modern homes equipped with central heating, water and sewer systems, and high-line electricity.

MODERN IMPROVEMENTS

In 1930, 28.3 per cent of the farms had automobiles, 3.8 per cent had trucks, 4.9 per cent had tractors, 2.8 had telephone, less than 1 per cent had water piped into the house. Only 38 farms reported electricity in the home. There are now many miles of REA highline in the county, with several hundred subscribers. Public utility lines have also been extended, and there are now 247 miles of them in the county.

The farm population is increasing. It increased from 20,044 in 1925 to 23,019 in 1935. While the 1940 census figurs are not available it is estimated that the farm population has increased to 27,000. While a large influx of negroes occurred in the 1920's when the cotton acreage expanded tremendously, the percentage of negroes decrased from 32.4 in 1925 to 22.9 in 1930 to 20.7 in 1935. Because of the importation of shareoroppres and day laborers since 1935 it is probable that the percentage of negroes in the county is now somewhat larger than it was in 1935.

(Another installment will follow.)

ARBUTUS CLASS

The Arbutus Class of the First Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Leo Brown, 604 Matthews, Monday evening, November 4, with Mrs. E. P. Waldman and Mrs. Jewell Gentles as assistant hostesses.

Mattress Program Determined at District Meeting

Eight counties were represented by extension agents, AAA committeemen, Farm Security Administration representatives, WPA supervisors, Farm Bureau presidents and individuals, at a district meeting held in the Circuit Court Room in New Madrid Thursday afternoon, October 24. Approximately 75 people were present to hear C. C. Hearne, State Extension Agent, and Miss Amy Kelly, State Home Dmonstration Agent, tell about changes in regulations governing the mattress project work for 1940-41, and to participate in the discussion.

Among other things it was the opinion of the group that a county committee with all cooperating agencies represented should be set up to determine policies, and to work out plans to finance the project. This year, said Mr. Hearne, eligibility of families receiving mattresses has been changed so that any rural family which has a net income not to exceed $500 may obtain one mattress for each two persons in the family, not to exceed a total of three mattresses. If a family received a mattress during the past year and under the provisions would be entitled to a total of three mattresses such family might secure two more mattresses in connection with the new program. The County Committee will also determine when and where applications are to be taken, and at what time during the year the work will be done.

New Madrid County representatives attending the conference included Earl Cambron, ACA County Committee Chairman, Bert Femmer, County Committeeman, Glenn Rhodes, ACA Chief Clerk, Mrs. J. D. Twitty, president of the County Home Economics Council, Mrs. Lynn Twitty, Mrs. Louise J. Morrissey, Home Demonstration Agent for colored, Miss Anne Sillers, Home Demonstration Agent, and Paul H. Teal, County Extension Agent.

Form Diehlstadt Community Club

Miss Ella Fikuart, Scott County Home Demonstration Agent, helped to organize a 4-H club in the intermediate department of the Diehlstadt Public School, Wednesday, Oct. 22, under the leadership of Mary Sue Smith, teacher.

The club officers are: President, Gene Dameron; vice president, Vena Morgan; secretary-treasurer, Alice Cox; reporter, Helen Blodgett; game and song leader, Reverta Roy.

The name chosen for the organization is Diehlstadt community club. The projects chosen by this club are clothing I for the girls and Rope I for the boys. Meetings will be every first and third Wednesday. So far, 12 girls and 10 boys have joined the club.

Helen Badgett, reporter.

TOUR OF FARM CONTEST WINNERS

A tour has been planned for Sunday, November 3, to include the homes of J. D. Twitty, tenant, and Gus Eiceman, landowner, winners in the Plant to Prosper contest. New Madrid County people will meet at J. D. Twitty's at 1:30 where points of interest will be called to the attention of those present. The party will probably be at the Twitty home 45 minutes. They will then visit the Eiceman home and discuss improvements made. Everyone is invited to make this trip.

Henderson Mound Club Organized

A group of the women in the Henderson Mound community met at the Sam Pace home on Friday, October 25. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the possibility of organizing an Extension Club in the community. After the discussion led by Anne Sillers, Home Demonstration Agent, a club was organized. Officers were elected as follows:

Mrs. Sam Pace, president; Mrs. Cletus Winters, vice-president; Mrs. Albert Smith, secretary; Mrs. Allen Henard, reporter; Mrs. Jim Blyze, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Rudy Lofton, child development chairman.

The club will meet once a month on the second Monday at 2:00 p. m. The November meeting will be with Mrs. Cletus Winters. The program will be a discussion of "winter storage of fruits and vegetables".

Ten women joined the club, Those other than the officers are Mrs. Frank Cade, Mrs. Louis Wren, Mrs. John Buttry, and Mrs. Chas. Adams.

RYO ENJOYS SINGFEST AT FAIRVIEW

Members of the Fairview Rural Youth organization meeting at the school house October 24 devoted most of their entertainment session to the singing of old and familiar songs including rounds and harmony numbers.

In this session they were assisted by Mrs. Glenn Rhodes at the piano and County Agent Teal. Mrs. Rhodes also favored the group with special numbers on the piano. During the business session the group decided to use part of the profits made at the carnival held on October 18 for the purchase of weiners and other supplies in connection with a weiner roast next Friday night, November 1.

After eating, the entire company will attend a picture show held in Sikeston or New Madrid.

In addition to Mrs. Rhodes and Mr. Teal the guests included Glenn Rhodes, ACA Chief Clerk.

Democrats Plan Big Car Parade Throughout County

Democrats of Scott County will stage a monster parade throughout the county on Monday, Nov. 4. Evehybody is invited to participate, and to decorate an automobile with flags, bunting, appropriate remarks and the like.

The Chaffee band will be in line and also the Democratic sound truck. There will be all kinds of noise makers and people will really be aware of the fact when the caravan hits their towns.

Senator J. C. McDowell will be along and will make short talks wherever possible.

CHAPTER ONE SYNOPSIS

The Canadian North West in 1885 is faced with bloody civil war when the Metis, half-breed French-Indians, resent the intrusion of the North West Mounted Police in their affairs and threaten to rebel against the authority of the British Crown under the leadership of idealistic Louis Riel (Francis McDonald). Dan Duroc (Akim Tamiroff), a trapper, and a notorious criminal, Jacques Corbeau (George Bancroft) are aiding Riel. Sergeant James Bret (Preston Foster) and Constable Ronnie Logan (Robert Preston) come to the Metis settlement of Batoche to investigate the situation. Ronnie meets Louvette (Paulette Goddard) Corbeau's wildcat daughter, and arranges a rendezvous at Fort Carlton. Meanwhile, Shorty (Lon Chaney, Jr.), one of the rebel ringleaders, threatens Bret with a rifle.

CHAPTETR II

The halfbreed's gun was pointed at his heart, but Jim Bret did not move; it would have been fatal.

"You no like Corbeau?" said the breed.

"No," said Jim. He looked the man in the eye. "He'll only come if he smells blood, Shortly."

"Maybe," said Shortly harshly, his eye lighting with purpose as he sighted along the barrel of the rifle, "he smell blood pretty quick, then."

Still Jim did not move. It would have done no good anyway. His revolver was hoistered; his Winchester was in its boot. He could not get to them in time. Besides, in that mob, already inflamed at the thought of rebellion ,even if he killed Shortly, he would be torn to pieces.

Calmly, he stared at the breed, but out of the corner of his eye, he saw Tod McDuff, the strange Scotch halfbreed, sitting on the stoop of a nearby house. Tod McDuff was knitting; always was he knitting, but nevertheless he had turned his rifle so that it pointed at Shorty. Tod McDuff, halfbreed or no, was loyal to his Scottish forbears.

The moment stratched out, drew thin with the terrible tension, as Shorty, enjoying the suspense, seemed to await the Mounties' fear before pulling the trigger. Then, from the window of the hospital thrust a lovely, blonde head and April Logan called:

"Shorty! Come quick! It's a boy!"

Jim Bret threw back his head and laughed; the crowd laughed. Shortly, the halfbreed, had, while riding to war, brought his wife along to the hospital for confinement. Shortly now looked rather foolish as he lowered his gun, for a man who has just become a father does not kill. He laughed joyously, his belligerence forgotten, and rushed to the hospital. Jim rode on through the crowd, which was threatening no longer, but he stopped by Tod McDuff.

"Thank you, Tod," he said quietly, "but I'm glad you didn't pull the trigger. It would have started the war."

The Scotch breed regarded the sock he was knitting, said dourly: "Perhaps, but Jim, mon, 'twas no' in me to see ye slaughtered in cold blood. Ye're holdin' the empire which me feyther helped to knit together. I'll no' see it unraveled wi'out a scrum."

Jim Bret smiled. "I know," he said. "We'll need you, if it breaks. Come to the Fort in the morning and Inspector Cabot will swear you in as a deputy."

"Tod McDuff," said a voice nearby. It was Dan Duroc. "You an' me frien'. You'll not fight against Dan Duroc, Tod McDuff, or Dan Duroc scalp you!"

The Scotch breed and the French breed glared. Old friends, they were, and Jim knew it. But he had no doubts of Tod. He rode on to the hospital and despite his uneasiness, his trouble lifted a little. April Logan met him there.

His cold eyes softened with the love he felt for her. "Thank you," he said. "You saved my life."

"No," she laugher. "Shorty's baby saveed it."

"Your men didn't want to let me through, but I come anyway," the Texan drawled calmly.

"But you were magnificent."

She turned to the squaw, Ekawe, who had brought her daughter, Niska, to the hospital. Niska's leg was broken and April was wrapping the cotton fleece about it, preparatory to putting it in the plaster cast. But she said:

"Magnificent?" She looked up at him from her work with a quizzical expresion. "You were magnificent, too. You're always magnificent," she went on, and there was a little note of ruefulness in her voice. "Perhaps that's it. If I married you, I think I'd actually marry the North West Mounted Police, too." She looked at him thoughfully. "There are, you know, other things, Jim. Love, for instance."

"Try me and see."

She laughed a little, resuming her work, and said:

"Duty, duty, duty. You're a slave to duty, Jim. You'll never know anything else until you're beaten to your knees somehow. You—"

But he interrupted. "April," he said, "how can you deliver a baby, set an Indian brat's broken leg, save a man's life and still look like the loveliest woman in the world?"

She hesitated in her work for only a moment. "That was very pretty," she said. She sighed. "And unusual. No Jim, it's too unusual. There wouldn't be time, much time for things like that. There would always be duty." She finished with the fleece and turned to him. "I'm a little afraid of you," she went on, "so I'm answering duty too. As an Anglican Mission nurse I have a new assignment. I'm going to Nova Scotia."

He had faced the breed's murdersome rifle with more equanimity. Now he trembled. Then he said softly:

"I love you." He gathered her to him suddenly and kissed her hard on the lips, unaware of the squaw, Ekawe's, amused stare. "I'll always love you and were you to go to the ends of the earth I'd follow you. Remember that!"

He turned abruptly and left her and did not see the flush on her check, the tears that welled in her eyes. Outside, he met Ronnie. The younger man looked at his superior and said archy:

"Did little sister treat you rough?"

Jim glared, then said gruffly: "Let's ride . We've got to send these demands to Regina tonight."

They rode, then, at a dead gallop to Fort Carlton. It was dusk, when they reached there, an uneasy dusk, gloomy with the growing certainty of the uprising. Inspector Cabot, the commandant, said:

"Batoche will boil over and scald half of Canada. They'll never grant these demands. But I suppose we ought to send them."

Jim took the papers, handed them to the telegrapher.

"Batoche already is uneasy, sir," he said. "I'm sure they're gathering for Corbeau and Riel."

"Have Grove and Fenton reported?"

"No, sir."

The commandant drummed on the table. "Fifty men here," he said thoughtfully. "In all Canada only five hundred Mounted Police." He looked at Jim Bret. "Jim, if the Cree and the Blackfeet follow Corbeau . . ."

"I was thinking, sir," said Jim, "that—"

He did not finish. Outside there was an uproar and a clatter of hoofs and shouts. Inspector Cabot and Sergeant Bret, their nerves on edge, reached instinctively for the guns in their holsters, then stared.

In the doorway stood a man. He was tall, lean, blue-eyed, with little wrinkles at the corners of his eye sockets that betrayed a lifetime of looking a great distances. On his head was a huge white Stetson and he wore the overalls, high heeled boots and tremendous rowweled spurs of the American cowboy. He grinned at the two officers who had their hands on their guns. Swinging at either hip from gunbelts he wore two guns himself.

"Your men didn't want to let me through but I came anyway," he drawled calmly. "I'm from Texas, gentlemen. Lookin' for a murderer!"

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

GRADE CARDS

By T. E. Stallings

Grade cards will be issued throughout the Sikeston schools Wednesday noon, November 6. These cards are prepared and given out with the express purpose of informing all parents as to the standing of each pupil for each quarter of the year. They should be examined carefully and studied by the parents so that they may become familiar with the character of the work done by the child. After this, they should be signed and returned promptly to the school.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that both parents should see the grade card and should know the standing of the pupil in his or her class. To keep up with the work done by the student as he progresses through school is of extreme importance as it will enable the parents to judge for themselves whether or not the child is working up to his ability.

These cards are not the only means used to acquaint parents with the work of their pupils. Practically all of the homes have been visited this fall by home room teachers where a common understanding between parents and teachers could be reached concerning the work of the child. In addition to this, from time to time, unsatisfactory reports are sent out from the high school so that parents may know of poor work done by the child and steps can be taken to remove the causes for such inferior work.

The grades on the report cards will be after the following scheme: "E" for the upper group; "S" for the superior group; "M" for the larger average group; "I" for the inferior group; and "F" for those whose work has not been good enough to be given a passing grade. While it is realized that grades are not 100 per cent accurate because we are all human, parents can rest assured that the child has been rated as accurately and fairly as it is possible to do. All parents should feel free to consult with the teachers of their children at any time it is possible about the work done by the child as it is only through this means that the home and school can best work together for the best interests of the youngster.

Please keep in mind that attendance, attitude toward work, study habits, and other like items have a marked effect on the grade as recorded for your child, even though they are not taken directly into consideration when the grade is based only on the actual work done.

Fairview and York Set Youth Programs

The program committees of the Fairview and York Rural Youth Organization met with Miss Jane Hinote, State Club Leader, and Miss Anne Sillers, New Madrid Home Demonstration Agent, to make out a program for the first six months of 1941.

The following program was worked out by the Fairview committee subject to the approval of the club at the November meeting.

January — "Parliamentary Procedure"; drill.

February—"Dating"; playlet and discussion.

March—"Ladies and Gents"; film strip.

April — Etiquette in Public Place"; discussion.

May—"Making People Like You"; playlet and discussion.

Goals were set: (1) Better attendance and membership increased, (2) 50 per cent take part in discussion at all meetings, (3) everyone take part in recreation.

The Fairview committee is Mrs. Lenzie Beck, chairman, Warren Harbor, Mrs. Archie Cook and Woodrow Beck.

The York Committee was not able to make out the six months program because it was not known what subjects members would be interested in, so only two months' program was outlined, namely, parliamentary drills for January and February.

The York committee is: Cleddie Jones, Chairman, Motel Beck, Harley Shelby, and Charles Harvey.

Recreational committees will have charge of recreation at every meeting.

Extension Round-Up Held at Matthews

The fourth annual roundup for Home Economics Extension Clubs was held at Matthews in the High School gymnasium on Wednesday, October 23.

The program for the forenoon consisted of games led by Mrs. F. E. Story, Matthews, Mrs. P. B. Melton, Canalou and Miss Anne Sillers, Home Demonstration Agent. Mrs. Earl Cambron of Marston and Mrs. Frank Ratcliff of Matthews furnished the music.

Dinner was served at noon in the main building in the room equipped for the hot school lunch.

Features of the afternoon program included a playlet by the Pinder Club followed by a demonstration on how to milk a cow by the Canalou Club. A model cow was used to demonstrate cleanliness and other things to do at milking time in order to produce milk having a low bacterial count. The Neuman Club quartet contributed to the program a negro spiritual sung by a ladies' quartet. The Matthews club pantomined a baseball game; the New Hope Club contributed a vocal solo as did the Catron club. The Risco Club provided a reading with pantomine and the Stubblefield and Marston Club women gave interesting playlets.

Mrs. C. C. Schuttler, editor of the Missouri Farm Bureau News, was the guest speaker. She gave us verbal pictures of scenes she had witnessed while in Europe in 1939. This was the high spot on the program.

Seventeen of the 20 clubs in the county made report of work done during the year. The day was ideal. One hundred seventy-one adults were in attendance. A larger number would have attended if it had just rained Tuesday night thereby stopping cotton picking for the day.

BISHOP BROOMFIELD TO PREACH AT KEWANEE

Bishop Broomfield will preach Sunday evening, Nov. 3, at 7:30 o'clock at the new Methodist Cnurch in Kewanee.

A plant tendril has been observed to make a complete coil around a supporting object in two minutes.

Beware Those Chills and Fever

Chills and Fever are the classical symptoms of malaria, but tiredness, rundown, bilious feeling, pains in back and legs may often precede the advanced malaria stage of chills and fever. It does not pay to tinker with malaria. About 3000 die from it each year, one popular magazine states.

If you have ordinary malaria, occasional constipation or associated biliousness with nothing organically wrong, why don't you try famous Nash's C & L Tonic for glorious symptomatic relief? Take only as directed in the package. Thousands of Southern folks use Nash's C & L Tonic. Millions of bottles have been sold on a satisfaction or money back guarantee. That certainly proves the merits of Nash's C & L Tonic. Mr. Nash, who makes Nash's C & L Tonic right here in the South, asys—

Satisfaction Guaranteed

"If the very first 50c bottle of my medicine does not satisfy you, your dealer is authorized by me to return your money." Price 50c.

ENJOY POUR PARTIES

Don't let petty annoyances interfere with your full enjoyment of social affairs. And how can one thoroughly appreciate the pleasure of life when one must rush through crowds. Or how can one's mind be free of parking worries or thought of a dented fender. Of course the ideal solution is to take a cab. It saves your time and energy. It gives you safe, comfortable convenient transportation. Call a Limbaugh Taxi wherever you want to go.

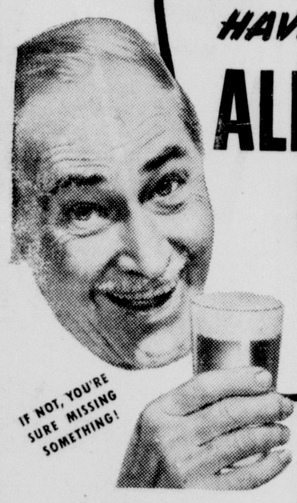
SAY... HAVE YOU TRIED ALL-GRAIN BEER Lately?



SWITCH to STERLING for ALL-GRAIN FLAVOR At Its BEST—and No Waistline Worries

● Don't just ask for beer; ask for STERLING! Today, it's better than ever. Its flavor has a lilt to it. There's a tang and sparkle nothing but natural ingredients can produce. An 8-ounce glass is no more fattening than a fair-sized orange. Even if you must be careful about your waistline, you can still enjoy Sterling . . . all-grain beer at its best.

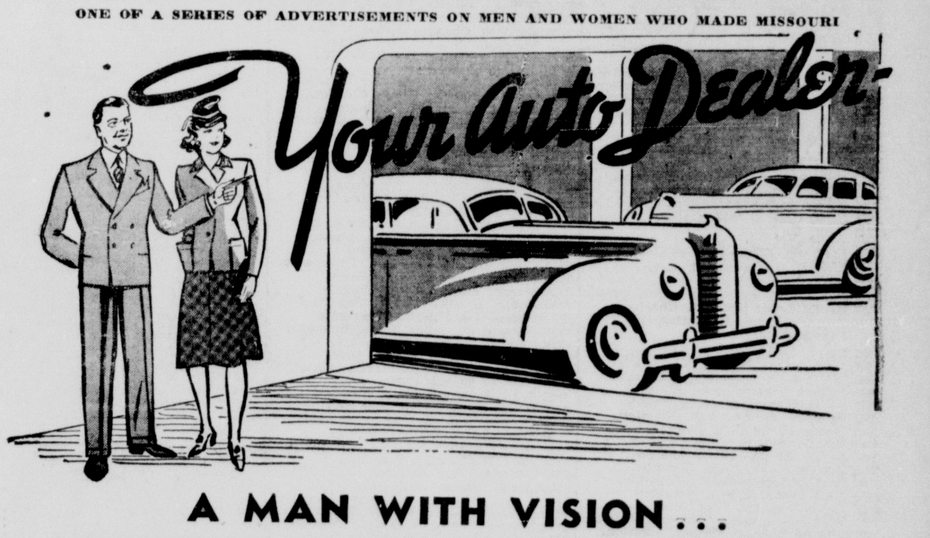
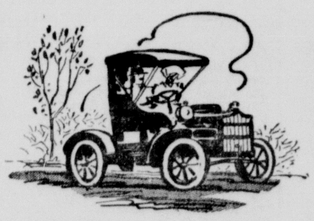
ONE OF A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS ON MEN AND WOMEN WHO MADE MISSOURI



A MAN WITH VISION... WHO HAS HELPED MAKE MISSOURI!



The span of a half century has revolutionized the industrial life of Missouri and the Nation. New means of rapid transportation together with mass production have been the fundamental causes.

Little did the rugged Missouri pioneers, who first treked into this territory in covered wagons, think that a few short years of history would see an average of one strange horseless carriage called an automobile to every Missouri home—making it possible to go from any point in the state to any other point and back again within a single day.

Those Missourians who, at the opening of the twentieth century, took agencies for the first chugging, clanking motor cars were indeed men of dauntless vision. In the face of public ridicule and disdain, they sold a product which they alone could picture as an inevitable necessity.

Today some 1,600 retail dealers are

NOR-GAS
THE BOTTLED GAS

ON A NEW NORGE GAS RANGE

- IT'S THRIFTY
- IT'S EFFICIENT
- IT'S DEPENDABLE
- IT'S EASIER

Faster cooking is as necessary to the modern housewife as faster communication systems and faster transportation are to the modern business man. That's why NOR-GAS, the fastest modern cooking fuel, fits so perfectly into today's energetic scheme of living. NOR-GAS cooking is thrifty and these new NORGE GAS ranges last indefinitely . . . requiring little or no maintenance. Their low operating cost appeals to the modern homemaker's sense of values. So . . . for greater kitchen efficiency, more leisure time, tastier food . . . cook the faster, modern way . . . COOK WITH NOR-GAS ON A NEW NORGE GAS RANGE!

EVENTS OF STUDENT LIFE

CLUB ACTIVITIES

The Comercial Club has appointed two committees this week. Alex Waters, Colleen Rayburn and Betty Jane Taylor have been appointed to try to get a champion typist here for an assembly program. The other committee was appointed to supervise the research on what the alumni are doing.

The next meeting of the Dramatics Club will be held on November 4. On this day Margaret Hart will give a brief talk on antomimes and impromptu pantomimes will be given. Tryouts and rehearsals for the Thanksgiving play will be held soon.

The Forum, sponsored by Mr. Parker, will have its weekly meeting Monday night, November 4 at 7:30.

Two short talks will be given on Willkie and Roosevelt followed by a discussion of the good and bad points of each. This promises to be interesting and everyone is invited.

The Golf Club will have a tournament, beginning Saturday, November 2. The boys have already shot their qualifying scores to enter the tournament. A trophy will be given to the best two teams in the tournament. Teams will be paired according to their qualifying score.

DEBATE TO BEGIN

On Monday afternoon, November 4, all students with average or above grades who are interested in participating in interscholastic debate will assemble in Garland Parker's room. Most of the material for the current question is already in. The debaters will gather evidence, and both Mr. Parker and the participants will construct the speeches.

COMMERCIAL NEWS

Miss Kathleen Newsom, commercial instructor, has given the following data concerning first and second year competent typing tests:

The least errors in first year typing have been made by Leo Jones, who had two, and Lee Bowman, who also had two; the most words per minute by Betty Ruth Limbaugh, who had 18, and Carlene Beasley and Ruth Ann Middleton rated second with 13 each.

In Miss Electa O'Hara's office training department, two students have typed their 40 words per minute in a 10-minute drill with less than 5 errors; Mildred Mathis, 45 words, two errors; Colleen Rayburn, 42 words, three errors.

ASSEMBLY ON AVIATION

In a special assembly last Thursday, Billy Bob Donnell spoke on the possibilities of aviation as a career for high school students. Donnell, a former Sikeston graduate, went to Pensacola, Florida, to take his training and he is now a general instructor there.

The assembly program was presented Wednesday by the Girls Glee Club. The songs were: "Down by the Old Mill Stream," "Someone's in the Kitchen With Diana," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Down in the Woodland," "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair," "The Prayer," "I've Been Working on the Railroad," and "The Night Will Never Stay."

HOME ECONOMICS NEWS

The Home Economics girls who made the trip to Cape Girardeau Saturday, spent the day studying home projects, meeting new people, and learning new ideas. Thirty-six girls from the first and second year classes made the trip. Those who went were Pauline Layton, Wanda Baker, Betty Jo Branum, Betty Husher, Wanda Bean, Ida Lou Littleton, Geneva Schwab, Irene Husher, Margaret Boyd, Rachel Honeycutt, Gloria Frohock, Doris Stunnett, Lucille O'Dell, Peggy Malcolm, Geraldine Vowels, Dixie Bacon, Judy Voelker, Mary Emma Donnell, Dean Stinnett, Ila Mae Fowler, Ruth Struwe, Anita Burch, Imogene Branum, Nadine Greenlee, Frances Williams, Vivian Jenkins, Stella Schuchart, Velma Burress, Lela Mae Grasser, Priscilla Weekly, Crystene Mayo, Yoma De Leo, Bennalee LaCour, Frances Murrel, Thurma Dell Carr, and Carnice Maloney.

The movable closet made by the Home Economics girls has been given to the nurses home at the hospital.

SOUTH GRADE NEWS

The 99 members of the Citizenship Club of the Sixth Grade at the South Grade School will enjoy the annual Hallowe'en party Thursday afternoon. Decorating, entertainment and refreshment committees are completing plans to make this party a large success.

Miss Ragains and Miss Finley sponsor the Citizenship Club.

Two children of Mrs. Keith's third grade have made perfect spelling scores during the month of October. The children are Mary Jane Faris, and Betty Marie Holder.

BAILEY SCHOOL NEWS

Last Monday Miss Betty Belle Donnell's second grade room elected a student council. Each month the student council is to select the best citizen of the room. This "best citizen" automatically becomes a member of the student council for the following month. The other two members are chosen by popular vote. The members of the council for this month are J. F. Cox, Anne Hollenbeck, and Charles Bethune.

Thurman Travelstead's sixth grade room has organized a hobby club. Some of the Bailey School teachers are assisting with the supervision of some of the groups. Such hobbies as stamp collecting, sewing, knitting, soap and wood carvings, and leaf collecting are among the most popular.

SATURDAY LUNCH

You'll find this spaghetti and egg scramble perfect to serve for Saturday lunch when husband and children hurry into the house hungry and eagerly anticipating their afternoon's activities. This dish provides plenty of energy for them to go on and abounds in the elements children need for healthy growth.

SPAGHETTI AND EGG SCRAMBLE

Fry until crisp—
8 slices bacon. Remove from pan, then break into small pieces.
Beat—
4 eggs until light and fluffy.
Add—
1 medium (17-oz.) can cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce.

Cook egg and spaghetti mixture in skillet containing a small amount of the bacon fat, stirring gently, until consistency of scrambled eggs. Add bacon. Season with salt and pepper. Whole slices of bacon may be placed around the platter of scrambled eggs, if desired. (Serves 4.)

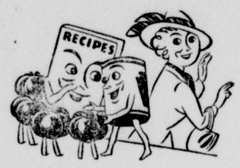
FALL SPECIALTY

One of the most delightful sensations that can greet your family and guests, if they happen to peek into the kitchen before dinner, is the fragrance of baking acorn squash. And one of the most delightful ways to serve it is with a filling of diced pork in a mushroom sauce. Accompanied by such royalty as the squash and the deliciously flavored canned mushroom soup which makes the sauce, the left-over pork is truly delicious fare and worthy of a place on one of your company menus.

BAKED FILLED SQUASH

Cut in half lengthwise—
4 acorn squash.
Remove seeds and brush with melted butter. Place in baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 45 minutes or until done.
In the meantime, melt—
2 tablespoons butter.
Add, blending well—
2 tablespoons flour.
Add, then cook, stirring constantly, until thickened—
1 medium (16-oz.) can cream of mushroom soup.
Add—
2 cups finely chopped cooked pork.

Heat thoroughly. Fill baked squash with this filling and return to the oven to brown slightly on top. (Serves 8.)



AN AFTERNOON OFF

Tuck this recipe for macaroni with fried tomato slices away in your recipe file ready to use when you're planning to take an afternoon away from kitchen duties. You'll enjoy the holiday more, knowing you have such a delicious entree awaiting your family at dinner time. The recipe is prepared with the delicious cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese that comes in cans ready to heat and serve. For the rest of the meal, have a commbination of salad greens chilled in your hydrator waiting to be tossed with a tart dressing. Then bring home some fresh rolls from the baker and for dessert have a jelled fruit combination with cookies.

MACARONI AND FRIED TOMATO SLICES

Prepare—
4 tomatoes by trimming stem and blossom ends from them, then cut in one-inch slices.
Beat—
1 egg.
Add—
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper.
Dip tomato slices in the egg, then in—
Yellow corn meal.
Fry in hot fat until golden brown
Heat—
1 medium (17-oz.) can cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese.

Arrange macaroni in mound on platter and surround with fried tomato slices. (Serves 4.)

SALTPETER CAVES IN N. ARKANSAS CHECKED BY U. S.

Harrison, Ark., Oct. 28.—North Arkansas' famous Bat Caves which supplied saltpeter for Confederate powder plants during the Civil War may be utilized again under the current national defense program.

Cal Thompson, retired Newton County postmaster who now lives here, said the caves had been surveyed in recent years for saltpeter deposits. He estimated that more than 200 tons of saltpeter was available on the floor of one cave and that there were larger deposits elsewhere in the same area.

Most of the caves—best known of which are Christmas Cave and Bat Cave, near Boxley—are flooded with layers of bat guano 10 to 15 feet deep. Thompson said this guano contained nitrogenous matter in sufficient quantity to produce niter (or saltpeter), lime, ammonia, potash and other elements.

One of the deepest deposits is in Slay Cave on Calf Creek, overlooking the town of Snowball in Searcy County. Development of the caves has been hindered, Thompson said, by transportation difficulties, but recent road improvements have made the area easily accessible.

Saltpeter was taken from both Christmas and Bat Caves during the Civil War for the manufacture of gunpowder. Some of the old Confederate machinery is still on the ground at both sites. The Confederate lead mine, near Christmas Cave, is still being worked. Its current operator, J. C. Shepherd, recently announced production of 564 pounds of pure lead.

LABORER SLAYS WOMAN, KILLS SELF

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder and suicide in the shotgun slaying Sunday of Mrs. Pearl Johnson, 32, widow and mother of five children, and the death an hour later of her former suitor, Boyce Oliver, 60, a day laborer. Sheriff Dewey Miles said Oliver drank poison and slashed his throat. His body was found on a country road four miles away. James Walker, 60, was shot in the back at the time Mrs. Johnson was killed, but is expected to recover. The sheriff said Oliver apparently was resentful because Walker had become the favored suitor.

Let's Think About Curtains

It's still a little early to put up the winter draperies, but it's time to give them serious thought. Often, in families, there is some special date when the house must be in order for the winter. In our family it was September 28th, because it was my father's birthday,

Correlating chintz curtains and mohair sofa

and so, the now-vanished days of semi-annual house cleaning took place the week before; curtains and slip covers were cleaned, washed, or new ones made, and any new upholstery work was completed.

If there are to be new curtains and upholstery in the living room, let us say, now is the time to look for the material. Manufacturers and shops are doing a wonderful job in making your choice easy by presenting what is being called "correlated lines." That is, drapery material, silk, chintz, cotton, and rayon; and upholstery fabrics such as mohair, faille, and nubby rayons are being woven to "go together," to form a good color scheme for curtains, sofa and easy chair to match, and a third fabric for the occasional chair. For instance, in the picture of an Early American living room which we illustrate, this principle was followed in selecting the chintz curtains and the mohair for the sofa and chair cushions. The background of the curtains is a soft mulberry with print and birds of bright plumage in yellow and lighter tones of plum with rather definite green leaves. Therefore, a fabric of herringbone weave in green and yellow with a predominant tone of green was the upholstery fabric. Because of the weave, it not only blended with the curtains but with the walls which were straw color. They could, however, have been pale green. Today, in looking for fabrics, don't look just for curtain material or just for upholstery; ask in your shop for a correlated fabric line and you will be shown samples which, you will instantly see, form good combinations of color. Perhaps you like a drapery material with a blue background (blue is fashionable now) with pink and yellow roses and green leaves in it. The same "line" will have a faille, perhaps, or a closely woven upholstery fabric in which the same tones of color are found either in stripes or in the weave. You may like to repeat the blue backgound with a stripe of yellow and mulberry which blends with the deep shades of the roses. In the same group will be a plain solid-color material with the interest in the texture, as there are many rough weaves, which give light and shade which are just what you want for seats of side chairs or the occasional chair. So it boils down to the fact that you use three fabrics which are partners in a color scheme. If there are but one or two sides or occasional chairs, going gay, and use solid yellow (which is the yellow of roses in the curtains) for the seats. Remember always that you can use a little bright clear color as an accent, when you couldn't put a big sofa in it. The same bright color, or the curtain fabric is an excellent choice for pillows on a dark sofa. They do two things: one, bring the pattern into the room, and to relate it; two, give decorative quality to the room.

I could go on and tell you lots of different schemes, but the real point is, have the salesman show you related fabrics.

Mrs. Clyde Reynolds spent the week end with her parents near Charter Oak.

Kinnard Dillon transacted business in St. Louis over the week end.

WHY I'LL VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

By Charles H. Weber

First of all, I am for keeping President Roosevelt in office because of the international situation and our immediate need for strong national defense against any possible emergency.

All along, he has been intelligently alert to dangers that confront America as a result of events abroad. By foreseeing what was coming—long before any other responsible leader did, at a time when men like the late Senator Borah were proclaiming that there would be no war at all—and by acting, first to bring about peace, and then to make our nation secure, the President has demonstarted his ability to guide our nation in this critical period. No one else has shown such ability.

If, in face of our problems, we had a helpless Buchanan or an inept Hoover at the helm, then the people would be justified in demanding a change, to bring in a Lincoln—or a Franklin Roosevelt. But today we have Franklin Roosevelt, a President unsurpassed in the qualities of leadership, of courage, of ability to act when action is necessary, of the integrity that places national welfare about partisan politics—all qualities that are vital today as never before. Then why, I repeat, should the American people take a chance?

But I am also for President Roosevelt for reasons other than the international situation. His domestic program has restored the hope and the courage of the American people, whereas before there was only helplessness and despair.

His program has revealed that the democratic form of government, no less than the dictator forms, can meet the people's needs for economic security and for jobs. His program has shown that democracy also can act with efficiency (yet without loss of any of our basic freedoms) to meet the needs of the masses in these times.

President Roosevelt, by his program of social justice and social security, has caused the masses of the American people to keep their faith in democracy, whereas otherwise they may have been tempted in desperation, to flirt with other ideas of government. And President Roosevelt stands as a bulwark against those who would betray democracy.

With President Roosevelt at the helm, we can be certain that the White House will remain an invincible and needed fortification against all those insidious forces who would destroy our American ideals of freedom, of freedom of thought, of freedom of speech, and freedom of religion.

We know where President Roosevelt stands on that great issue, as well as on questions of foreign policy. Therefore, I stand with Roosevelt—and I believe the great majority of Americans will show in November that they stand with him, too—for a strong America and a democratic America.

JOHNSON GRASS CURTAILED ON EICEMAN FARM

The controlling of Johnson grass on fields seriously infested with this pest has gained momentum on Gus Eiceman's farm, east of Marston during the past 2 years.

Last year a five-acre field was heavily infested with Johnson grass. By keeping it cut off close and preventing seed, the root systems were materially weakened.

This year much less growth was observed, according to Mr. Eiceman, on the field.

About three weeks ago the field was shallow plowed, harrowed and sowed to wheat. Field operations turned up most of the roots of grass still on the land, and with weather conditions as they have been a rather thorough job of eradicating the pest has undoubtedly been done.

Essentials in controlling Johnson grass, contends County Agent Teal, where areas are too large to warrant treatment with sodium chlorate, are close pasturing or keeping the growth cut down close to the ground, followed by shallow plowing in early fall so that the roots are exposed to the sun.

Safetygrams

This column is very much in favor of driver training courses. Every high school in the country ought to have a well-organized program of classroom instruction as well as "behind the wheel" instruction. It is very important that people become familiar with traffic conditions and know the right and wrong about automobile driving.

Individual responsibility must be definitely stressed in these instructions. If the individual persists in taking chances, accidents will result in spite of a well-planned course of instruction. Chance-taking must be eliminated from our driving habits.

Your community should have driver training courses for young and old. Because we have been driving an automobile for a number of years does not mean that we are experts in handling a car.

Learn the right way and drive carefully.

The P. C. Editor Says:

Sen. Hiram Johnson says he is opposed to President Roosevelt's eection on the third term issue. It will be remembered that he ran for vice-president with Teddy Rosevelt who was running of a third term, but of course that was different. Teddy was a Republican and there could be nothing wrong in perpetuating a Republican in office. If we remember correctly the Cape County Post, now so avowedly against a third term, also supported the same Republican in the same campaign.

The more we reflect on what Rubinoff said to his great Moberly concert audience, of which we were one of whom, the worse it seems. The first half of the program was very heavy stuff—lots of action by Rubinoff and many loud and unusual noises from his $100,000 fiddle. The old boy was just feeling his audience out. Like a prize fighter, he feinted, sidestepped, left crossed, upper cut and jabbed, in an effort to discover what would put the audience at his mercy. After getting what he could out of his classics, the great violinist risked everything on, "Oh, Johnny, Oh," a familiar piece with a lilting tune. The auditorium walls shook, the ceiling trembled and the floor almost collapsed from the stomping, handclappings, backslappings, whistlings and cheers which followed. After the cultured audience, of which we were one of whom, had worn itself out and relapsed into a dignified silence, Rubinoff stepped forward and said: "We now approach part two of the program. You will like it better; it's light." And, sure enough, the audience did. Everybody loves music. Not one music-lover in a hundred cares for the ultra-clasical, grand opera, super-philharmonic sort in which only two notes a minute are dispensed. Artists like Rubinoff, who defer to popular tastes for music in which there is melody as well as sound, get all the applause and the largest crowds.—Paris Appeal.

We are told some local Republicans are asking Democrats to vote a split ticket next Tuesday. This would be fine business for the Republicans but you can bet your last doughnut there will not be a single Republican in this community who will vote for a single Democrat, so take warning and when you go to the polls make a cross mark in the circle under the Democratic emblem and drop it in the ballot box.

It is hinted around that the airport people will likely be forced to build houses to take care of their employees should the plant be enlarged as it looks like a holdup to be charged 20 per cent on their investment for houses with few modern improvements.

Highlights of Administration of General McKittrick

During the tenure of Roy McKittrick, the Attorney General's office, through legislative acts and through McKittrick's vigorous administration, has assumed new importance in the roster of Missouri public offices. New laws passed by the legislature—notably the sales tax, income tax and liquor control act, as well as other minor enactments—have more than trebled the duties of the Attorney General.

Despite the increased work of the office, Mr. Kittrick through an economic, efficient and aggressive administration has succeeded in trimming expenses to a minimum, while collecting obligations due the state amounting to more than four times the entire cost of administrating his office.

In the 1933-34 biennium the Attorney General returned $63,759.67 of his regular appropriation back to the treasury. At the same time he collected and turned in to the State Treasury $871,773.15. In the 1935-36 biennium he returned to his regular appropriation $67,325.14, and collected for the state $1,394,633.18. In the 1937-38 biennium he returned $124,645.05 of the regular appropriation for office expenses and collected $1,423,290.80. Collections to date are $4,594,435.71.

The department during Mr. McKittrick's Administration, has received 5,756 requests for opinion from state and county officials, and other entitled by statute to receive opinions. In reply to these requests 5,315 opinions were prepared, and many requests were answered with previously written opinions.

The Attorney General and Assistants spent 1637 days assisting grand juries and in preparing and trying important criminal cases. McKittrick and his Assistants were in sole charge of the Grand Jury in Jackson County in 1939, which returned many important indictments. Eighty-seven of the persons indicted were convicted, and more than $30,000 was collected in fines for the county school fund. He has had charge of other important grand jury investigations which resulted in a number of major indictments being returned. To date 450 criminal cases have been briefed and presented to the Supreme Court.

One of the most important phases of the administration of Attorney General McKittrick has been a series of suits he instituted to protect the policyholders of Missouri and to prevent the waste of impounded funds which had been unlawfully collected.

Attorney General McKittrick, assuming office in 1933, immediately instituted a suit in the Supreme Court against insurance companies to stop them from collecting excess premiums of 16 2/3 per cent from the policyholders. The court sustained the Attorney General's suit on the 7th day of February, 1935, and ordered the insurance companies to cease collection of excess premiums. There had already been collected from the policyholders and impounded, the sum of $1,785,397, from the 1st of June, 1930, and, if it had not been for this suit, the companies would have collected illegally many millions more from policyholders.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

"A vote for names of candidates for president and vice-president is a vote for the electors of that party, the names of whom are on file with the secretary of state."

On receipt of his ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the enclosed space, retire alone to one of the voting booths so provided, and shall prepare his ballot for voting in the following manner: Should the voter desire to vote a "straight" party ticket he shall place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below the party name. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates on more than one party ticket, by voting what is commonly called a "split ticket," he may place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below one party name and mark cross (X) marks in the squares at the left of the name of candidates on other tickets for whom he wishes to vote. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates whose name or names do not appear on the printed ballot he may do so by drawing a line through the printed name of candidate for such office, and writing below such cancelled name the name of the person for whom he desires to vote, and placing a cross mark in the square at the left of such name. The squares so marked shall take precedence over the cross marked in the circle. Where there are two or more candidates for like office in a group a cross (X) mark in the square to the left of a candidate's name, automatically votes against the candidate whose name appears within the same horizontal lines in the column under the circle in which appears the cross (X) mark unless the voter indicates another candidate, to be voted against by drawing a line through such candidate's name. All candidates of the party whose circle is marked shall be counted as voted for excepting where squares are crossed preceding the names of the candidates in other columns if two or more candidates for the same office are thus designed, neither shall be counted. If the cross (X) is not placed in the circle immediately below the party name at the head of the column, but does appear in the squares opposite the various candidates' names, then only these names shall be counted for, and none other. A cross (X) mark is any line crossing any other line at any angle within the voting space, and no ballot shall be declared void because a cross (X) mark therein is irregular in form. It shall not be lawful to deface or tear a ballot in any manner nor to erase any printed name "except as provided above in this section," figure, word or letter therefrom, nor to erase any mark made thereon by such voter, nor inclose in the folded ballot any other surance rate litigation the Circuit Court of Cole County had allowed out of the 16 2/3 per cent impounded funds, $136,000 as attorneys' fees, custodians' fees, etc. The same court had allowed out of the 10 per cent insurance fund $700,000 to lawyers, stenographers, and miscellaneous items. All of these allowances were set aside by the Supreme Court upon appeals filed by Attorney General McKittrick. The Attorney General now has suits pending in various courts of the state to recover $525,000 of these funds which had been paid out before the allowances were set aside, and has also filed suits to recover the large fees received by attorneys under void judgments of the Circuit Court of Cole County.

Since the insurance litigation has been going on for such a long time, it is now apparent that many policyholders entitled to refunds cannot be found. Attorney General McKittrick has therefore filed a suit asking that that part of the impounded fund of $2,360,000 in the 10 per cent case which cannot be returned to the policyholders, be turned over to the state treasury for the benefit of taxpayers.

When it was discovered that the notorious insurance compromise of 1935 was obtained by bribery, General McKittrick immediately filed a quo warranto proceeding against the fire insurance companies that contributed the money used to bribe a former state official. In this suit, which is now pending in the Supreme Court, McKittrick asked that the insurance companies involved in the bribery be ousted from doing business in this state until they restore to the policyholders the eight million dollars ($8,000,000) which they illegally obtained as a result of the bribery, and that they also be punished by fine.

Of vital interest to farmers and dairymen are the efforts of Mr. McKittrick in cooperation with the State Department of Agriculture to prohibit the illegal sale of substittue milk products. The Supreme Court has already upheld McKittrick's contention that Missouri's law forbidding sale of filled milk, in which cocoanut oil is substittued for butterfat, is constitutional.

On June 17, 1937, Mr. McKittrick commenced a war on slot machines which resulted in the elimination of the gambling devices from Missouri. He pointed out to a convention of Sheriffs and Chiefs of Police that slot machines were financing the criminal element of Missouri, and called upon them to stamp out this racket. In cooperation with other officials, Mr. McKittrick caused a state-wide investigation to be made, and information obtained in the investigation was furnished local officers. With the cooperation of Prosecuting Attorneys and Sheriffs "one-armed bandits" which were preying upon the poor and children and financing racketeers, were completely eradicated.

McKittrick instituted a suit in the Supreme Court which established the right of the state to oust an official guilty of misconduct in office by a quo warranto proceeding filed directly in the Supreme Court by the Attorney General. Prior to this time it was generally believed that an official could be removed for misconduct in office only by a slow and ineffective statutory proceeding.

Wendell Willkie's speeches, like the candidate's preliminary build-up, have the ring of a lead half-dollar. Everything about the Willkie campaign from its first feeble chirpings up to the full-throated squawks now rending the air bears the unmistakable stigmata of the counterfeit. The spuriousness of the story of his nomination being in response to a spontaneous public demand is now so generally known and accepted that it is no longer necessary to call attention to it. Neither is any one now so simple as to be taken in by the attempt to give his Wall Street and power trust product the appearance of a plain man of the people by renting a house for him in a small mid-west town and having him roll around on the lawn in carpet slippers.

But these things and those that followed are important elements when it comes to making an appraisal of the Willkie personality and character. For in these fraudulent poses there is not only a conscious attempt to deceive the public but there is also the betrayal of an instability that is not willed or planned. So in the one case we find the man deliberately taking a position for the audience in direct opposition to his real attitude, and in the other unwittingly revealing himself. There is both a split personality that is assumed and one that is real.

Examples in the first category are the pretense of "liberalism" to cover up a membership in Tammany Hall and the strangling of independent newspapers and the corruption of teachers with power-trust money, and the violent assault on Hitler, whom he would "out distance in any contest," in order to forestall possible criticism of him for his pure German ancestry. These attitudes were taken deliberately for effect and it is interesting to note that in respect of the last the Nazi official newspaper in the United States, Deutcher Deckruf und Beobachter, in indorsing Mr. Willkie's candidacy, intimates that he really did not mean what he said but was only making "a scapegoat" of Hitler.

These contradictions are obvious to almost every one. But the unconscious disclosures which are less easily detected are more interesting and important, for they represent a struggle between an enormous egotism and an inferiority complex. In this respect the resemblance between Willkie and Hitler is striking. Hitler before he acquired supreme power and had made conquests was the petty officer awed by his superiors, uneasy in their presence, but beyond their gaze supremely egotistical and with an unquenchable desire to talk. Willkie by his wish "to meet the champ," his frequent references to Groton and Harvard, and his "he can't high-hat me" shows a painful consciousness of inferiority. He is obsessed by it. Every daily expression of this kind is a pitiful plea to be noticed.

But along with this sense of inferiority there is an uninterrupted flow of boastful speech and the assertion of a colossal ego till at his Coffeyville address he ended with an explosion of capital I's like the rain of shrapnel. After a tirade of abuse of the President of the United States such as has seldom been heard, Mr. Willkie concluded in this way: "I warn you." "I say the time is now." "I represent your power." "If you elect me." "I shall preserve this power of yours." "I believe in your sense of responsibility." "I call upon you to help me fight this battle of America." "I call upon you to awaken your fellow citizens." "I say give our country back to us."

IT WON'T STAND UP!

I, I, I, I. It was the violent ego, the dictator concept, rising for the moment out of the subconscious. It could have been taken almost bodily from one of Fuehrer Hitler's old speeches.

WHY I'LL VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

By Samuel P. Gurman

Nationally, before the inauguration of President Roosevelt, the administrations of Coolidge and Hoover, like many before them, were attuned and sensitive to the needs and prosperity of Big Business. Both believed that the economic welfare of our country, of the middle man and working man, depended primarily on the prosperity of the big industrialist, captains of industry, and commercial giants.

Because the initial rise and success of Hoover came with his personal aggressive efforts in the field of economics, he naturally absorbed and shared the prevalent belief in and admiration for the man who made good—that is individualism.

The compass and guide book for the proper economic and political atmosphere were the Adam Smith theories of free competition, laissez-faire, and the least of government—all worked out in the early days of the simple, practically hand, economy of the industrial era.

The inapplicability of these theories to our complex, mass economy was disregarded. All maladjustments were to be cured by some piece of restraining legislation.

It was Franklin D. Roosevelt who saw that radical, remedial changes must be made in our economic and political theories to bring about the betterment and prosperity of the people of the United States. He had the enlightenment to see that the fact that the rich were getting richer, industrial giants making more money, did not necessarily mean that the great mass of our people would be better off; it could, as it did, work quite differently.

Roosevelt had the courage, conviction, imagination and dramatic personality in the great emergency of 1933 into which these policies brought us to cut out a new line of action. The banks, the mortgage people, the home owners, the farmers, the men without a job—all needed him and all gratefully and thankfully accepted him.

New Deal legislation has changed the trend of the theories of legisaltion from restricting us to helping us. The wage and hour act, banking deposit act, Wagner act, National Labor Relation Board, Securities and Exchange Commission, WPA, PWA, CCC, Social Security laws, as well as the housing and farm programs, revived and saved our economy. They put our economic train back on the rails, as President Roosevelt himself aptly put it.

Now the great industrial engineers, Willkie included, want to take over the train and run it to their own destination. These laws are far from perfect and, considering the intensity with which they have been fought, have worked better than could possibly be anticipated. We are now, at least, enjoying greater and sounder prosperity than can be found anywhere in the world.

Nationally, I am for the re-election of Roosevelt because we need his powerful, enlightened and vigorous leadership to entrench, improve and reinforce the New Deal laws.

On international grounds, the reasons for the re-election of Roosevelt are even stronger. Men of the Hoover, Willkie, Chamberlain and Dalladier ideologies have brought the world to a sorry pass. The whole world is in flames. Roosevelt has kept the flames away from us.

When he urged our preparation to prevent that conflagration here, he was called a "war monger." When he showed the unusual perspicacity and vision in his speech at Chicago that dictators should be quarantined, he was condemned and the Chamberlains, Hoovers and Willkie refused to heed his advice.

He is the outstanding leader of the world as a lover of peace. The people of the world trust him, despite personal slights of the dictators. The epithets burled at him at home and abroad of "dictator," "war monger" and "Communist" have not relaxed the grip he holds on the imagination, pulse and hope of the common man the world over. His foreign policies and his neutrality legislation, which he got through Congress against fierce opposition, have kept the fires of war away from our shores.

Should we at this time give up that leadership, vision, knowledge and experience acquired through this period of strain, emergency and stress for the inexperienced, untried Willkie?

There is no prohibition in the Constitution against a third term. The greater hope for the long life of our Constitution is its flexibility. Should we make it more rigid and less flexible by attaching traditions to it? It is not greater democracy to elect the most able and experienced leader when we want him? To quote Washington or any of the other past presidents on that issue is not unlike quoting a cleric of the revolutionary time on his thoughts on flying or telephoning.

In Peru, bridge supports sometimes are made of ropes of castus fiber.

'UNCLE BUD' ROBINSON AT CHURCH NAZARENE

"Uncle Bud" Robinson of Pasadena, Calif., and Dr. T. W. Willingham, the district superintendent of Missouri District, will be present at the local Church Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

"Uncle Bud" is nationally known, having made continuous trips for many years back and forth across the country, and a few years ago he made a trip to the Holy Land.

He is a unique character, a natural born psychologist, a very interesting person and deeply spiritual. Having been converted over 50 years ago when in the rough life of a Texas cowboy, he has a story to tell that is worth hearing.

Uncle Bud gets a crowd wherever he goes. People are always anxious to hear him. A full house is expected Sunday afternoon. The Nazarene people extend a hearty welcome to everyone to come and enjoy this treat with them.

Highlights of Administration

The Western Union Case, which Mr. McKittrick guided to a successful conclusion saved the taxpayers millions of dollars. The Telegraph Company resisted an effort of the State Tax Commission to assess its property at $6,556,192, holding that the proper figure was $2,795,000. The case was contested before the Federal District Court of Kansas City, which upheld the state. Later the Federal Court of Appeals decided for the state. This decision established the right of the Tax Commission to assess utility properties at 65 per cent of their real value, and upheld the contention of the Tax Commission that other property in the state was not under-assessed. If the state had lost this case, the commission would have had to assess other property over the state an additional 35 per cent.

Of tremendous importance to liquor law enforcement was Attorney General McKittrick's successful fight to compel forfeiture of liquor dealers' $2,000 bonds when they violated liquor control statutes.

The Supreme Court recently upheld McKittrick's view that persons licensed to sell liquor by the drink who violated any provision of the Liquor Control Act forfeited their bonds and were subject to a penalty of $2,000. As a result of this decision many undesirable licensees have been forced to discontinue business because they could not obtain such bonds, and there has been a noticeable decline in the number of liquor law violations.

The outstanding record of efficiency, economy and fearless public service made by Roy McKittrick as Attorney General is one of which the Democratic Party may well be proud. He has served the people well and his re-election assures a continued honest and vigilant administration.

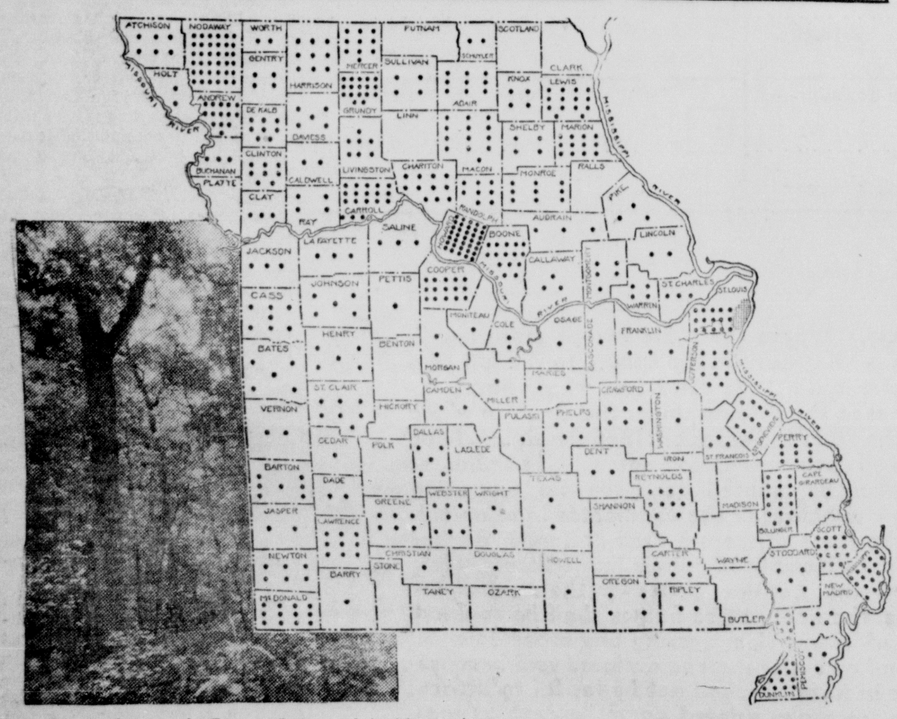
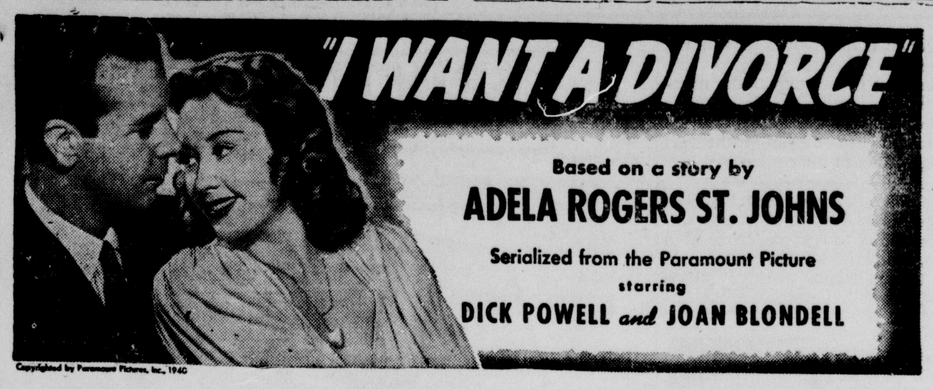
MILLION MORE TREES FOR MISSOURI



Already this year the Forestry Division of the Missouri Conservation Commission has distributed 1,054,919 trees to farmers all over the state of Missouri. The map above indicates where the trees were distributed, each dot representing a farmer who received them. They were sent to 628 farmers in 97 counties. Missouri farmers have been quick to realize the necessity of tree planting, not only to restore the soil of Missouri and prevent increased erosion, but as an aid in the restoration of wildlife in Missouri.

"Milestone Car" Presented to Contest Winners

Presentation of Chevrolet's "Milestone Car"—the 1,000,000th 1940 model produced by the industry's leader—was made at the New York World's Fair last week to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Weinert (shown here), of Iron Mountain, Mich., owners of the millionth Chevrolet six-cylinder model, built in 1929. The Weinerts were winners of a nation-wide contest conducted by Chevrolet to locate No. 1,000,000. As guests of Chevrolet, the Michigan couple drove to New York, arriving at the Fair with more than 110,000 miles on their '29 car, which Weinert had purchased as a used car, at a price of $25. M. E. Coyle (left), general manager of Chevrolet, presented the new 1940 Special De Luxe model to the Weinerts. Chevrolet's production of a million units this year maintains a seven-year record of a million a year average, with the 1,000,000th 1940 car following No. 900,000 by exactly one month. The well-traveled 1929 model has been returned to Detroit, where it will be placed on display.



CHAPTER NINE SYNOPSIS

Allan MacNally, young successful divorce lawyer, pays so much attention to his business that he begins to neglect his beautiful wife, Jerry. When he flies to Reno on an important case, Jerry goes out with her divorced sister, Wanda, and two men friends, on a tour of the night clubs. Allan returns, but Jerry is still out on the town.

CHAPTER X

Jerry wandered wearily in as the clock was striking four. She had been in no hurry to get home, although she couldn't ever remember being more bored in her life. Actually, she was a little afraid of going home. If she didn't find Mac there on her arrival, she didn't quite know what she would do.

But she saw him, hunched uncomfortably in a chair in the living room, dozing. He woke quickly, rubbed his eyes and looked at her.

"Oh, hello," Jerry said very calmly.

She had determined that she wouldn't lose her temper, that she would hear him through without interruption. They must have an understanding, and make an earnest attempt to get back to their old basis, where they had loved each other so much, and when everything had been glorious fun.

"So you've come home," Mac said sarcastically. "Well that's very very considerate of you, I must say."

His attitude did nothing to help Jerry keep her self-made promise. Here he has had me frantic all day, she thought, and he turns on me as though I'd done something wrong.

"Yes, I couldn't think of any place else to go," she said very casually, still holding herself in check. "Have you got a cigarette?"

"No, I haven't got a cigarette," he answered wrathfully. "Where have you been?"

"Hither and yon, hitting the high spots," Jerry said, knowing that she was being irritating.

"Who with?" he screamed at her.

"Wanda—" Jerry started.

"And a couple of boy friends," he finished. "I known that much!"

"Then why did you ask?" she wanted to know.

"Why did I ask?" he said, losing all patience. "My wife's out all night with a couple of men and all she says is 'Why did I ask?' Well, I'm asking, see? Who were they?"

"To tell you the truth," Jerry said, coldly furious, "I don't even remember their names. Look, my little man," she turned on him. "Don't give me that jealous husband stuff. Suppose you tell me where you've been since nine o'clock yesterday morning. Not that it's of any importance, but just as a mater of information."

"Where have I been? What have I been doing?" he asked, hurt at the suggestion. "Working. What I'm always doing—working. Working my fool head off so you can go out dolled up like a sailor's bride with strange men. That's what I've been doing," he said with fine righteousness.

"Oh, poo," Jerry said with disgust. "I'm going to bed."

"So that's it. Your conscience bother you so you're ducking," he taunted her. "Well let me tell you something . . ."

"Oh, no," Jerry interrupted. "You're through telling me anything. You've been screaming enough. Now I'm going to scream for awhile. Ever since you wiped the egg off your chin at breakfast yesterday, I haven't seen or heard from you—and all the while I was ninny enough to sit here praying that nothing had happened to you," she continued furiously. "And the only difference between your thoughtlessness yesterday and the kind you dish out every other day in the week is that yesterday happened to be my birthday, and it made it difficult to alibi for you to my relatives."

Jerry knew that if either of them caught their breath for a second there was a chance of straightening this particular tangle out. But there were so many tangles, and this was just a small part of them. Besides, she rationalized,, he has acted as though I'd given him a dirty deal. If I give in now, it will only happen a hundred more times. This had better be settled and my way, she decided.

Mac was still indignant. The same sort of thoughts were running through his head. His conscience was clear. He had been working and hard, and what thanks did he get. Nothing but complaints and haggling questions. He wanted more than anything to take Jerry in his arms and call off the cross words. But he felt she had been completely unjustified by attacking him.

"I remembered your birthday. I even got a present," he said in a conciliatory way, bring out a small jeweler's box from his pocket.

"I'm not asking for presents," Jerry said scornfully, not taking it from him. "All I'm asking is just a little ordinary consideration. Not much . . . Oh, what's the use?" she said turning out into the hall.

Mac was after her, holding on to her arm.

"Will you listen?" he pleaded. "I'm trying to tell you I had to fly to Reno in a hurry."

"Did you ever hear of the telephone?" she defied him. "It's a great little invention. Or didn't you have a nickel? That's a good alibi."

Then, she solemnly believed all their differences and petty troubles would be over. She wished that they both weren't so angry, but as long as the subject had come up, she figured she might as well have her say.

"Brandon?" she flung at him. "It's always Brandon, Brandon, Brandon. So he whistled and you went to him?"

"Will you get wise to yourself?" he said, lived with anger. "If it hadn't been for Brandon we'd still be in the shoe string class. We'd still be squeezing nickels for coffee and doughnuts."

"And that would suit me," she told him. "My grandparents lived on a shoe string and they'll die on a shoe string. But they'll have each other." There were tears in Jerry's eyes now, and they weren't there from anger. But Mac didn't notice.

"When I'm their age, maybe a shoestring will be okay," he allowed. "Right now, though, I'm reaching for the champagne and caviar! I'm going places."

"Calling your shots, are you?" she asked coldly.

"You bet I am," he answered defiantly.

"Then I'm calling mine too," she said, quietly determined. "It looks as though you and I were up against Brandon for keeps, and nothing I can say will alter that. So we have to face it."

"What are you talking about?" he wanted to know.

"You can go Brandon's way, or you can go mine, but you can't go both," she heard herself saying.

"Didn't you get my message?" he asked, surprised.

"What message?" Jerry said.

"I told a porter in the airport to phone you," he started.

"With a phone in every drug store, you tell a porter?" she queried. "Or you couldn't have phoned from Reno—if you went there? Or wired? Don't expect me to believe such idiotic lies?" she flared at him.

"You're going to hear me out," he told her. "You're going to get it through you head that I did fly to Reno because Brandon . . ."

They had finally arrived at the root of the trouble. Mentioning Barndon's name was like waving a red flag at Jerry. She had been wanting to have this out with Mac for a long while, have him leave Brandon as he had promised to.

"You can go Brandon's way, or you can go mine, but you can't go both," she heard herself saying. "It's plain you don't want to go mine. That's it. Simply that."

"Look here," he shot back. "I've worked hard and I'm on my way up. I've sweated and I've broken my neck to build a fifty thousand dollar a year reputation. If you think I'm going to toss that in the gutter you're mistaken. That's as plain as I can ever make it."

"It's very plain," Jerry admitted, as she walked upstairs. Crying quietly, she packed a few things in an over night case, and walking past Mac, who said nothing and did nothing to stop her, she went out the door, and hailed a taxi to take her to Wanda's.

NEW RENTAL BOOKS PUBLIC LIBRARY

These new books, all of which are appearing on lists of current best sellers, have recently been received at the Public Library.

"Invitation to Live"—Douglas, Lloyd C.

This is another Dean Harcourt story in which he deeply stirs and changes the life of the rich girl, Barbara Breckenridge. Barbara, in turn, met: Sally, a sales girl with a natural talent for drama; Lee Richardson, who let it appear as if he had been drowned; and Katherine, who enjoyed being a martyr, and played an important part in their lives.

"You Can't Go Home Again"—Wolfe, Thomas.

George Kebber's search for truth is continued in this sequel to "The Web and the Rock." Both books are the recollection of the author's own life and his search for the meaning of life. Thomas Wolfe shows the same evidences of genius in this book that he showed in his other works.

"Madame Dorthea" — Undset, Sigrid.

Eighteenth century Norway is the background of this story of Madame Dorthea's adjustment to her husband's mysterious disappearance and her efforts to raise her children.

"Mr. Littlejohn"—Flavin, Martin.

Mr. Littlejohn, tired of the problems and obligations imposed on him by this world's goods, sets out disguised in a mustache to solve the enigma of his own life.

"Trelawny"—Armstrong, Margaret.

Edward Trelawny, a friend of Byron and Shelly, lived a life of incredible adventure, and exciting romance. Miss Armstrong writes of Trelawny with the same sparkling vigor that characterized her former biography, Fanny Kemble.

"For Whom the Bell Tolls"—Hemingway, Ernest.

This is probably Hemingway's best book since "Farewell to Arms." The scene takes place in Spain during the Spanish Civil War; the plot is an attempt of a young American in the Republican forces to blast a steel bridge.

To make one lump of sugar requires three feet of sugar cane.

HARRY S. TRUMAN for UNITED STATES SENATOR

FRANK G. HARRIS for LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

FORREST SMITH for STATE AUDITOR

WILSON BELL for STATE TREASURER

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY OFFERS AN EXPERIENCED STATE TICKET

For United States Senator, Harry S. Truman is a statesman worthy to wear the mantle of great Missourians who have served with distinction in the National Congress. His efforts in behalf of the laboring man, the farmer, the war veteran, the railroads, and other groups of workers and lines of industry, have not only been noteworthy — they have been successful.

Our nominee for Governor is Lawrence McDaniel, whose familiarity with public affairs is comprehensive, covering a long period of years in which he carved a splendid record as Circuit Attorney and Excise Commissioner of the City of St. Louis. He knows the people of the State, knows the needs of the State, and fits this trying hour more than any man. As Governor his chief concern will be the people's welfare.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank G. Harris, Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown, State Auditor Forrest Smith, Attorney General Roy McKittrick and Supreme Court Justice George Robb Ellison are all candidates for re-election. They have well proved their fitness for the offices to which they again aspire. Together with Wilson Bell, the nominee for State Treasurer, they constitute a stalwart group of militant candidates, commanding the admiration and esteem of the people of all parties.

LAWRENCE McDANIEL for GOVERNOR

DWIGHT H. BROWN for SECRETARY OF STATE

ROY McKITTRICK for ATTORNEY GENERAL

NOVEMBER 5

DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE JEFFERSON CITY, MISSOURI

Democrats Generous With Missouri Schools

The Democratic Party since the days of Thomas Jefferson has been committed to the furtherance of public education. The past two Democratic administrations have expressed that interest in a most tangible way. Governors Guy B. Park and Lloyd C. Stark, the last four General Assemblies, and Lloyd W. King, State Superintendent of Schools, have made it possible for Misosuri to reach her peak in school progress.

Democratic General Assemblies have continued the customary practice of allocating one-third of the general revenue for the support of public elementary and secondary schools. Last year approximately thirteen and a half million dollars was distributed by the state for school support. This year the total amount will even exceed that sum. In 1933-34, the amount was but three and one-half million dollars. In addition, the state's institutions of higher learning have been adequately provided for. In recent years the increased appropriations for these instittuions made possible not only sadly needed new buildings but also the extension of the services of those institutions.

Missouri schools, which have been under the leadership of Superintendent King during the last five years, are marching forward. Unusual progress has been made in speech education, in music education and in vocational rehabilitation. Superintendent King has been successful to a marked degree in developing the State Department of Education into a position of educational leadership. He has done this with the cooperation of all forces in the state interested in education. Never have the educational interests of Missouri been better coordinated than at the present time.

Missouri may well be proud of its splendid state educational system—and of Lloyd W. King, who is directing it in so satisfactory and able a manner.

Frosted Sorghum May Be Poisonous

In an effort to splice short pastures, some Scott County farmers are using sorghum fields and second growth sorghum for pastures. Following frost, stock should be removed from these pastures of a possibility of poisoning, warns County Agent Lane. However, this frosted sorghum can safely be used as silage without any worry as to its effect, if the crop is harvested and ensiled just as soon as possible after the frost—particularly a heavy frost. Lighter frosts do not severely damage the crop.

The general utilization of silage made from frosted plants does not differ greatly from the usual precedure. The silage will be safe to feed as soon as the heat and fermentation processes have ceased. As a generalrule the crop will be satisfactory for use after it has been in the silo for seven to 14 days.

Another method of utilizing this damaged sorghum for forage is through cutting and allowing the fodder to thoroughly cure. Though not as safe as the silage process the poisonous property is usually destroyed to the extent that it will not cause death, but may cause scouring. The safetst way to test a crop in question is to turn an animal of little value into the field and observe the effect on this animal before attempting to turn in the whole herd.

MODERNIZATION KEY TO SAFETY IN HOME

The danger of loss to both property and life can be greatly reduced through the proper modernization of property.

Alterations and repairs to residential and income-producing properties will reduce considerably the possibility of fire frequency. Financial institutions qualified under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration make credit available for such improvements.

Faulty wiring systems, faulty gas or other heating systems, and neglect or attics, nooks, and other recesses where spontaneous combustion may work its havoc are considered among the chief causes of fires.

Proper maintenance of existing structures through annual improvement helps combat the menace of fire, contributing vastly to savings in property value, and increasing peace of mind on the part of occupants of the property.

Robins, sparrows, and thrushes often live to the age of 25 years.

According to records, more than 10 per cent of all fire alarms in the United States are for automobile fires.

Forrest Smith's Impressive Record as State Auditor

During the past few years, State Auditor Forrest Smith has made a noteworthy record in his office. Not only has he introduced modern business methods in his department, discarding the antiquated methods in use since the state was formed, but he has given the people of the state courteous and accommodating treatment at all times. He has saved the taxpayers of Missouri thousands of dollars through the efficient and economical operation of his office.

Under the administration of Forrest Smith the sales tax was introduced into Missouri. A new and untried law, it was freely predicted that it would prove unworkable. Auditor Smith accepted the responsibility, however, and has made an outstanding success of the administration of the law. He handled this troublesome question with such care and impartiality that it is now accepted without question by the people of the state and is the chief source of revenue for old age pensions and relief. He has administered this troublesome law at the unbelievable low cost of 1.93 per cent, which is the lowest collection cost of any state in the union.

An idea of the immense amount of work being done through Mr. Smith's direction may be realized in the fact that his office collected over 68 per cent of the general revenue collected in 1939, and this without a suggestion of favoritism or a hint of scandal or fraud.

In the four-year period of 1929-1932, when the State Auditor's office was under Republican direction, there was issued only 590,370 warrants. During the four-year period, 1936-1939, under the administration of Auditor Forrest Smith, 1,875,333 warrants were issued was handled, because of Auditor Smith's modern office system, with a very small increase in cost.

He has conducted the Criminal Cost Department and the auditing of criminal cost bills in such a way that since 1937 all cost bills were paid without the necessity of a deficiency appropriation. This is most unusual in Missouri. Likewise, he has audited and paid all county officer's accounts for the assessment and collection of revenue without the need of a deficiency appropriation. So far as the records show, this is a precedent. In 1933, at the end of the Republican administration, a deficiency appropriation of $221,000 was required to pay these costs in full.

In supervising collection of the state income taxes, Mr. Smith has made an enviable record. During his years of service, changes have been made in the state income tax law placing directly upon the Auditor's office the liability for delinquent tax collections. This has greatly increased the work of the income tax department, but it has been assumed, however, without any appropriations increase. He has forced certain corporate interests to pay income taxes into Missouri's treasury the same as salaried people for the first time in the history of the office of State Auditor, and has brought income tax collections up to high levels. They have increased from $9,000,000 in 1935-1936 to an estimated $15,000,000 in 1939-1940.

Previous to Auditor Smith's tenure in office, county audits were virtually unknown. At present, every county in the state has been audited once and sixty-five have been audited the second time Thousands of dollars have been returned to the state as a result of these audits. But this saving is the least of the benefits accruing to the taxpayers of the state. As an added benefit, inseparable with the close supervision from the state office, the counties are now on a business basis and there has been a material savings locally. A uniform system of bookkeeping, accounting and recording throughout the counties of the state has simplified the relation between the state and local governmental units, something that has long been needed in this state.

He has audited all State Institutions each year as provided by law. This too, for the first time in the history of the office. He has developed in these institutions a uniform system of accounting, an innovation which has proven beneficial and which has simplified the handling of state appropriations for such institutions.

There has been no increase in the cost of handling the gasoline tax refund though this refund has grown by leaps and bounds. In 1933, refunds were made to the amount of $205,179.62. Six years later, in 1939, the refund amounted to over three times the 1933 figure, or $657,439.28. As soon as the unusual growth of the gasoline tax refund became apparent, Auditor Smith discarded the old system in use in the Auditor's office and adopted a new system, efficient and simplified, which took care of the increasing load of work at no additional cost.

There has been a heavy registration of bonds during the administration of Auditor Forrest Smith. During the 1933-34 biennium, bonds were registered to the amount of $12,748,987. The peak of bond registration was reached in the 1937-38 biennial period when a total was registered to the amount of $25,835,830. While there has been no especial increase in the expense of handling this bond registration, the earnings for the state have been far above average. Auditor Smith's Republican predecessor collected $32,258.40 for the state in the four year period, 1929-1932 inclusive. Auditor Smith collected $48,377.45 in the four-year period, 1935-1938 inclusive.

Looking back over Auditor Smith's year in office, it can readily be seen that the record is one of a constant increase in responsibility, a constant growth in the departments of the office against which is balanced a continual striving for efficiency and economy, which necessarily called for a complete revolution in office methods and office systems. Forrest Smith has been equal to the job. He has justified the confidence placed in him by the people of Missouri. He has a record for accomplishments of which our state may well be proud.

Bob Winn Faithful Servant

"One good term deserves another" is a phrase frequently heard but there is one outstanding Democratic official in Missouri to whom the old adage does not and cannot apply—State Treasurer Robert W. Winn.

The Missouri Constitution prohibits the State Treasurer from succeeding himself and that is the one and only reason why the name of Bob Winn, as he is familiarly and affectionately known, will not appear on the Democratic ballot in November. Had it been possible for him to have succeeded himself, all agree that the nomination would have been his for the asking.

Treasurer Winn has achieved an enviable record in the high state office that he occupies. Every division of his large department has been placed on a systematic and efficient basis under his direction to the end that all duties are discharged speedily and with the greatest degree of accuracy. State funds placed in various depositories have been so safeguarded that not one cent of the people's money has been lost during his tenure of office. Other branches of the Treasurer's office, such as the Inheritance Tax Department, have been administered with the utmost satisfaction and at a low expense to the taxpayer. Although the work of his department has increased tremendously in the last few years, Treasurer Winn has performed the additional duties without an increase in personnel, every service posible being rendered the public.

All in all—though handicapped by a small appropriation—Bob Winn will leave behind him a splendid record of accomplishment when he steps out of the Treasurer's office next January.

Missouri is appreciative of his able and distinctive services and the Democratic Party is proud of the manner in which he has lived up to the trust imposed in him.

Former Senator Reed Speaks for Willkie

Former Senator James A. Reed, is being advertised in the Republican press as a speaker to fight Roosevelt on the third term. We know the former senator is a strong believer in the second term because he married Paul Donnell's widow, the famous Nellie Don. When the senator married this widow he also married a big dressmaking establishment which did not believe in collective barganing. It so happens after the senator inherited this gib business through marriage or we should say the second papa of it that he became violently opposed to the constructive labor laws of the new deal. Most all of us have been awarded a great deal of amusement out of watching an old man trying to champion a young woman as against the majority of his countrymen.

Senator Reed, if you will recall, twenty years back, is perhaps more to blame for the condition of the world today than any man we know of in this country. Versatile, selfish, and a judgement over balanced by personal hate, he fought Woodrow Wilson not alone at Versailles but on the Senate floor until America was doubtful. Had it not been for Reed and his type of personal politicians, Germany after it had been conquered by the American soldiers would have been given an economic and stable protective government that it might have built itself into a constructive nation as a cog in a peace world instead of an 'ism government of barbarism. We challenge Jim Reed's sincerity in his fight on the third term, and suggest that he devote all his efforts to the placements and security of his charming young widow wife and that if he does such he will have his hands full.

We suggest also to this man though we know he is a willful hater and an eloquent speaker one fact, namely, Missouri democracy which has honored him considers him now as dead as a Sunday blacksmith's forge.—Paris Mercury.

IN TOP FORM

The Champ came out swinging Wednesday night. His punch was devastating, his boxing was a thing of beauty, and his footwork dazzling. He looked like a million dollars.

In other words, President Roosevelt was in top form in the first of his avowedly political speeches of the 1940 campaign. The world's No. 1 radio personality was functioning perfectly. The magnificent voice, the easy delivery, the skillful balancing of drama and humor, were never demonstrated to better advantage.

The purpose of the speech, as the President stated it, was to "call the attention of the nation to deliberate or unwitting falsifications of fact" by his opponents, and he did the job with the keenest of relish. With a minimum of pointed words, he demolished some of the more fantastic scarecrows of the Willkie campaign. He demolished them without the rant or cant in which the campaign to date has abounded, but with facts, figures and logic.

The President also reviewed the record, and it is, of course, his privilege to present the most favorable aspects of his seven and a half years in office. The contrast between the national hoplessness in the depths of depression, and the revival of morale and of business in the New Deal's years, makes an impressive showing, as does the roll call of progressive legislation. Large-scale unemployment presists, and Mr. Roosevelt carefully skirted that fact, but there is encouragement in the recent months' items of recovery, and in all continuance of the New Deal's ameliorative efforts.

The President spoke explicitly on a subject that has disturbed many voters, the subject of possible involment in war. His pledge was sweeping: no intervention abroad, no secret pledges of any kind to a foreign Power, an arms program for national defense alone. These were highly reassuring words. They were approved by the vast majority of his hearers, for they accurately reflected the country's temper. The public approves, and despite the warmongers' most eloquent pleas, the people will insist on holding the President to his word.

All in all, it was an inspiring and a devasting performance. It was a speech that put new spirit into a campaign that had reached a stage of vagueness and monotony. To give an effective answer, Mr. Willkie must abandon his generalities and get down to points. Any sort of reply will be a colossal job at best—and the President still has four more speeches to make.—Post-Dispatch.

6494 HIGHEST NUMBER IN MISSOURI DRAFT LISTS

Jefferson City, Oct. 27.—The highest possible draft number in Missouri will be 6494—held by a resident of Pemiscot County.

Final revisions at selective service headquarters today fixed that top serial number in the Southeast Missouri county where an unexpected rush of river workers sent the registrations for ahead of advance expectations.

Keep Wildlife Out of Politics!

Why Proposition No. 5 Should be Defeated

1. It is costing Missouri taxpayers $80,000.00.
2. It is an attempt by politicians to regain control of wildlife and natural resources.
3. It will reduce wildlife releases and decrease supply.
4. It will curtail enforcement.
5. It will halt progress in conservation education.
6. It will prevent restoration of soils, waters, forests and wildlife.

Proposition No. 5 is condemned and opposed by the following state-wide organizations:

The Farm Bureau Federation, The Missouri Farmers' Association,
The Federation of Garden Clubs,
The Federation of Women's Clubs, The American Legion,
The Audubon Society and The Conservation Federation of Missouri.

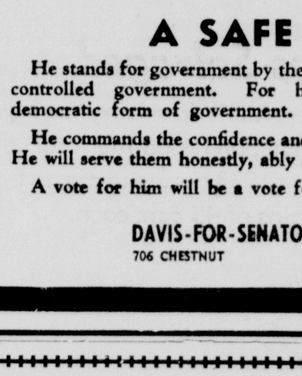
DAVIS for U.S. SENATOR



MANVEL H. DAVIS

A CLEAN HONEST ABLE AND DEPENDABLE FREE MAN

As Missouri's U. S. Senator he will represent all the people.

WHY A MACHINE SENATOR

For six years Missouri has had Harry S. Truman as Senator. He was chosen by and represented a boss-controlled machine. His outstanding effort during his six year's service in the United States Senate was for this machine.

Why should not Missouri people have a Senator who will represent them and look after their interest? Neither Mr. Truman nor any one else has ever offered a valid reason why the machine should have a United States Senator, and the people be without representation.

A FREE MAN AVAILABLE

The Republican Party is offering for the consideration of Missouri voters Manvel H. Davis for the important position of United States Senator.

Both his private and public life has been clean and constructive. He is able and trustworthy. He is under obligation to no boss or machine. He will represent only Missouri People. We hold that the 3,500,000 people of Missouri have a right to select their own Senator. They should do so on November 5.

A SAFE MAN

He stands for government by the people and against machine-controlled government. For honest, economical and a democratic form of government.

He commands the confidence and respect of Missouri people. He will serve them honestly, ably and courageously.

A vote for him will be a vote for good government.

As Farmers Profit Cities Also Prosper

Farm Income Up

In 1932, when wheat was selling at the lowest price in 300 years, the one-fourth of our population engaged in farming had vanished from the market as customers for city goods. But under the New Deal, farm income has doubled.

World Market Sustained

By buying up price-depressing wheat and cotton surpluses from the farmers and selling them to exporters, the federal government has helped farmers to retain their share of the world market. This export subsidy program coupled with the Trade Agreements Program has helped reopen farmers' export markets.

Surpluses Salvaged

Where perishable farm surpluses glutted the market, the government has purchased them for distribution to families on relief. Since 1933 these purchases have totalled enough to load 5,000 trains of 45 cars each.

Electricity Extended

About one-fourth of the farms of this country now have electricity as compared with 1 in 10 in 1932. REA loans will provide service to 600,000 farm families.

Farm Families Rehabilitated

Rehabilitation loans have enabled 600,000 destitute farm families again to become selfsupporting. Tenants are becoming owners through the land-purchase program.

Money Goes to Town

Farmers are now able to buy as much from the city as they did in 1929. Retail sales of rural general merchandise have gone up by 102% since 1932. . Farmers bought their share of the great increase in durable goods and autos.

Home Market Restored

A world market for the farmer's staples has meant the revival of city factories. Farmers with foreign markets are farmers with money in their pockets. One-fifth of all the factory workers reemployed since 1932 have gone back to work because of increased purchases by farm families. Then those factory hands became purchasers too.

Cities Are Better Fed

The cities get this surplus food to feed their needy people, and thus build up this country's health defense. The corner grocer also profits where surplus distribution is done under the Food Stamp Plan.

Appliance Sales Up

Arrival of electricity on American farms meant purchase of farm machinery, stoves, washing machines, irons, refrigerators, water pumps, plumbing supplies.

Debts Paid Off

Families borrowing under Farm Security have repaid nearly a third of the money loaned to them, and with their credit made sound are community assets, not liabilities.

"The amount of commodities which farmers buy is necessarily limited by the purchasing power of their commodities in exchange for city goods and services. This is the heart of the farm income problem and the basis of an important part of the city business problem."—Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture.

Their issue of The Standard will prove one of the most sought-after papers for a long time.

Local Men Undergo Their First Draft

Sikeston and vicinity participated in the national draft lottery Tuesday by listening to the radio, scanning newspapers for serial and order numbers, and expressing their sentiments in no end of conversation.

In America's first peace-time conscription, the first man to be named in the draft in Scott County was Claud Finley, unmarried Blodgett farmer, 30 years old.

FIRST IN SIKESTON

The first Sikeston man was Morris Ellison French, 29, married and an employe of the Missouri Utlities Co.

Of the first one hundred order numbers in Scott County, fifty-one, or just over half, are those of Sikeston men.

(Names of the first one hundred persons in the draft are listed in a group in this issue.)

MEN LOOK FOR NAMES

The office of the Standard was swamped Tuesday afternoon, Wednesday and Thursday by registrants seeking their serial numbers, which were being set in type for this issue, except for the first 908 printed in the Tuesday edition. Callers scanned galley proofs as soon as they came off the proof press in search of their names.

The Benton office of the Draft Board likewise had a crowd of men looking for serial numbers, which were posted on bulletin board in the courthouse.

Portageville, Gideon Lead Madrid List

Portageville and Gideon led the list of the first ten men drawn in the draft lottery Tuesday from New Madrid County.

Four registrants including the first two drawn are of the Portageville community while the Gideon area also supplied four.

The distinction of holding No. 158 and being at the top of the list goes to I. K. Douglas, about 30 years old, of Portageville. He is married.

Next on the list is Dewey Monroe Todd of Portageville, whose serial number, 192, was the second to be pulled from the bowl at Washington.

REST OF FIRST TEN

With a total of 5727 registered in the county up to Thursday, others in the list of the first ten, with their serial numbers, are:

No. 3 — 4779 — James Duke. Gideon.

No. 4 — 5485 — Jesse Willard Cooper, Portageville Rt. 1.

No. 5—5375—Ernest Truman Newberry, Conran.

No. 6—4880—John David Elan, Gideon.

No. 7—4928—Louis Otto Willoughby, Gideon.

No. 8—105 — William Charles Crowe, Portageville.

No. 9—4861—Arlis William Billington, Gideon Rt. 1.

No. 10—5527—Matthews Brown, Morehouse, Colored.

Brown is the only negro in the first ten.

VARIES WITH SCOTT

Because New Madrid County had over 1600 more registrants than Scott County, whose total was 4089, there is a vast difference in the order numbers of the two counties. Those between No. 2 and No. 8 in New Madrid were discarded in Scott for being too high, so that No. 105 is third on the Scott County list. No. 188, which is seventh in the Scott County rotation, belongs to Willis Monroe Bland of Portageville Rt. 1, who stands eighteenth in New Madrid County.

Circuit Clerk Tom Lee, chairman of the New Madrid County Draft Board, said he expected orders by Monday from the government giving instructions about sending questionnaires to the quota of draftees to be called before the board.

T. E. L. CLASS

The T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Milburn Arbaugh Tuesday evening, November 5, with Mrs. Dean Marshall, Mrs. Boyd Scillian and Mrs. C. H. Lewis as assistant hostesses.

Scott Board Awaits Quota Set By Army

Scott County's Draft Board will wait until the United States Army sets the quota to be called before sending out the eight-page questionnaires to the designated group, according to Circuit Clerk Leo Pfefferkorn, secretary of the board.

Now that the order numbers have been determined by the draft lottery drawing in Washington on Tuesday, those whose numbers came early on the list can expect after receiving questionnaires to be called to Benton for an official appearance before the board and also for medical examination.

BOARD WEIGHS CASES

The board will determine if they shall be called to service or deferred because of dependants, physical disability, essential occupation or other cause.

The first number out of the goldfish bowl at Washington, No. 158, was the serial number of 6,175 men in as many draft areas in the United States.

To call up the 800,000 the Army wants on the first draft call, each draft area must supply, roughly, 130 men.

MAY CALL UP TO 650

Officials have estimated that only one man out of five will be eligible when exemptions are considered, so that 650 persons must come before the board in order to get the county quota for the army.

Any person whose order number is higher than 650 may be fairly certain of not being called to service this year.

All metropolitan papers carreid the order of the drawings in Washington.

South Carolina Governor Here

Governor B. R. Maybank of South Carolina, in Southeast Missouri on a speaking tour for the Roosevelt and state Democratic campaigns, made Sikeston his headquarters from Tuesday until Thursday.

Gov. Maybank spoke at Democratic gatherings Wednesday in Greenville, Mo., in the afternoon and at Bernie in the evening, after addressing a rally at Morley Tuesday evening.

The Governor and Mrs. Maybank, arriving here Tuesday afternoon for the speeches from St. Louis, were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Coleman until Thursday morning, when they left for Caruthersville.

The South Carolina executive was scheduled to speak Thursday evening at 7:30 at Caruthersville, at New Madrid 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, and on Saturday has two speaking engagements, at Doniphan at 3 p. m. and at Kennett at 7:30 p. m.

Scott Democratic Attorneys Endorse Judge Ellison

All Democratic attorneys in Scott County have endorsed George Robb Ellison as a candidate for re-election to the Supreme Court, according to Attorney Robert Dempster of Sikeston.

Judge Ellison, of Maryville, has served one term and has made an outstanding record, he said. Even Republican metropolitan newspapers have praised the record of Judge Ellison.

He was appointed in 1927 to a four-year term as Supreme Court Commissioner for a four-year term. He was elected Judge of the Supreme Court, Division 2, for a 10-year term, which expires this year.

Lawyers in seventy-nine counties throughout the state, a total of 775 attorneys, have endorsed Ellison.

SIKESTON MEN LEAVE FOR NAVY DUTY

Jerome "Romey" Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, and Leonard Colley, son of Mrs. Gertrude Colley, left here Wednesday en route to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., to begin serving an enlistment in the United States Navy.

List of First Hundred Scott County Draftees

Listed below are the names of the first one hundred men drawn for the draft Tuesday. Army officials estimate that, with 6175 draft areas, approximately 650 men will be called from each area to obtain the 800,000 men desired by the army. Of the 650, it is expected about 130 will be chosen, the remainder being deferred by exemptions.

158 Claud Richard Finley, Blodgett.
192 Clarence Hicks, Vanduser.
105 Robt. Clayton Cooper, Chaffee.

FIRST SCOTT DRAFTEE GRINS ON HEARING NEWS

"Yeah," grinned Claud, at the edge of the cotton field.

Claud Richard Finley, aged 30 and unmarried, had just been informed by a Standard representative that he was Public Draftee No. 1 in Scott County. He was located Tuesday afternoon picking cotton with his father and mother in a field near their home, four miles east of Blodgett.

Asked what he thought about it, Claud good-naturedly replied:

"Oh, there's nothing to think."

Three neighbors who had been chasing, unsuccessfully, a yearling heifer in an adjoining cornfield, ventured up and wondered how soon Claud would have to report to the Draft Board.

"I'm not worrying about that," remarked the draftee, who is six feet two inches tall and weighs over 200 pounds. "I won't have to go today."

Asked if he had any reason for claiming exemption, Claud said he knew of none, "unless it would be for helpin' my parents."

His father, Robert Richard Finley, said Claud helped them with the farm work and contributed to their support. Whether he would be deferred under the classification as essential to agriculture is a matter for the Draft Board. He said he had estimated the board would have to call up 500 men to get 100 eligible for the first draft.

Figuring pay, clothes, board and room while in the army, Claud estimated he would be making more money in training than in farm work.

Claud said he had no girl friend, so there would be no tearful parting.

The No. 1 draftee registered at Blodgett and his registration card, in the shuffle at the Benton draft office, received No. 158—the first number Secretary of War Stimson pulled from the draft lottery bowl at Washington.

Finley was born on the Chewning farm about six miles east of Benton on Highway 55 and has lived all his life in Scott County. He attended Owensby and Lemmons schools. With his parents, he lives on the J. W. Moore farm on Highway 55, about four miles east of Blodgett.

There are four sons in the family. Three had to register, but only Claud is a bachelor. Coda Finley, who lives near Blodgett, and Clarence Finley, of St. Louis, are under the 35 age limit. Both have four children. Lee Finley, who is married but has no children, was above the maximum. He lives closer to Charleston.

Just one thing bothered Claud. When he received the registration certificate to carry with him, the clerk switched answers during the rush and checked him as having brown eyes and blue hair. Claud noticed it later and would live to have it corrected.

This is the first time Claud ever came out first in a drawing; for that matter, the first time he ever had his name in a lottery, as far as he can recall. He never tried to win in a bank night, turkey raffle, quilt contest at a church bazaar, or the like.

"Never had time for such things," he said.

Small Girl Hit by Car on Grid Field

An automobile that crashed through a fence traveled the length of the football field at the High School Monday afternoon, hitting a small girl who was playing on the field but not causing serious injuries.

The car, driven by Mrs. Benjamin B. Schade, wife of the purchasing agent at the airport, was traveling east on Woodlawn, which comes to a dead end on Moore at the west end of the grid field. At the intersection, Mrs. Schade intended to step on the brake but pressed instead on the accelerator, becoming unnerved when the car lept forward.

Luckily, Coach Green had just called the football squad onto the bleachers for a discussion, and the field was clear of players. Crashing through the wire fence, the car ran the length of the field, coming to a stop against a pile of dirt by the swimming pool project. Jo Ellen Standley, 2½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Standley, romping on the field with some other children, was grazed as the car went past. She received a cut across the right cheek and a few minor scratches and was treated by Dr. M. G. Anderson.

BAPTIST CIRCLE TO HEAR BOOK REVIEW

The members of the Business Women's Circle of the First Baptist Church will enjoy a pot luck supper at the home of Mrs. Milem Limbaugh Monday evening, November 4, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. Following the supper hour Mrs. Limbaugh will give a review of the book "Rebirth of a Nation," by Jacob Gartenhaus.

In Charge of County Demo Tour

People desiring to join in the big Democratic motor parade throughout Scott County Monday are asked to contact J. S. Wallace, candidate for re-election as State Representative, who is chairman of arrangements. The caravan will leave Benton at 7:45 a. m. and conclude the tour at 7 p. m. in Illmo, where a rally and free motion picture show will take place. A full itinerary is given in a story on the front page of the third section.

Farmer Falls Under Truck, Fatally Hurt

Attempting to jump from a truck on which he was riding as it swerved to avoid another truck, Charles Kirkpatrick, 35-year-old farmer, was fatally injured at 7 o'clock Monday evening on Highway 61 at the Matthews lane.

Kirkpatrick was crushed beneath the wheels of a large transport truck on the highway.

LIVES THREE HOURS

He lived for three hours, dying at 10 o'clock at the Sikeston General Hospital. He suffered a severely crushed skull, both legs badly broken, crushed chest, broken neck, broken collar bone and abdominal injuries.

The truck carrying Kirkpatrick had gone to Matthews with some grain and was returning to the farm where he lived, about two miles east of Highway 61, when the accident occurred, it was learned.

With the owner of the truck, John Riley, negro, Kirkpatrick was riding on the rear bed of the truck, driven by another negro, Charles Hudnall, 40, Matthews Rt. 2, it was related to Sgt. Melvin Dace of the State Patrol. There were no sides on the bed, and Kirkpatrick sat with his legs dangling over the left side.

SWERVES TO AVOID CRASH

Hudnall came to the highway and in an effort to avoid hitting the southbound transport, an East Texas Motor Freight hauler driven by Charles R. Whitehead, 36, of Blytheville, Ar., swung to the south also.

Riley heard Kirkpatrick shout, "Jump John," but the negro rolled backward on the truck bed. The trucks did not collide. Kirkpatrick jumped and fell under the transport.

OPERATED FARM

The farmer had been connected with his brother, F. C. Kirkpatrick, who died last April 20, in the operation of a 3000-acre farm east of Matthews. His mother, Mrs. Maggie Kirkpatrick, died a month ago in East St. Louis.

Surviving are a brother, Alec Kirkpatrick, of Saltillo, Miss., and a sister, Mrs. Mary Keyes of St. Louis.

He was born May 20, 1905, at Saltillo. Mr. Kirkpatrick and his brother came to this section two years ago.

The remains were removed to the Albritton Funeral home and shipped by train Wednesday morning to Tupelo, Miss. Rites were held Wednesday afternoon at Saltillo.

Flag Drive Begins Friday

A drive to sell American Flags in Sikeston will begin this Friday, Nov. 1, it was decided by Henry Meldrum Post at its meeting Monday night at the armory.

The Flag committee, Loomis Mayfield, Ben Welter and Jean Hirschberg, reported a hundred Flags had been purchased. The Legion hopes to sell one for every business house and residence and to urge all to display the Flag on all national holidays.

For uniformity, only one size was ordered, three by five feet, with standard mounting poles, to be set either on the lawn in front of the residence or mounted at an angle from the house. Prices will be found in an ad in this issue.

Col. Harry E. Dudley, commander of the 140th Infantry, and Capt. Wade Shankle, commander of Company K, invited members to join the Home Defense Unit being formed here to replace the National Guard, leaving soon for a year's training camp. Twelve Legionnaires have joined, and at least twenty more are expected to join within the next week.

There will be no regular meeting of the Legion until Nov. 18, as most local members plan to go to Kennett for the district Armistice Day celebration on Nov. 11.

LEGION AUXILIARY

The Auxiliary of the American Legion will meet at the home of Mrs. Jean Hirschberg Tuesday night, November 5, with Mrs. Loomis Mayfield as assistant hostess. The meeting will open promptly at 7:30 and all members are requested to be there on time.

Air School Plans Expansion to Train Up to 240 Cadets

Third Hangar, New Barracks Sites Being Laid Out; to Be Completed by December 20

Contemplating its first major expansion only seven weeks after the opening, the Missouri Institute of Aeronautics has a contractor laying out the site for a new barracks and a third hangar, anticipating a class of 240 cadets by the first of the year.

Construction will likely start in the next few days, and the buildings should be ready for use by December 20, according to A. B. Woodbury, general manager.

The Board of Directors of the Institute will meet Tuesday to discuss the three-fold enlargement.

COUNTY LISTS ORDER NUMBERS UP TO 4089

All numbers drawn in the draft lottery which are larger than the highest Scott County number will be discarded in determining the order in the County, Circuit Clerk Leo Pfefferkorn, secretary of the county Draft Board, said Tuesday.

Up to five o'clock Tuesday afternoon, there were 4089 registrants in the county. So, in the lists printed in the metropolitan newspapers, the registrant should find his serial number in the list, cross out all preceding numbers above 4089, and then count from figure at the top of the list—No. 158—to determine his order number.

A few more men between 21 and 35 years may register in the meantime, raising the total above 4089 by several, but it will not materially affect the person's order number and chances of being called to service.

A man's number might be well down the list in the national drawing and still close to the top in the Scott County listing. For instance, the third man on the Scott County list, Robert Clayton Cooper of Chaffee, is eleventh in the national drawing. However, eight numbers above his are higher than 4089 and hence are not considered in Scott County.

Sikeston Man, Who Had Lost Number, Stands Last on List

Two Sikeston men had numbers which were declared missing after the drawing was completed in Washington. That of Otis Herman Parks, 1835, was never found, along with five other numbers too high to affect Scott County.

Another number, 1033, that of Robert Lee Stone in this county, was said to be missing at the end of the main drawing, but later it was discovered that it and another supposedly lost number already had been drawn, in order 8998.

A "junior lottery" of the six missing numbers was held, and Parks' number was next to the last in the nation, No. 9001, and as far as Scott County is concerned he is at the absolute bottom of the list. Parks' mail address here is general delivery.

Officials could not explain how the six capsules came to be missing, but thought they might have dropped into the coat sleeve of some official doing the drawing, or could have fallen to the floor in the long session.

MISS GARTEN WILL REVIEW AT POPLAR BLUFF

Mrs. Kathryn Turney Garten of Indianapolis, Ind., noted in the literary circles of Indiana and Missouri, who has made several appearances in Sikeston, will be in Poplar Bluff on Sunday afternoon, November 3, to review "The Bible Designed to be Read as Living Literature," by Bates. The review, which will be held in the high school auditorium, will be held under the auspices of the Poplar Bluff Study Club. This is the same review which Mrs. Garten gave in Sikeston in the spring.

SEE 320 EVENTUALLY

With slightly less than 90 students now enrolled in the primary training of the United States Army Air Corps, the Institute has been considered seriously by the War Department for a capacity of 320 students, it has been learned here. This would require still another dormitory.

It is possible that after enlarging to accommodate 240 cadets, a further expansion will be in order, Mr. Woodbury said.

W. L. Wimmer of East St. Louis, contractor on the all the present buildings except the hangars, is laying out the site of the new structures.

Each of the two dormitories now in use have a capacity of 72 students, and another dormitory would be the same size. A third hangar, with a uniform capacity of 28 planes, would bring the total capacity to 84.

SECOND HANGAR RISING

Construction of the second hangar, begun nearly a month ago, is progressing rapidly, and most of the steel frame work has been put in place.

The flying school requires one plane to approximately three students.

Increase in the number of cadets would mean more civilian instructors of the institution founded by Oliver Parks of East St. Louis. Having 19 employed now and needing one for every five students, the school would need 48 instructors for the 240 cadets expected by the first of the year.

The United States Army personnel, which now consists of four officers and eight enlisted men, might also be increased.

Under the initial expansion, probably the one auxiliary flying field north of the city would be needed, Mr. Woodbury said.

BIGGER ARMY PROGRAM

Necessity for the larger flying school may be indicated in the War Department's defense program, which was raised recently from 12,000 to 15,000 pilots per year. Shortly before it was advanced from 7000 to 12,000.

The Institute now has the two barracks, a class building, cafeteria, administration building, one complete and one partially built hangar.

ARMY RECOMMENDS SCHOOL AS MODEL

A Cincinnati man, planning on founding an aviation school to train army cadets, recently asked Army officials in Washington to name an ideal school he could inspect as a model. The Army suggested the Institute at Sikeston, and the Cincinnati man paid a visit to the school here a few days ago.

Expressions From Without

THE REAL "INDISPENSABLE" MAN

Dear Colonel Blanton:

Speaking of "Indispensable" men—A realization has suddenly seemed to dawn on thinking voters of America that right here in our midst we may have that very chap. His name is Wendell Willkie if you don't happen to have heard of him before and he came to public notice some four months ago at a Republican National Convention. His chief recommendations at that time are reported to have been a finesse in selling Kilowatts and a "get the money" record as a Wall Street Attorney. Since that convention the public has received vast information from many impassioned speeches of Mr. Willkie. He admits openly that he has a list of all governmental diseases and "By Jeeminy" he also has a sure cure for very single one of them—all written down in his note book—and he is ready now to treat his patient—Uncle Sam. The only thing in the way is that he must be elected President first and then "recovery" starts. The morning after he takes his seat in the White House each of the millions of unemployed will have a job waiting for him and promotions are going to come to all the balance of us poor mortals rapidly. This incomparable Kilowatt Expert—Lawyer from Wall Street seems to have, according to his own testimony, not only "somethin'" but Everything on the ball. This gentleman's attitude indicates he will direct Battle Ship builders to turn out a big one each day—at least one major Tank every hour while airplane assemblers will be expected to shovel molten steel into one end of a machine and every few minutes discharge at the other end one complete bomber—fully equipped—armed and manned by an American Ace who with automatic fuel drawn from the skies will tear out across the Atlantic to stop Hitler. Some Man—this Mr. Wendell Willkie. One may gather from his radio conversations that he will be perfectly willing if elected to even give his personal endorsement on all Social Security Insurance Policies in case owners of them do not feel perfectly secure under the signature of Uncle Sam—alone. And—further—Mr. Willkie assures us he will bring added prosperity to farmers, put all small business men on their feet, Yes—and "kep us out of war" too—while chickens fatten in every garage and autos drop in every pot—or is it the other way round? To be sure all these blessings can not arrive until the first Bull Session of Kilowatt Congress convenes. When those boys get together taxes will be reduced and reduced and reduced to an irriducible minimum—if you know what that means.

All this is "somethin'" ain't it Colonel? Like makers of "Peruna" who agree to cure everything from Female Trouble to Malignant Hookworm—Mr. Willkie is surely going full speed ahead on promises. His complete menu of claims and promises may be thoroughly answered by that old piece of street slang boys use when one of their number does too much bragging, viz; "all who believe that—stand on their heads".

I can almost hear you ask—"Do you expect me to print that dam foolishness?" You may use your own judgment about that. I do admit that most of it is rather exaggerated—and reckless—but as compared to the "Know It All" attitude of Willkie—these few comparisons are a very poor second.

That indispensable Man? Republicans don't have to leave their party to find him. If he can muster ten per cent of his claims—Willkie deserves that compliment.

COMMON SENSE.

P. S. to friends:

Bring your whole familly and meet me at the polls Tuesday and lets join hands and ballots for Franklin D. the President who has done more for common people like you and me than any other man in three generations.

Bomb Reported Found on U. S. Army Transport

Panama, Panama, Oct. 29.—An official source aboard the United States army transport Republic refused to confirm or deny today a seaman's story that a time bomb had been found aboard the ship shortly after it sailed from San Francisco Oct. 18 with 3000 soldiers and passengers.

According to the seaman's story, H. F. Dodd ,the ship's master of arms, found in the after hold a box containing "a mechanical contraption" and enough nitroglycerin to blow the vessel "clear out of the water."

Dodd was said to have carried the box on deck, "praying all the way," and dumped it overboard. Most of those on the Republic were unaware of what had happened, the seaman said.

An inquiry was reported held aboard the Republic following its arrival here yesterday, but Col. Joseph Bibbs, the ship's adjutant, answered queries with: "I have no statement to make."

The Republic was expected to sail from Cristobal for New York tonight after making the eastward passage through the canal.

The city of St. Louis has had an awful struggle to abate its smoke nuisance and thinks it just about has the problem licked. A quicker and surer plan, a writer in the St. Louis Star-Times suggests, would be to elect Mr. Wendell Willkie president, calling attention that in most of the Hoover administration the smoke was not bothersome at all.—Caruthersville Democrat.

BULLDOGS HOST TO BLUFF IN LOOP CLASH

With both teams undefeated in conference play, one team is certain to be eliminated from consideration, unless Charieston later should defeat the winner and succumb to the loser, which would leave the loop in a three-way tie.

Comparisons mean little in forecasting the winner. Poplar Bluff eked out a 7-6 victory over Perryville, although decisively outplaying the Pirates, and Sikeston tromped the Perry County eleven, 26-6. On the other hand, the Bulldogs rang up two touchdowns in beating Jackson, 14-0, while the Mules ran will against the Indians, 38-14. Sikeston bumped East Prairie, 51-0, and Poplar Bluff sailed through Kennett, 44-6. The Bulldogs also have the 21-14 victory over Christian Bros. of St. Louis.

Each team has a set back, the Growlers to Dexter, 7-6, and Poplar Bluff to powerful Crystal City, 7-0, last week.

"Torchy" Godwin has the best crew assembled under him since he took over the coaching reins at Poplar Bluff three seasons ago. His team is strong on passing and has used the shovel pass to great advantage this season. It will be up to Sikeston to stop the passing attack in order to overcome the Mules.

POPULAR BLUFF LINE

The Bulldog line, who put up a valiant and more-than-equal battle against the crushing power of the Dexter line, will not be faced with so much tonnage against the Mules. Coach Godwin's line, if he uses the 165-pound Troy Pinkston at left tackle, will average a little over 159 pounds. But if the bluky Melville Nunn, at 210 pounds, is started, the Mules will have a line averaging 166 pounds.

The usual starting line for Sikeston averages 165 pounds.

This is not to say that Poplar Bluff will not have some good sized men in the wall. Coach Godwin plays his tackles big. John Bryant, on the right side, is 175 pounds, so Pinkston is the lightest of the tackle trio. Light, fast guards, are in the starting lineup, Oscar Hopson and Glen Gillis, both registering about 145. A husky one at left end is Francis Williams, 180 pounds, while Charley Couch at the other outpost is 152, about the same weight as James Allen, the center.

MULE BACKFIELD

In the backfield, Poplar Bluff has two 160-pounders, Boots Glaze and Sonny Walker. Buddy Shadle is 150 and Buddy Walker 145. The backfield averages 154 pounds, and Sikeston's 161.

With Harold Taylor still nursing a broken bone in the hand, Coach Green pobably will start Billy Orr in the blocking back position.

The Sikeston-Poplar Bluff contest here Friday night will be the Homecoming Game for Sikeston High School. All Bulldog alumni who have lettered in any sport can obtain tickets to the game free by registering with "Sheik" Jones, president of the Alumni Association.

MARILYN MAYFIELD IS HALLOWEEN HOSTESS

Marilyn Mayfield was hostess at a Halloween party Thursday night from 7:30 to 9:30 at her parents' home on Center Street. The rooms were decorated with witches, pumpkins and colored lights and the favors and refreshments carried out the same theme. The following guests were invited to attend in masked costumes: Ruth Ann and Buddy Forrester, Margaret Ann White, Barbara Ann Canedy, Barbara Bethune, Mary Ann Tomerlin, Mary Eugenia Blanton, Alice Martin, Frances Ann Newsum, John Kendig, Betty Ann and Billy Northington, Gene Hirschberg, Virginia Bowles, Eddie McAmis, John Caverno, Barbara Jean Guthrie, Harold Coleman, Janet Stevens, Dot and Charles Matthews, Sue Sikes, Jack Bowman, Frances Mattingly, Ned Tanner, Barbara Lennox, Lorene Fowler, Donald Ray Francis, Gene Nicholson, Betty Drake Patty Comstock. Miss Ragains and Mrs. Irma Allen assisted Mrs. Mayfield in entertaining.

THREE CLOSE GRID GAMES UP FRIDAY

Three good games should be on the bill of fare of the Southeast Missouri gridiron Friday.

Because of the strength of the teams, and with the North Division title dangling possibly for the winner, the Sikeston-Poplar Bluff game here tops the list.

Another thriller most likely will be Charleston at Chaffee, while two teams who have never won a game, Perryville and Jackson, meet on the latter's court for a conference clash. Dexter should not have much trouble at Kennett.

The Red Devils and Charleston should put up a scrap in this non-conference game. Dexter, a measuring rod for both, beat the Jays, 18-6, and stopped Chaffee, 19-13. Jackson, another measuring rod, lost to Charleston, 13-7, and to Chaffee, 6-0. Chaffee waded through Kennett, 19-0, and lost a hard-fought tussle to Cape Girardeau, 12-7. The Blue Jays dropped East Prairie, 44-0, and Perryville, 25-0.

Perryville will find the odds against itself when it goes to Jackson. Results of past games give the Indians the edge.

Only a miracle could give Kennett a victory over Dexter. The Bearcats should achieve their third straight conference victory, leaving only East Prairie between Dexter and its second straight South Division title.

FIDELIS CLASS

The Fidelis Class of the First Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. A. M. Jackson on Moore Avenue Monday night, November 4, at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Cecil Boyer and Mrs. David Elrod will be assistant hostesses.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Robert Weeks was taken Wednesday night in the Albritton ambulance to St. Francis Hospital.

Woman's Club Sponsoring Review of Hit Play

The Sikeston Woman's Club will present Mrs. Oscar Carroll, talented dramatic reader in a play review of "Life With Father", the happiest and most engaging of all last season's Broadway success, Friday afternoon, Nov. 15, at the Library auditorium. Tickets will be twenty-five cents. They will be on sale beginning next week by all members of the club.

The play "Life With Father" is an American period comedy of the 1880's and was based on sketches written by Clarence Day, one of America's best-loved authors. His books "Life With Father", "Life With Mother", "God and My Father" and "Father and I" enchanted a national audience and have made "Father" a representative American figure and an authentic part of American folklore.

As only a limited number can be seated in the Library auditorium all who wish to be sure of an opportunity to attend this outstanding literary event are urged to make their reservations early. The Ways and Means Committee of the club, in charge of the play review, has announced that no one may be seated after the review starts. The review will last approximately an hour and a quarter, being skillfully cut to this length for the occasion by Mrs. Carroll.

The play is included in the 1939-40 Burns Mantle "Best Plays". In this volume each year are included the ten best plays of the previous Broadway season. This year the emphasis is on comedy, despite the war in Europe, and "Life With Father", a play of universal application and tremendous gayety, will be found a delightful interlude among the tragic happenings of today.

Proceeds will be used to finance the civic work of the Woman's Club.

Dies of Heart Attack at Bedside Of Ill Husband

Seated at the bedside of her ill husband, Mrs. Rosa Butler, 58, died of a heart attack suddenly in her chair Tuesday night at Charter Oak, below Canalou.

The husband, J. A. Butler, is ill of nephritis. Mrs. Butler had not been ill previously.

The body was removed to the Welsh Funeral Home and services, conducted by Rev. H. G. Oliver of Charter Oak, were held Thursday morning at the residence. Interment was at Kewanee.

Mrs. Butler was born Feb. 13, 1852.

Surviving are the husband; two daughters, Mrs. Golda Weaver and Mrs. Lottie Clanin, of Canalou, three stepsons, Leslie and Jesse Butler, of Canalou, and Clarence Butler, of Charter Oak; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Addie White, of Campbell; a brother, Jake Willis, of Illmo, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Diggins, of McDougal, Ark.

Mrs. J. E. Poyner Dies of Heart Attack

Mrs. Bertrude L. Poyner, 51 years old, died suddenly at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening of a heart atack at her home, 112 Trotter. She had not been ill previously.

Mrs. Poyner was born in Greenway, Ark., in 1889. Her husband, J. E. Poyner, is employed at the Shoe Factory.

The body was removed to the Albritton Funeral Home and taken to Rector, Ark. for services Thursday by Rev. A. J. Gould, Baptist minister there, followed by interment at Rector.

Besides the husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Willie Berry of Paragould, Ark.; a daughter, Miss Nannie Frances Poyner of Sikeston; six brothers, Evans Berry of Bardwell, Ark., Louie and Homer Berry of Rector, Allen Berry of Caraway, Ark., Ted Berry of Pontiac, Mich., and McDowell Berry of Memphis, Tenn.; three sisters, Mrs. Vivian Laffoon, Mrs. Mary Laffoon and Mrs. Ira Holder, all of Little Rock, Ark.

WPA Projects Fit Into Defense Program

Considerable work done for peacetime purposes by Scott County men employed by the Work Projects Administration in the five years it has been in existence could become part of the "second line of defense" in this country's mounting preparedness program, a survey made by Chester R. Treece, WPA area engineer, shows.

Good roads will be of vital importance to the movement of farm products and materials essential to a stepped-up industry, of troops and military supplies, Mr. Treece points out, adding that public buildings suitable for the accommodation of large assemblages of men or supplies, or both, might be used in many instances in the defense effort.

Most of the WPA work in this county, he says, has gone into farm-to-market and feeder routes and building construction. His survey shows that the road jobs now add up to approximately 165 miles of all-weather routes. If laid end-to-end they would extend from Sikeston to St. Louis.

The county's WPA-constructed buildings total eleven. Nine of these conceivably might be used for concentration of men or storage of supplies or materials. They are the Benton jail, Chaffee auditorium-gymnasium, Crowder gymnasium, Miner Community Building, Vanduser City Hall, and Sikeston Armory, Boy Scout Cabin, Library, and Recreation Center buildings.

Another aspect of the WPA program, he adds, also may be taken into account in any review of our resources for defense. Skills and morale necessary to a concerted and satisfactory defense effort have been preserved on these jobs. An average of 517 men a month have been given employment on WPA projects in Scott County during these five years.

Among their major accomplishments listed by Mr. Treece, in addition to those already mentioned, are the construction of a grade school at New Hamburg, and a school in District 13, Wylie School, near Chaffee.

Nearing completion is a school at Perkins, and a school building is under construction for the Morley Consolidated District.

TO CAPE HOSPITAL

Mrs. Clarence Patterson of Canalou was taken Saturday night in the Albritton ambulance to St. Francis Hospital for an appendix operation.

1 choice residence lot south of Schillig's fine new brick home in East Acres Addition—$500.00.

6 Highway locations on U. S. No. 60 and No. 61 priced from $350 to $750.00.

Choice ½ acre in Smith Addition priced at $150. Lots, $125 to $150.00.

Choice ½ acre in Sikeston East Addition south of the airport $125 to $150.

Have a few single lots in Sikeston proper, priced from $200 to $375.00.

Three Choice locations on North Park and Ranney Streets.

Some ready built houses for sale.

Have 7 choice residence lots located on concrete street in B. F. Chaney Addition priced $375.00 to $750.00. Inside and corner lots 100x170, $350.00, inside lots 80 to 100 feet front by 170 feet deep, $300. The B. F. Chaney Addition is going to be the second East Acres to Sikeston as it is restricted to homes to cost over $2500.00.

The next and most modern grade school will in my opinion be built in the southeast part of Sikeston. There are no other locations offered as desirable as the lots in Chaney Addition and as cheap in price.

Keep Faith in Sikeston building program, as there are many people planning to bring their business and manufacturers to this city in the near future. Sikeston is a safe place to invest in real estate and loans.

53 acres of land 6 miles north of Sikeston, small improvements, $20.00 per acre, small cash payment, easy terms, on balance.

160 acres, 2 miles southeast of Benton, Part black land, rest flat sand 30 acres timber, $12.50 per acre; small cash payment.

470 acres 6 miles south of Poplar Bluff on U. S. concrete Highway; large improvements; one-half cleared; 160 acres rolling land, balance bottom land, 40 bu. corn and a bale of cotton per acre this year's crop. Priced $30.00 per acre.

Now since the time is near November 5, Election Day, I cannot work or talk much until I get off on to politics and as the Pole Cat Editor has been pouring the New Deal on we Republicans and Jeffersonian Democrats, I decided to buy this space to tell you voters what I think you ought to do on November 5th.

In the first place, I want to tell you a remark Mr. A. J. Matthews made to me several years ago when I was worrying about the outcome of our national election. He said, "Now Keith, you don't need to worry about who is president for when things get so bad the damn fool people will fix it." His statement gives me consolation now, as I believe it is time, using his words, "for the damn fool people to fix it" again.

I am sure there are a lot of people worrying about how to vote on November 5, I hope I will be able to help you on your decision.

In the first place, as the old saying goes "Where there is a lot of smoke, there must be a dangerous fire", since there is a very large number of the most prominent Democrats who know the inside movements of the New Deal, declare its continuation in power, to be dangerous to the Democratic party as wel las to the welfare and freedom of all people, that being the case, that should be enough notice for us, who do not know the inside working of the New Deal, to change it on November 5th. We can protect our right to vote, NOW, and in the future by voting for Wendell Willkie, which will break up, as they say, the perpetuated program, built up and financed by the taxpayers against their wishes. When this unquestionable perpetuated program is broken up, then use your influence and votes to restrict the right to any person to hold any public office in the United States for a longer period than two terms. NO THIRD TERM. These high offices are a gift of the people. See that no man abuses the peoples rights. Change Nov. 5th.

Mr. Roosevelt recently stated one of the new deal first achievement was to set up a sound banking system. "The effect was", he made it so sound that the poorer classes and even people with ordinary means have not been able to borrow a single dollar out of any Bank since 1933. I am one of that class.

It is my opinion if the deposit of all the banks had been insured by the government 75 per cent of all the banks that had to close under the new deal would have survived as the people would have brought back the deposits that belong to the smaller bank. Thousand of people would still be employed in the banking business, the stock holders would have saved millions in good assets and the common people would have a banking connection. Not first class legistration but "Class Legistration".

FARM PROGRAM

Where is the justice in the farm program of the new deal, taking the industrial and city tax payers money and giving it to the farmer to stop productions which increase the cost of living of the city tax payer, reducing the labor on the farm making more competition for the man in the city that has a job.

Under the new deal the government is building thousands upon thousands of cheap houses to take care of the tenants that the farmers needed on the farm before he was paid to stop production.

Who will benefit by this large spending program of the tax payers money by the new deal. No one but the large planters. They will use this labor a short time in the spring and fall, the rest of the year they will be on relief at the government's expense, "more class legistration".

SOCIAL SECURITY

The social security act which is popular discussion in this campaign, is all right but you got to have a job a long time first.

I am opposed to the present law of the old Age Pension. I think if the government is going to take the tax payers money to pay old age pensions, that every American citizen who reaches a certain age limit is entitled to the same amount paid if he wants to draw it, regardless of race color or his financial standing. This would end all politics in Old Age Pension. Then the needy pensioner would not be subject to the approval of some private party who might be their friend or enemy. "This is more class legistration".

The labor question of this county is one and most important to be solved. The best way to solve the labor question is to unite labor and capital in order to increase production. When this is done, we will have a labor condition worth while. One where a laboring man does not have to work for his enemy. Wendell Willkie will increase production so there will be a job for a man no matter where he is located. If you want to move to another city, there will be a job there waiting for you. That is the kind of labor condition we need. Make the laboring man independent so if one factory price and terms does not suit him he can go to another. Labor also must be reasonable in its demands so his job can be maintained at a fair price by giving an honest day's work in order to produce a profit to his employer.

FEDERAL HOUSING

If I remember right the sound banking system, ask the banks to remove all real estate loans from their books, in the rural district, real estate was about all the security they had to offer so there was nothing left for the banks to do except to buy government bonds to finance the New Deal.

Then the new deal set up agencies to take care of the loan business under the F. H. A. Housing Program.

The New Deal proposed to raise the standard of living by forcing the home owners to build in many cases houses that cost several times more than they could actually afford. Of course they could take it or leave it," Many took a chance and are now living in a house that cost three or four thousand dollars when they would of much rather had a thousand dollar home and one they could have been more certain to have paid for during their life time.

I do not know of a single FHA Loan made for less than two thousand dollars. There are a much larger number of people that need homes that can not qualify for FHA Loans than those that can and these people have feeling and want the priviledge of the insured loans and have a just right to demand a home that they could pay 10% down in cash or lot value and build a home that they could pay for ranging in price from 800 to 1600 dollars, with payments in proportion. It is my opinion and I am saying to the lending institution if they would buy these small loans in the amount of certified material and labor bill, they would have a safer loan than the average FHA loan—even if they are insured by the government you would not need 60 to 90 days of FHA correspondance that cost a $100.00 or more—these local loans can be arranged in 5 days at a cost of not over $15. Why should we have class legistration in the Housing program.

GOVERNMENT DEBT

The New Deal in this campaign has not even mentioned it, they must be ashamed of it, who knows what they aim to do with it, the arugment on the street is what do you care you won't have to pay any part of it, ain't that a swell.

Let me tell all you people that do not think about the debt, every dollar spent by the new deal will have to be paid back with all cost and interest and paid back by the common classes, which will mean a tax burden almost impossible to bear. You have two choices, pay back dollar for dollar or buy revolution and repudiation then a dictator that will place the common classes under military rule, which means that the whole United States is made into one common penitentiary so far as personal liberty is concerned, under dictatorship you are made a slave to the army and government, they take everything you earn and issue you back in some reported cases not half enough to live on only five more days until the decision will be made. Don't forget this is the most important election of your life time.

Vote for Wendell Willkie he is the safest man to lead us the next four years while we unite our people to bear any burden that may fall upon the United States.

E. J. Keith.

Flag Facts Issued In Connection With Legion Sale Drive

In connection with the campaign to sell American Flags, which the Legion will start this Friday, President Jean Hirschberg has issued the following interesting facts about the Flag:

"Comparatively few citizens of the United States are fully acquainted with the actual regulations governing the use of the Flag. A knowledge of these facts are important. Every citizen should know them.

"The Flag should be honored and respected, should never be abused and should never be displayed if soiled, frayed, or weather-beaten.

"All schools, public and private, and all public meetings of any description are required to display the Flag respectively outside of the buildings and at the meetings. Most of the States require that the Flag be displayed also in the auditorium and in each classroom.

"Bright, clean Flags should always be displayed, regardless of the occasion or the place at which they are used."

In the immediate future, Flags should be displayed in Sikeston on election day, Armistice Day and on November 25, when the National Guard is mobilized for camp, Mr. Hirschberg said.

METHODIST DEPARTMENT HAS HALLOWEEN PARTY

The junior department of the Methodist Sunday School enjoyed a masquerade Halloween party Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. W. P. Wilkerson, superintendent of the department. Mrs. Wilkerson was assisted in entertaining by her corps of teachers, Mrs. Raymond Palm, Miss Louise Wood, Miss Frances Sitzes, Ray Culinan and Charles Boyce. The house was decorated with the usual symbols of Halloween and the refreshments and games carried out that theme.

DAY
NOVEMBER 5

The P. C. Editor Says:

We are near enough to the finish of this political campaign to survey it in retrospect.

It is doubtful if any national election ever produced so gross a total of misstatements, contradictory statements and plain inventions as the Willkie candidacy has brought forth. It may be that the candidate, new to rules of national politics, simply took what was handed to him and promulgated it in good faith. Evidently knowing nothing about it, for example, he came out with an explicit charge that because of governmental inefficiency, men conscripted by the draft, would for lack of shelter in the winter months be periled "from sickness and influenza." The object of such a declaration was obvious—it was to alarm the mothers and wives of the boys going into service, with the hope that it would prejudice them against the Democratic candidate. But the next day the Republican Secretary of War explained that barrack building was ahead of the enrollment and so no drafted man would be exposed to the imaginary hardships and dangers Mr. Willkie set forth.

The minority party candidate never corrected his statement. His policy has been right along to stick to his statements.

Once he proclaimed with variations that employment insurance was a delusion and a snare. "Your social security does you no good," he told his audience at Pittsburgh, "if you are paying into a government that will not, at the rate it is spending, be able to pay you back."

Confronted with the figures showing that already three billion dollars had been paid out by the Government in employment insurance, old-age pensions, etc., he made no correction or explanation.

THAT SALE "DOWN THE RIVER"

He specifically charged President Roosevelt with having telephoned the totalitarian chiefs, and as a result of these conversations had "sold Czecho-Slovakia down the river." Somebody must have told him that there had been no such telephoning so he permitted his press-agents to say that he had "mis-spoken." Nevertheless, he repeated the absurd charge in slightly varied forms in subsequent speeches.

In New England he blamed the New Deal for the moving of industrial plants from that section to the South, forgetting doubtless the Alabama speech in which he said: "I can tell you why we maintain an office in New York. It is solely because of two reasons: first, to have a convenient and advantageous point from which we can work with the Alabama Power Co. and other companies to secure the removal of Northern industries to this area. How successfully we have done this, perhaps you can judge by the fact that in the past decade the new industries division of the Alabama Power Co. aided directly or indirectly in the location of 245 industries in 129 different communities in your state."

Mr. Willkie may be deficient in knowledge about the preparedness program, and the social security acts, and the international situation, and so have been misinformed on these subjects, but certainly he knows all about the mechanism that took mills and businesses away from New York and New England to where his own outfit could have them as customers.

EVERYTHING WILL GO TO SMASH

Of course, the Republican candidate sees nothing ahead but bankruptcy, chaos, and the wreck of the whole American system if Roosevelt is reelected. He is as dire in his prophecies as was Herbert Hoover when he was telling us that if he was removed from the White House and the evil Democrats tampered with the sacred Smoot-Hawley tariff, grass would grow in our city streets. That was eight years ago and it hasn't yet been necessary to erect keep-off-the-grass signs in Wall Street, or the corresponding thoroughfares in other great cities.

Mr. Willkie sees even worse ahead. If President Roosevelt continues in the presidency, the future offers: "restriction and limitation to the clergy and to the peachments of individual religions, and offers little hope for the freedom of the press and of expression." And he added: "It is as inevitable if you continue to go down that road, as that the sun will rise in Springfield tomorrow morning."

"It's that a marvelous picture of what will ensue if our churchgoing, humanitarian President continues in office? Up to date perhaps no modern President has been subjected for years to such a barrage of attacks—personal and political — from the Republican press as he has had directed at him and his policies, and, strangely enough, he hasn't tried to suppress any newspaper—as Mr. Willkie did so successfully when the Chattanooga News fought for public ownership of public utilities.

However, it will all be over in a few days and then Mr. Willkie can revert to type and put away the role of defender of the American nation against the perils of the third-term and get back to his regular utility job.

Incidentally, he scoffs at the idea that his inexperience in Government should count against him. Senator Hiram Johnson backed him up in this and yet when Senator Johnson was running for the Vice Presidency on the third-term ticket of Theodore Roosevelt, Hiram made his argument against the election of Woodrow Wilson on the point that Wilson was "untried" while Theodore Roosevelt had had all the experience.—Charles Michelson.

Eighteen of the 24 national parks in America now are open throughout the entire year.

1931 Cotton Receipt Weak Beside Today's

Archie Cook, farmer living south of Sikeston, gave to The Standard Tuesday a receipt for a load of cotton sold in the fall of 1931—nine year ago in the twilight of the national Republican Administration which gives some interesting figures on farm prices.

The statement, dated October 10, shows that the price of lint is $4.90 a hundred pounds, and seed brought $5 a ton. It requires approximately 1500 pounds of field cotton to make a 500-pound bale, the rest being seed. Back in 1931, the bale would have brought Mr. Cook $24.50, and the thousand pounds of seed $2.50, or a total of $27.

Today, under the Roosevelt farm program, lint brings $9.50 a hundred pounds and seed $18 a ton. Thus, a 500-pound bale brings $47.50, which with the half-ton of seed makes $56.50—more than double that received back in Republican days.

The receipt shows Mr. Cook was paid $32 for 655 pounds of lint, considerably more than the 500-pound standard. His ginning costs of $3.45 reduced the returned to $28.66. Picking amounting to $9.15 brought the income down to $19.51. This includes $2.64 allowed for 1055 pounds of seed, which was deducted from the original ginning charge of $6.07.

Mr. Cook is a firm believer in the present as compared with the past.

Will Observe Week of Prayer

The Women's Society of Christian Service will observe the week of prayer Wednesday, November 6, at the Methodist Church, meeting at 11 o'clock with lunch promptly at 12 o'clock, in order to begin the program at 1:00 o'clock. The subject for the worship service will be "New Roads Untried".

The week of prayer offering goes to establish a Chair of Christian Life and Thought in Scarritt College to honor Mrs. Clara Tucker Perry, who has been president of the Women's Missionary Council for a number of years, and who did a very effective work during the process of unification of the three branches of Methodism. One thousand dollars is the goal for the endowment.

Two articles, "Scarritt Built for the Future" and "Scarritt's New Day" will be part of the program, of which Mrs. J. N. Ross will have charge with a number of helpers.

Agricultural Situation in New Madrid County Described

Farm Bureau and Home Economics Clubs' leaders meeting in a county session last July approved a situation statement as indicating substantially conditions as they exist in New Madrid County. This statement prepared by the extension agents with the assistance and advice of farm leaders is printed herewith in several installments. The first installment follows:

"New Madrid County, in total area 417,280 acres is situated on the Mississippi river approximately 200 miles south of St. Louis, and 125 miles north of Memphis. The topography is level, there is almost no water erosion but there is some wind erosion and generally speaking its soils are fertile. While the principal soils are of the Sharkey, Sarpy and Lintonia series, practically every soil series to be found in the Mississippi delta is found in this county. Agriculture is a comparatively recent development except in certain areas on the Sikeston Ridge and smaller areas around Mississippi River to Linda. In these New Madrid and south along the areas the titles to many parcels of land go back to Spanish Grants, and some of the land has been farmed 100 or more years. A considerable area of swamp land is recleaned and put into cultivation each year. The acreage of land in farms increased more than 57 per cent between 1924 and 1940. The figures are:

RISE IN FARM ACREAGE

1924—236,592 acres, 56.7 per cent of the county area in farms.

1929—258,637 acres, 62.0 per cent of the county area in farms.

1934—289,875 acres, 69.5 per cent of the county area in farms.

1940—371,849 acres, 89.1 per cent of the country area in farms.

Rainfall is abundant and well distributed, averaging 41.42 inches per year at Cairo, less than 40 miles away. Over a 69-year period rainfall is lowest in October with 2.73 inches and highest in January with 4.08 inches. The average mean temperature is 58.4° F. The average length of the growing season is 214 days.

The Lumber Industry survives at Gideon in a stave mill and wood working plant, at Morehouse in a wood working plant, at New Madrid in a saw mill, and in a few portable saw rigs. The opportunities of supplementing farm incomes through winter work in the timber and on the trap line have practically disappeared. The WPA, however, has been providing work relief for av ariable number of farmers each month, summer and winter.

Pioneer conditions exist side-by-side with the latest developments of mechanized civilization. Leasers' tents and slab houses jostle modern homes equipped with central heating, water and sewer systems, and high-line electricity.

MODERN IMPROVEMENTS

In 1930, 28.3 per cent of the farms had automobiles, 3.8 per cent had trucks, 4.9 per cent had tractors, 2.8 had telephone, less than 1 per cent had water piped into the house. Only 38 farms reported electricity in the home. There are now many miles of REA highline in the county, with several hundred subscribers. Public utility lines have also been extended, and there are now 247 miles of them in the county.

The farm population is increasing. It increased from 20,044 in 1925 to 23,019 in 1935. While the 1940 census figurs are not available it is estimated that the farm population has increased to 27,000. While a large influx of negroes occurred in the 1920's when the cotton acreage expanded tremendously, the percentage of negroes decrased from 32.4 in 1925 to 22.9 in 1930 to 20.7 in 1935. Because of the importation of sharecroppres and day laborers since 1935 it is probable that the percentage of negroes in the county is now somewhat larger than it was in 1935.

(Another installment will follow.)

ARBUTUS CLASS

The Arbutus Class of the First Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Leo Brown, 604 Matthews, Monday evening, November 4, with Mrs. E. P. Waldman and Mrs. Jewell Gentles as assistant hostesses.

Mattress Program Determined at District Meeting

Eight counties were represented by extension agents, AAA committeemen, Farm Security Administration representatives, WPA supervisors, Farm Bureau presidents and individuals, at a district meeting held in the Circuit Court Room in New Madrid Thursday afternoon, October 24. Approximately 75 people were present to hear C. C. Hearne, State Extension Agent, and Miss Amy Kelly, State Home Dmonstration Agent, tell about changes in regulations governing the mattress project work for 1940-41, and to participate in the discussion.

Among other things it was the opinion of the group that a county committee with all cooperating agencies represented should be set up to determine policies, and to work out plans to finance the project. This year, said Mr. Hearne, eligibility of families receiving mattresses has been changed so that any rural family which has a net income not to exceed $500 may obtain one mattress for each two persons in the family, not to exceed a total of three mattresses. If a family received a mattress during the past year and under the provisions would be entitled to a total of three mattresses such family might secure two more mattresses in connection with the new program. The County Committee will also determine when and where applications are to be taken, and at what time during the year the work will be done.

New Madrid County representatives attending the conference included Earl Cambron, ACA County Committee Chairman, Bert Femmer, County Committeeman, Glenn Rhodes, ACA Chief Clerk, Mrs. J. D. Twitty, president of the County Home Economics Council, Mrs. Lynn Twitty, Mrs. Louise J. Morrissey, Home Demonstration Agent for colored, Miss Anne Sillers, Home Demonstration Agent, and Paul H. Teal, County Extension Agent.

Form Diehlstadt Community Club

Miss Ella Fikuart, Scott County Home Demonstration Agent, helped to organize a 4-H club in the intermediate department of the Diehlstadt Public School, Wednesday, Oct. 22, under the leadership of Mary Sue Smith, teacher.

The club officers are: President, Gene Dameron; vice president, Vena Morgan; secretary-treasurer, Alice Cox; reporter, Helen Blodgett; game and song leader, Reverta Roy.

The name chosen for the organization is Diehlstadt community club. The projects chosen by this club are clothing I for the girls and Rope I for the boys. Meetings will be every first and third Wednesday. So far, 12 girls and 10 boys have joined the club.

Helen Badgett, reporter.

TOUR OF FARM CONTEST WINNERS

A tour has been planned for Sunday, November 3, to include the homes of J. D. Twitty, tenant, and Gus Eiceman, landowner, winners in the Plant to Prosper contest. New Madrid County people will meet at J. D. Twitty's at 1:30 where points of interest will be called to the attention of those present. The party will probably be at the Twitty home 45 minutes. They will then visit the Eiceman home and discuss improvements made. Everyone is invited to make this trip.

Henderson Mound Club Organized

A group of the women in the Henderson Mound community met at the Sam Pace home on Friday, October 25. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the possibility of organizing an Extension Club in the community. After the discussion led by Anne Sillers, Home Demonstration Agent, a club was organized. Officers were elected as follows:

Mrs. Sam Pace, president; Mrs. Cletus Winters, vice-president; Mrs. Albert Smith, secretary; Mrs. Allen Henard, reporter; Mrs. Jim Blyze, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Rudy Lofton, child development chairman.

The club will meet once a month on the second Monday at 2:00 p. m. The November meeting will be with Mrs. Cletus Winters. The program will be a discussion of "winter storage of fruits and vegetables".

Ten women joined the club, Those other than the officers are Mrs. Frank Cade, Mrs. Louis Wren, Mrs. John Buttry, and Mrs. Chas. Adams.

RYO ENJOYS SINGFEST AT FAIRVIEW

Members of the Fairview Rural Youth organization meeting at the school house October 24 devoted most of their entertainment session to the singing of old and familiar songs including rounds and harmony numbers.

In this session they were assisted by Mrs. Glenn Rhodes at the piano and County Agent Teal. Mrs. Rhodes also favored the group with special numbers on the piano. During the business session the group decided to use part of the profits made at the carnival held on October 18 for the purchase of weiners and other supplies in connection with a weiner roast next Friday night, November 1.

After eating, the entire company will attend a picture show held in Sikeston or New Madrid.

In addition to Mrs. Rhodes and Mr. Teal the guests included Glenn Rhodes, ACA Chief Clerk.

Democrats Plan Big Car Parade Throughout County

Democrats of Scott County will stage a monster parade throughout the county on Monday, Nov. 4. Evehybody is invited to participate, and to decorate an automobile with flags, bunting, appropriate remarks and the like.

The Chaffee band will be in line and also the Democratic sound truck. There will be all kinds of noise makers and people will really be aware of the fact when the caravan hits their towns.

Senator J. C. McDowell will be along and will make short talks wherever possible.

Here is the schedule that has been worked out, and it will be followed closely as to time and stops:

CHAPTER ONE SYNOPSIS

The Canadian North West in 1885 is faced with bloody civil war when the Metis, half-breed French-Indians, resent the intrusion of the North West Mounted Police in their affairs and threaten to rebel against the authority of the British Crown under the leadership of idealistic Louis Riel (Francis McDonald). Dan Duroc (Akim Tamiroff), a trapper, and a notorious criminal, Jacques Corbeau (George Bancroft) are aiding Riel. Sergeant James Bret (Preston Foster) and Constable Ronnie Logan (Robert Preston) come to the Metis settlement of Batoche to investigate the situation. Ronnie meets Louvette (Paulette Goddard) Corbeau's wildcat daughter, and arranges a rendezvous at Fort Carlton. Meanwhile, Shorty (Lon Chaney, Jr.), one of the rebel ringleaders, threatens Bret with a rifle.

CHAPTETR II

The halfbreed's gun was pointed at his heart, but Jim Bret did not move; it would have been fatal.

"You no like Corbeau?" said the breed.

"No," said Jim. He looked the man in the eye. "He'll only come if he smells blood, Shortly."

"Maybe," said Shortly harshly, his eye lighting with purpose as he sighted along the barrel of the rifle, "he smell blood pretty quick, then."

Still Jim did not move. It would have done no good anyway. His revolver was hoistered; his Winchester was in its boot. He could not get to them in time. Besides, in that mob, already inflamed at the thought of rebellion ,even if he killed Shortly, he would be torn to pieces.

Calmly, he stared at the breed, but out of the corner of his eye, he saw Tod McDuff, the strange Scotch halfbreed, sitting on the stoop of a nearby house. Tod McDuff was knitting; always was he knitting, but nevertheless he had turned his rifle so that it pointed at Shorty. Tod McDuff, halfbreed or no, was loyal to his Scottish forbears.

The moment stratched out, drew thin with the terrible tension, as Shorty, enjoying the suspense, seemed to await the Mounties' fear before pulling the trigger. Then, from the window of the hospital thrust a lovely, blonde head and April Logan called:

"Shorty! Come quick! It's a boy!"

Jim Bret threw back his head and laughed; the crowd laughed. Shortly, the halfbreed, had, while riding to war, brought his wife along to the hospital for confinement. Shortly now looked rather foolish as he lowered his gun, for a man who has just become a father does not kill. He laughed joyously, his belligerence forgotten, and rushed to the hospital. Jim rode on through the crowd, which was threatening no longer, but he stopped by Tod McDuff.

"Thank you, Tod," he said quietly, "but I'm glad you didn't pull the trigger. It would have started the war."

The Scotch breed regarded the sock he was knitting, said dourly: "Perhaps, but Jim, mon, 'twas no' in me to see ye slaughtered in cold blood. Ye're holdin' the empire which me feyther helped to knit together. I'll no' see it unraveled wi'out a scrum."

Jim Bret smiled. "I know," he said. "We'll need you, if it breaks. Come to the Fort in the morning and Inspector Cabot will swear you in as a deputy."

"Tod McDuff," said a voice nearby. It was Dan Duroc. "You an' me frien'. You'll not fight against Dan Duroc, Tod McDuff, or Dan Duroc scalp you!"

The Scotch breed and the French breed glared. Old friends, they were, and Jim knew it. But he had no doubts of Tod. He rode on to the hospital and despite his uneasiness, his trouble lifted a little. April Logan met him there.

His cold eyes softened with the love he felt for her. "Thank you," he said. "You saved my life."

"No," she laugher. "Shorty's baby saveed it."

"Your men didn't want to let me through, but I come anyway," the Texan drawled calmly.

"But you were magnificent."

She turned to the squaw, Ekawe, who had brought her daughter, Niska, to the hospital. Niska's leg was broken and April was wrapping the cotton fleece about it, preparatory to putting it in the plaster cast. But she said:

"Magnificent?" She looked up at him from her work with a quizzical expresion. "You were magnificent, too. You're always magnificent," she went on, and there was a little note of ruefulness in her voice. "Perhaps that's it. If I married you, I think I'd actually marry the North West Mounted Police, too." She looked at him thoughfully. "There are, you know, other things, Jim. Love, for instance."

"Try me and see."

She laughed a little, resuming her work, and said:

"Duty, duty, duty. You're a slave to duty, Jim. You'll never know anything else until you're beaten to your knees somehow. You—"

But he interrupted. "April," he said, "how can you deliver a baby, set an Indian brat's broken leg, save a man's life and still look like the loveliest woman in the world?"

She hesitated in her work for only a moment. "That was very pretty," she said. She sighed. "And unusual. No Jim, it's too unusual. There wouldn't be time, much time for things like that. There would always be duty." She finished with the fleece and turned to him. "I'm a little afraid of you," she went on, "so I'm answering duty too. As an Anglican Mission nurse I have a new assignment. I'm going to Nova Scotia."

He had faced the breed's murdersome rifle with more equanimity. Now he trembled. Then he said softly:

"I love you." He gathered her to him suddenly and kissed her hard on the lips, unaware of the squaw, Ekawe's, amused stare. "I'll always love you and were you to go to the ends of the earth I'd follow you. Remember that!"

He turned abruptly and left her and did not see the flush on her check, the tears that welled in her eyes. Outside, he met Ronnie. The younger man looked at his superior and said archy:

"Did little sister treat you rough?"

Jim glared, then said gruffly: "Let's ride . We've got to send these demands to Regina tonight."

They rode, then, at a dead gallop to Fort Carlton. It was dusk, when they reached there, an uneasy dusk, gloomy with the growing certainty of the uprising. Inspector Cabot, the commandant, said:

"Batoche will boil over and scald half of Canada. They'll never grant these demands. But I suppose we ought to send them."

Jim took the papers, handed them to the telegrapher.

"Batoche already is uneasy, sir," he said. "I'm sure they're gathering for Corbeau and Riel."

"Have Grove and Fenton reported?"

"No, sir."

The commandant drummed on the table. "Fifty men here," he said thoughtfully. "In all Canada only five hundred Mounted Police." He looked at Jim Bret. "Jim, if the Cree and the Blackfeet follow Corbeau . . ."

"I was thinking, sir," said Jim, "that—"

He did not finish. Outside there was an uproar and a clatter of hoofs and shouts. Inspector Cabot and Sergeant Bret, their nerves on edge, reached instinctively for the guns in their holsters, then stared.

In the doorway stood a man. He was tall, lean, blue-eyed, with little wrinkles at the corners of his eye sockets that betrayed a lifetime of looking a great distances. On his head was a huge white Stetson and he wore the overalls, high heeled boots and tremendous rowweled spurs of the American cowboy. He grinned at the two officers who had their hands on their guns. Swinging at either hip from gunbelts he wore two guns himself.

"Your men didn't want to let me through but I came anyway," he drawled calmly. "I'm from Texas, gentlemen. Lookin' for a murderer!"

GRADE CARDS

By T. E. Stallings

Grade cards will be issued throughout the Sikeston schools Wednesday noon, November 6. These cards are prepared and given out with the express purpose of informing all parents as to the standing of each pupil for each quarter of the year. They should be examined carefully and studied by the parents so that they may become familiar with the character of the work done by the child. After this, they should be signed and returned promptly to the school.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that both parents should see the grade card and should know the standing of the pupil in his or her class. To keep up with the work done by the student as he progresses through school is of extreme importance as it will enable the parents to judge for themselves whether or not the child is working up to his ability.

These cards are not the only means used to acquaint parents with the work of their pupils. Practically all of the homes have been visited this fall by home room teachers where a common understanding between parents and teachers could be reached concerning the work of the child. In addition to this, from time to time, unsatisfactory reports are sent out from the high school so that parents may know of poor work done by the child and steps can be taken to remove the causes for such inferior work.

The grades on the report cards will be after the following scheme: "E" for the upper group; "S" for the superior group; "M" for the larger average group; "I" for the inferior group; and "F" for those whose work has not been good enough to be given a passing grade. While it is realized that grades are not 100 per cent accurate because we are all human, parents can rest assured that the child has been rated as accurately and fairly as it is possible to do. All parents should feel free to consult with the teachers of their children at any time it is possible about the work done by the child as it is only through this means that the home and school can best work together for the best interests of the youngster.

Please keep in mind that attendance, attitude toward work, study habits, and other like items have a marked effect on the grade as recorded for your child, even though they are not taken directly into consideration when the grade is based only on the actual work done.

Fairview and York Set Youth Programs

The program committees of the Fairview and York Rural Youth Organization met with Miss Jane Hinote, State Club Leader, and Miss Anne Sillers, New Madrid Home Demonstration Agent, to make out a program for the first six months of 1941.

The following program was worked out by the Fairview committee subject to the approval of the club at the November meeting.

January — "Parliamentary Procedure"; drill.

February—"Dating"; playlet and discussion.

March—"Ladies and Gents"; film strip.

April — Etiquette in Public Place"; discussion.

May—"Making People Like You"; playlet and discussion.

Goals were set: (1) Better attendance and membership increased, (2) 50 per cent take part in discussion at all meetings, (3) everyone take part in recreation.

The Fairview committee is Mrs. Lenzie Beck, chairman, Warren Harbor, Mrs. Archie Cook and Woodrow Beck.

The York Committee was not able to make out the six months program because it was not known what subjects members would be interested in, so only two months' program was outlined, namely, parliamentary drills for January and February.

The York committee is: Cleddie Jones, Chairman, Motel Beck, Harley Shelby, and Charles Harvey.

Recreational committees will have charge of recreation at every meeting.

Extension Round-Up Held at Matthews

The fourth annual roundup for Home Economics Extension Clubs was held at Matthews in the High School gymnasium on Wednesday, October 23.

The program for the forenoon consisted of games led by Mrs. F. E. Story, Matthews, Mrs. P. B. Melton, Canalou and Miss Anne Sillers, Home Demonstration Agent. Mrs. Earl Cambron of Marston and Mrs. Frank Ratcliff of Matthews furnished the music.

Dinner was served at noon in the main building in the room equipped for the hot school lunch.

Features of the afternoon program included a playlet by the Pinder Club followed by a demonstration on how to milk a cow by the Canalou Club. A model cow was used to demonstrate cleanliness and other things to do at milking time in order to produce milk having a low bacterial count. The Neuman Club quartet contributed to the program a negro spiritual sung by a ladies' quartet. The Matthews club pantomined a baseball game; the New Hope Club contributed a vocal solo as did the Catron club. The Risco Club provided a reading with pantomine and the Stubblefield and Marston Club women gave interesting playlets.

Mrs. C. C. Schuttler, editor of the Missouri Farm Bureau News, was the guest speaker. She gave us verbal pictures of scenes she had witnessed while in Europe in 1939. This was the high spot on the program.

Seventeen of the 20 clubs in the county made report of work done during the year. The day was ideal. One hundred seventy-one adults were in attendance. A larger number would have attended if it had just rained Tuesday night thereby stopping cotton picking for the day.

BISHOP BROOMFIELD TO PREACH AT KEWANEE

Bishop Broomfield will preach Sunday evening, Nov. 3, at 7:30 o'clock at the new Methodist Cnurch in Kewanee.

A plant tendril has been observed to make a complete coil around a supporting object in two minutes.

Beware Those Chills and Fever

Chills and Fever are the classical symptoms of malaria, but tiredness, rundown, bilious feeling, pains in back and legs may often precede the advanced malaria stage of chills and fever. It does not pay to tinker with malaria. About 3000 die from it each year, one popular magazine states.

If you have ordinary malaria, occasional constipation or associated biliousness with nothing organically wrong, why don't you try famous Nash's C & L Tonic for glorious symptomatic relief? Take only as directed in the package. Thousands of Southern folks use Nash's C & L Tonic. Millions of bottles have been sold on a satisfaction or money back guarantee. That certainly proves the merits of Nash's C & L Tonic. Mr. Nash, who makes Nash's C & L Tonic right here in the South, asys—

Satisfaction Guaranteed

"If the very first 50c bottle of my medicine does not satisfy you, your dealer is authorized by me to return your money." Price 50c.

ENJOY POUR PARTIES

Don't let petty annoyances interfere with your full enjoyment of social affairs. And how can one thoroughly appreciate the pleasure of life when one must rush through crowds. Or how can one's mind be free of parking worries or thought of a dented fender. Of course the ideal solution is to take a cab. It saves your time and energy. It gives you safe, comfortable convenient transportation. Call a Limbaugh Taxi wherever you want to go.

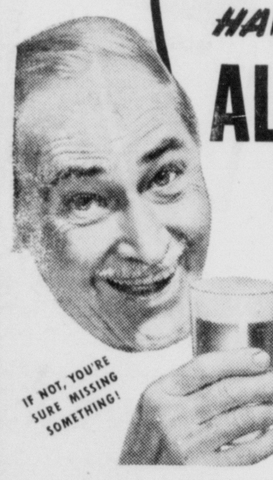
SAY... HAVE YOU TRIED ALL-GRAIN BEER Lately?



SWITCH to STERLING for ALL-GRAIN FLAVOR At Its BEST—and No Waistline Worries

● Don't just ask for beer; ask for STERLING! Today, it's better than ever. Its flavor has a lilt to it. There's a tang and sparkle nothing but natural ingredients can produce. An 8-ounce glass is no more fattening than a fair-sized orange. Even if you must be careful about your waistline, you can still enjoy Sterling . . . all-grain beer at its best.

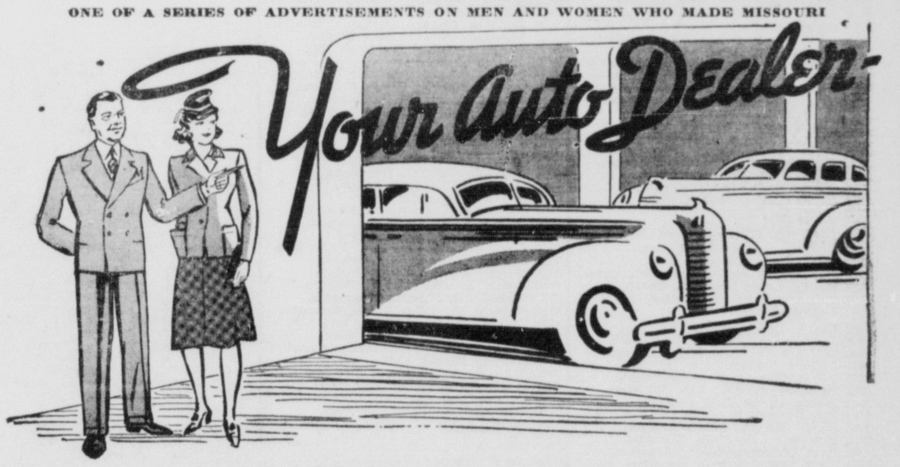
ONE OF A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS ON MEN AND WOMEN WHO MADE MISSOURI



A MAN WITH VISION... WHO HAS HELPED MAKE MISSOURI!

The span of a half century has revolutionized the industrial life of Missouri and the Nation. New means of rapid transportation together with mass production have been the fundamental causes.

Little did the rugged Missouri pioneers, who first treked into this territory in covered wagons, think that a few short years of history would see an average of one strange horseless carriage called an automobile to every Missouri home—making it possible to go from any point in the state to any other point and back again within a single day.

Those Missourians who, at the opening of the twentieth century, took agencies for the first chugging, clanking motor cars were indeed men of dauntless vision. In the face of public ridicule and disdain, they sold a product which they alone could picture as an inevitable necessity.

Today some 1,600 retail dealers are engaged in sale of cars of all makes in Missouri, with more than 100 additional deal

CLUB ACTIVITIES

The Comercial Club has appointed two committees this week. Alex Waters, Colleen Rayburn and Betty Jane Taylor have been appointed to try to get a champion typist here for an assembly program. The other committee was appointed to supervise the research on what the alumni are doing.

The next meeting of the Dramatics Club will be held on November 4. On this day Margaret Hart will give a brief talk on antomimes and impromptu pantomimes will be given. Tryouts and rehearsals for the Thanksgiving play will be held soon.

The Forum, sponsored by Mr. Parker, will have its weekly meeting Monday night, November 4 at 7:30.

Two short talks will be given on Willkie and Roosevelt followed by a discussion of the good and bad points of each. This promises to be interesting and everyone is invited.

The Golf Club will have a tournament, beginning Saturday, November 2. The boys have already shot their qualifying scores to enter the tournament. A trophy will be given to the best two teams in the tournament. Teams will be paired according to their qualifying score.

DEBATE TO BEGIN

On Monday afternoon, November 4, all students with average or above grades who are interested in participating in interscholastic debate will assemble in Garland Parker's room. Most of the material for the current question is already in. The debaters will gather evidence, and both Mr. Parker and the participants will construct the speeches.

COMMERCIAL NEWS

Miss Kathleen Newsom, commercial instructor, has given the following data concerning first and second year competent typing tests:

The least errors in first year typing have been made by Leo Jones, who had two, and Lee Bowman, who also had two; the most words per minute by Betty Ruth Limbaugh, who had 18, and Carlene Beasley and Ruth Ann Middleton rated second with 13 each.

In Miss Electa O'Hara's office training department, two students have typed their 40 words per minute in a 10-minute drill with less than 5 errors; Mildred Mathis, 45 words, two errors; Colleen Rayburn, 42 words, three errors.

ASSEMBLY ON AVIATION

In a special assembly last Thursday, Billy Bob Donnell spoke on the possibilities of aviation as a career for high school students. Donnell, a former Sikeston graduate, went to Pensacola, Florida, to take his training and he is now a general instructor there.

The assembly program was presented Wednesday by the Girls Glee Club. The songs were: "Down by the Old Mill Stream," "Someone's in the Kitchen With Diana," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Down in the Woodland," "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair," "The Prayer," "I've Been Working on the Railroad," and "The Night Will Never Stay."

HOME ECONOMICS NEWS

The Home Economics girls who made the trip to Cape Girardeau Saturday, spent the day studying home projects, meeting new people, and learning new ideas. Thirty-six girls from the first and second year classes made the trip. Those who went were Pauline Layton, Wanda Baker, Betty Jo Branum, Betty Husher, Wanda Bean, Ida Lou Littleton, Geneva Schwab, Irene Husher, Margaret Boyd, Rachel Honeycutt, Gloria Frohock, Doris Stunnett, Lucille O'Dell, Peggy Malcolm, Geraldine Vowels, Dixie Bacon, Judy Voelker, Mary Emma Donnell, Dean Stinnett, Ila Mae Fowler, Ruth Struwe, Anita Burch, Imogene Branum, Nadine Greenlee, Frances Williams, Vivian Jenkins, Stella Schuchart, Velma Burress, Lela Mae Grasser, Priscilla Weekly, Crystene Mayo, Yoma De Leo, Bennalee LaCour, Frances Murrel, Thurma Dell Carr, and Carnice Maloney.

The movable closet made by the Home Economics girls has been given to the nurses home at the hospital.

SOUTH GRADE NEWS

The 99 members of the Citizenship Club of the Sixth Grade at the South Grade School will enjoy the annual Hallowe'en party Thursday afternoon. Decorating, entertainment and refreshment committees are completing plans to make this party a large success.

Miss Ragains and Miss Finley sponsor the Citizenship Club.

Two children of Mrs. Keith's third grade have made perfect spelling scores during the month of October. The children are Mary Jane Faris, and Betty Marie Holder.

BAILEY SCHOOL NEWS

Last Monday Miss Betty Belle Donnell's second grade room elected a student council. Each month the student council is to select the best citizen of the room. This "best citizen" automatically becomes a member of the student council for the following month. The other two members are chosen by popular vote. The members of the council for this month are J. F. Cox, Anne Hollenbeck, and Charles Bethune.

Thurman Travelstead's sixth grade room has organized a hobby club. Some of the Bailey School teachers are assisting with the supervision of some of the groups. Such hobbies as stamp collecting, sewing, knitting, soap and wood carvings, and leaf collecting are among the most popular.

SATURDAY LUNCH

You'll find this spaghetti and egg scramble perfect to serve for Saturday lunch when husband and children hurry into the house hungry and eagerly anticipating their afternoon's activities. This dish provides plenty of energy for them to go on and abounds in the elements children need for healthy growth.

SPAGHETTI AND EGG SCRAMBLE

Fry until crisp—
8 slices bacon. Remove from pan, then break into small pieces.
Beat—
4 eggs until light and fluffy.
Add—
1 medium (17-oz.) can cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce.

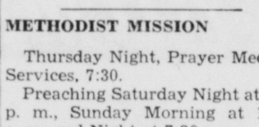
Cook egg and spaghetti mixture in skillet containing a small amount of the bacon fat, stirring gently, until consistency of scrambled eggs. Add bacon. Season with salt and pepper. Whole slices of bacon may be placed around the platter of scrambled eggs, if desired. (Serves 4.)

FALL SPECIALTY

One of the most delightful sensations that can greet your family and guests, if they happen to peek into the kitchen before dinner, is the fragrance of baking acorn squash. And one of the most delightful ways to serve it is with a filling of diced pork in a mushroom sauce. Accompanied by such royalty as the squash and the deliciously flavored canned mushroom soup which makes the sauce, the left-over pork is truly delicious fare and worthy of a place on one of your company menus.

BAKED FILLED SQUASH

Cut in half lengthwise—
4 acorn squash.
Remove seeds and brush with melted butter. Place in baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 45 minutes or until done.
In the meantime, melt—
2 tablespoons butter.
Add, blending well—
2 tablespoons flour.
Add, then cook, stirring constantly, until thickened—
1 medium (16-oz.) can cream of mushroom soup.
Add—
2 cups finely chopped cooked pork.
Heat thoroughly. Fill baked squash with this filling and return to the oven to brown slightly on top. (Serves 8.)



AN AFTERNOON OFF

Tuck this recipe for macaroni with fried tomato slices away in your recipe file ready to use when you're planning to take an afternoon away from kitchen duties. You'll enjoy the holiday more, knowing you have such a delicious entree awaiting your family at dinner time. The recipe is prepared with the delicious cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese that comes in cans ready to heat and serve. For the rest of the meal, have a commbination of salad greens chilled in your hydrator waiting to be tossed with a tart dressing. Then bring home some fresh rolls from the baker and for dessert have a jelled fruit combination with cookies.

MACARONI AND FRIED TOMATO SLICES

Prepare—
4 tomatoes by trimming stem and blossom ends from them, then cut in one-inch slices.
Beat—
1 egg.
Add—
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper.
Dip tomato slices in the egg, then in—
Yellow corn meal.
Fry in hot fat until golden brown
Heat—
1 medium (17-oz.) can cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese.
Arrange macaroni in mound on platter and surround with fried tomato slices. (Serves 4.)

SALTPETER CAVES IN N. ARKANSAS CHECKED BY U. S.

Harrison, Ark., Oct. 28.—North Arkansas' famous Bat Caves which supplied saltpeter for Confederate powder plants during the Civil War may be utilized again under the current national defense program.

Cal Thompson, retired Newton County postmaster who now lives here, said the caves had been surveyed in recent years for saltpeter deposits. He estimated that more than 200 tons of saltpeter was available on the floor of one cave and that there were larger deposits elsewhere in the same area.

Most of the caves—best known of which are Christmas Cave and Bat Cave, near Boxley—are flooded with layers of bat guano 10 to 15 feet deep. Thompson said this guano contained nitrogenous matter in sufficient quantity to produce niter (or saltpeter), lime, ammonia, potash and other elements.

One of the deepest deposits is in Slay Cave on Calf Creek, overlooking the town of Snowball in Searcy County. Development of the caves has been hindered, Thompson said, by transportation difficulties, but recent road improvements have made the area easily accessible.

Saltpeter was taken from both Christmas and Bat Caves during the Civil War for the manufacture of gunpowder. Some of the old Confederate machinery is still on the ground at both sites. The Confederate lead mine, near Christmas Cave, is still being worked. Its current operator, J. C. Shepherd, recently announced production of 564 pounds of pure lead.

LABORER SLAYS WOMAN, KILLS SELF

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder and suicide in the shotgun slaying Sunday of Mrs. Pearl Johnson, 32, widow and mother of five children, and the death an hour later of her former suitor, Boyce Oliver, 60, a day laborer. Sheriff Dewey Miles said Oliver drank poison and slashed his throat. His body was found on a country road four miles away. James Walker, 60, was shot in the back at the time Mrs. Johnson was killed, but is expected to recover. The sheriff said Oliver apparently was resentful because Walker had become the favored suitor.

Let's Think About Curtains

It's still a little early to put up the winter draperies, but it's time to give them serious thought. Often, in families, there is some special date when the house must be in order for the winter. In our family it was September 28th, because it was my father's birthday, and so, the now-vanished days of semi-annual house cleaning took place the week before; curtains and slip covers were cleaned, washed, or new ones made, and any new upholstery work was completed.

Correlating chintz curtains and mohair sofa

If there are to be new curtains and upholstery in the living room, let us say, now is the time to look for the material. Manufacturers and shops are doing a wonderful job in making your choice easy by presenting what is being called "correlated lines." That is, drapery material, silk, chintz, cotton, and rayon; and upholstery fabrics such as mohair, faille, and nubby rayons are being woven to "go together," to form a good color scheme for curtains, sofa and easy chair to match, and a third fabric for the occasional chair. For instance, in the picture of an Early American living room which we illustrate, this principle was followed in selecting the chintz curtains and the mohair for the sofa and chair cushions. The background of the curtains is a soft mulberry with print and birds of bright plumage in yellow and lighter tones of plum with rather definite green leaves. Therefore, a fabric of herringbone weave in green and yellow with a predominant tone of green was the upholstery fabric. Because of the weave, it not only blended with the curtains but with the walls which were straw color. They could, however, have been pale green. Today, in looking for fabrics, don't look just for curtain material or just for upholstery; ask in your shop for a correlated fabric line and you will be shown samples which, you will instantly see, form good combinations of color. Perhaps you like a drapery material with a blue background (blue is fashionable now) with pink and yellow roses and green leaves in it. The same "line" will have a faille, perhaps, or a closely woven upholstery fabric in which the same tones of color are found either in stripes or in the weave. You may like to repeat the blue backgound with a stripe of yellow and mulberry which blends with the deep shades of the roses. In the same group will be a plain solid-color material with the interest in the texture, as there are many rough weaves, which give light and shade which are just what you want for seats of side chairs or the occasional chair. So it boils down to the fact that you use three fabrics which are partners in a color scheme. If there are but one or two sides or occasional chairs, going gay, and use solid yellow (which is the yellow of roses in the curtains) for the seats. Remember always that you can use a little bright clear color as an accent, when you couldn't put a big sofa in it. The same bright color, or the curtain fabric is an excellent choice for pillows on a dark sofa. They do two things: one, bring the pattern into the room, and to relate it; two, give decorative quality to the room.

I could go on and tell you lots of different schemes, but the real point is, have the salesman show you related fabrics.

Mrs. Clyde Reynolds spent the week end with her parents near Charter Oak.

Kinnard Dillon transacted business in St. Louis over the week end.

WHY I'LL VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

By Charles H. Weber

First of all, I am for keeping President Roosevelt in office because of the international situation and our immediate need for strong national defense against any possible emergency.

All along, he has been intelligently alert to dangers that confront America as a result of events abroad. By foreseeing what was coming—long before any other responsible leader did, at a time when men like the late Senator Borah were proclaiming that there would be no war at all—and by acting, first to bring about peace, and then to make our nation secure, the President has demonstarted his ability to guide our nation in this critical period. No one else has shown such ability.

If, in face of our problems, we had a helpless Buchanan or an inept Hoover at the helm, then the people would be justified in demanding a change, to bring in a Lincoln—or a Franklin Roosevelt. But today we have Franklin Roosevelt, a President unsurpassed in the qualities of leadership, of courage, of ability to act when action is necessary, of the integrity that places national welfare about partisan politics—all qualities that are vital today as never before. Then why, I repeat, should the American people take a chance?

But I am also for President Roosevelt for reasons other than the international situation. His domestic program has restored the hope and the courage of the American people, whereas before there was only helplessness and despair.

His program has revealed that the democratic form of government, no less than the dictator forms, can meet the people's needs for economic security and for jobs. His program has shown that democracy also can act with efficiency (yet without loss of any of our basic freedoms) to meet the needs of the masses in these times.

President Roosevelt, by his program of social justice and social security, has caused the masses of the American people to keep their faith in democracy, whereas otherwise they may have been tempted in desperation, to flirt with other ideas of government. And President Roosevelt stands as a bulwark against those who would betray democracy.

With President Roosevelt at the helm, we can be certain that the White House will remain an invincible and needed fortification against all those insidious forces who would destroy our American ideals of freedom, of freedom of thought, of freedom of speech, and freedom of religion.

We know where President Roosevelt stands on that great issue, as well as on questions of foreign policy. Therefore, I stand with Roosevelt—and I believe the great majority of Americans will show in November that they stand with him, too—for a strong America and a democratic America.

JOHNSON GRASS CURTAILED ON EICEMAN FARM

The controlling of Johnson grass on fields seriously infested with this pest has gained momentum on Gus Eiceman's farm, east of Marston during the past 2 years.

Last year a five-acre field was heavily infested with Johnson grass. By keeping it cut off close and preventing seed, the root systems were materially weakened. This year much less growth was observed, according to Mr. Eiceman, on the field.

About three weeks ago the field was shallow plowed, harrowed and sowed to wheat. Field operations turned up most of the roots of grass still on the land, and with weather conditions as they have been a rather thorough job of eradicating the pest has undoubtedly been done.

Essentials in controlling Johnson grass, contends County Agent Teal, where areas are too large to warrant treatment with sodium chlorate, are close pasturing or keeping the growth cut down close to the ground, followed by shallow plowing in early fall so that the roots are exposed to the sun.

Safetygrams BY FRED W. BRAUN © The Safety Man

This column is very much in favor of driver training courses. Every high school in the country ought to have a well-organized program of classroom instruction as well as "behind the wheel" instruction. It is very important that people become familiar with traffic conditions and know the right and wrong about automobile driving.

Individual responsibility must be definitely stressed in these instructions. If the individual persists in taking chances, accidents will result in spite of a well-planned course of instruction. Chance-taking must be eliminated from our driving habits.

Your community should have driver training courses for young and old. Because we have been driving an automobile for a number of years does not mean that we are experts in handling a car.

Learn the right way and drive carefully.

The P. C. Editor Says:

Sen. Hiram Johnson says he is opposed to President Roosevelt's eection on the third term issue. It will be remembered that he ran for vice-president with Teddy Rosevelt who was running of a third term, but of course that was different. Teddy was a Republican and there could be nothing wrong in perpetuating a Republican in office. If we remember correctly the Cape County Post, now so avowedly against a third term, also supported the same Republican in the same campaign.

The more we reflect on what Rubinoff said to his great Moberly concert audience, of which we were one of whom, the worse it seems. The first half of the program was very heavy stuff—lots of action by Rubinoff and many loud and unusual noises from his $100,000 fiddle. The old boy was just feeling his audience out. Like a prize fighter, he feinted, sidestepped, left crossed, upper cut and jabbed, in an effort to discover what would put the audience at his mercy. After getting what he could out of his classics, the great violinist risked everything on, "Oh, Johnny, Oh," a familiar piece with a lilting tune. The auditorium walls shook, the ceiling trembled and the floor almost collapsed from the stomping, handclappings, backslappings, whistlings and cheers which followed. After the cultured audience, of which we were one of whom, had worn itself out and relapsed into a dignified silence, Rubinoff stepped forward and said: "We now approach part two of the program. You will like it better; it's light." And, sure enough, the audience did. Everybody loves music. Not one music-lover in a hundred cares for the ultra-clasical, grand opera, super-philharmonic sort in which only two notes a minute are dispensed. Artists like Rubinoff, who defer to popular tastes for music in which there is melody as well as sound, get all the applause and the largest crowds.—Paris Appeal.

We are told some local Republicans are asking Democrats to vote a split ticket next Tuesday. This would be fine business for the Republicans but you can bet your last doughnut there will not be a single Republican in this community who will vote for a single Democrat, so take warning and when you go to the polls make a cross mark in the circle under the Democratic emblem and drop it in the ballot box.

For wear all fall, and during the winter months under fur coats is this taupe tweed suit seen in the October Good Housekeeping. Its special features are a fitted jacket and gored skirt, both priced to meet the limited budget.

Highlights of Administration of General McKittrick

During the tenure of Roy McKittrick, the Attorney General's office, through legislative acts and through McKittrick's vigorous administration, has assumed new importance in the roster of Missouri public offices. New laws passed by the legislature—notably the sales tax, income tax and liquor control act, as well as other minor enactments—have more than trebled the duties of the Attorney General.

Despite the increased work of the office, Mr. Kittrick through an economic, efficient and aggressive administration has succeeded in trimming expenses to a minimum, while collecting obligations due the state amounting to more than four times the entire cost of administrating his office.

In the 1933-34 biennium the Attorney General returned $63,759.67 of his regular appropriation back to the treasury. At the same time he collected and turned in to the State Treasury $871,773.15. In the 1935-36 biennium he returned to his regular appropriation $67,325.14, and collected for the state $1,394,633.18. In the 1937-38 biennium he returned $124,645.05 of the regular appropriation for office expenses and collected $1,423,290.80. Collections to date are $4,594,435.71.

The department during Mr. McKittrick's Administration, has received 5,756 requests for opinion from state and county officials, and other entitled by statute to receive opinions. In reply to these requests 5,315 opinions were prepared, and many requests were answered with previously written opinions.

The Attorney General and Assistants spent 1637 days assisting grand juries and in preparing and trying important criminal cases. McKittrick and his Assistants were in sole charge of the Grand Jury in Jackson County in 1939, which returned many important indictments. Eighty-seven of the persons indicted were convicted, and more than $30,000 was collected in fines for the county school fund. He has had charge of other important grand jury investigations which resulted in a number of major indictments being returned. To date 450 criminal cases have been briefed and presented to the Supreme Court.

One of the most important phases of the administration of Attorney General McKittrick has been a series of suits he instituted to protect the policyholders of Missouri and to prevent the waste of impounded funds which had been unlawfully collected.

Attorney General McKittrick, assuming office in 1933, immediately instituted a suit in the Supreme Court against insurance companies to stop them from collecting excess premiums of 16 2/3 per cent from the policyholders. The court sustained the Attorney General's suit on the 7th day of February, 1935, and ordered the insurance companies to cease collection of excess premiums. There had already been collected from the policyholders and impounded, the sum of $1,785,397, from the 1st of June, 1930, and, if it had not been for this suit, the companies would have collected illegally many millions more from policyholders.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

"A vote for names of candidates for president and vice-president is a vote for the electors of that party, the names of whom are on file with the secretary of state."

On receipt of his ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the enclosed space, retire alone to one of the voting booths so provided, and shall prepare his ballot for voting in the following manner: Should the voter desire to vote a "straight" party ticket he shall place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below the party name. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates on more than one party ticket, by voting what is commonly called a "split ticket," he may place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below one party name and mark cross (X) marks in the squares at the left of the name of candidates on other tickets for whom he wishes to vote. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates whose name or names do not appear on the printed ballot he may do so by drawing a line through the printed name of candidate for such office, and writing below such cancelled name the name of the person for whom he desires to vote, and placing a cross mark in the square at the left of such name. The squares so marked shall take precedence over the cross marked in the circle. Where there are two or more candidates for like office in a group a cross (X) mark in the square to the left of a candidate's name, automatically votes against the candidate whose name appears within the same horizontal lines in the column under the circle in which appears the cross (X) mark unless the voter indicates another candidate, to be voted against by drawing a line through such candidate's name. All candidates of the party whose circle is marked shall be counted as voted for excepting where squares are crossed preceding the names of the candidates in other columns if two or more candidates for the same office are thus designed, neither shall be counted. If the cross (X) is not placed in the circle immediately below the party name at the head of the column, but does appear in the squares opposite the various candidates' names, then only these names shall be counted for, and none other. A cross (X) mark is any line crossing any other line at any angle within the voting space, and no ballot shall be declared void because a cross (X) mark therein is irregular in form. It shall not be lawful to deface or tear a ballot in any manner nor to erase any printed name "except as provided above in this section," figure, word or letter therefrom, nor to erase any mark made thereon by such voter, nor inclose in the folded ballot any other surance rate litigation the Circuit Court of Cole County had allowed out of the 16 2/3 per cent impounded funds, $136,000 as attorneys' fees, custodians' fees, etc. The same court had allowed out of the 10 per cent insurance fund $700,000 to lawyers, stenographers, and miscellaneous items. All of these allowances were set aside by the Supreme Court upon appeals filed by Attorney General McKittrick. The Attorney General now has suits pending in various courts of the state to recover $525,000 of these funds which had been paid out before the allowances were set aside, and has also filed suits to recover the large fees received by attorneys under void judgments of the Circuit Court of Cole County.

Since the insurance litigation has been going on for such a long time, it is now apparent that many policyholders entitled to refunds cannot be found. Attorney General McKittrick has therefore filed a suit asking that that part of the impounded fund of $2,360,000 in the 10 per cent case which cannot be returned to the policyholders, be turned over to the state treasury for the benefit of taxpayers.

When it was discovered that the notorious insurance compromise of 1935 was obtained by bribery, General McKittrick immediately filed a quo warranto proceeding against the fire insurance companies that contributed the money used to bribe a former state official. In this suit, which is now pending in the Supreme Court, McKittrick asked that the insurance companies involved in the bribery be ousted from doing business in this state until they restore to the policyholders the eight million dollars ($8,000,000) which they illegally obtained as a result of the bribery, and that they also be punished by fine.

Of vital interest to farmers and dairymen are the efforts of Mr. McKittrick in cooperation with the State Department of Agriculture to prohibit the illegal sale of substittue milk products. The Supreme Court has already upheld McKittrick's contention that Missouri's law forbidding sale of filled milk, in which cocoanut oil is substittued for butterfat, is constitutional.

On June 17, 1937, Mr. McKittrick commenced a war on slot machines which resulted in the elimination of the gambling devices from Missouri. He pointed out to a convention of Sheriffs and Chiefs of Police that slot machines were financing the criminal element of Missouri, and called upon them to stamp out this racket. In cooperation with other officials, Mr. McKittrick caused a state-wide investigation to be made, and information obtained in the investigation was furnished local officers. With the cooperation of Prosecuting Attorneys and Sheriffs "one-armed bandits" which were preying upon the poor and children and financing racketeers, were completely eradicated.

McKittrick instituted a suit in the Supreme Court which established the right of the state to oust an official guilty of misconduct in office by a quo warranto proceeding filed directly in the Supreme Court by the Attorney General. Prior to this time it was generally believed that an official could be removed for misconduct in office only by a slow and ineffective statutory proceeding.

Wendell Willkie's speeches, like the candidate's preliminary build-up, have the ring of a lead half-dollar. Everything about the Willkie campaign from its first feeble chirpings up to the full-throated squawks now rending the air bears the unmistakable stigmata of the counterfeit. The spuriousness of the story of his nomination being in response to a spontaneous public demand is now so generally known and accepted that it is no longer necessary to call attention to it. Neither is any one now so simple as to be taken in by the attempt to give his Wall Street and power trust product the appearance of a plain man of the people by renting a house for him in a small mid-west town and having him roll around on the lawn in carpet slippers.

But these things and those that followed are important elements when it comes to making an appraisal of the Willkie personality and character. For in these fraudulent poses there is not only a conscious attempt to deceive the public but there is also the betrayal of an instability that is not willed or planned. So in the one case we find the man deliberately taking a position for the audience in direct opposition to his real attitude, and in the other unwittingly revealing himself. There is both a split personality that is assumed and one that is real.

Examples in the first category are the pretense of "liberalism" to cover up a membership in Tammany Hall and the strangling of independent newspapers and the corruption of teachers with power-trust money, and the violent assault on Hitler, whom he would "out distance in any contest," in order to forestall possible criticism of him for his pure German ancestry. These attitudes were taken deliberately for effect and it is interesting to note that in respect of the last the Nazi official newspaper in the United States, Deutcher Deckruf und Beobachter, in indorsing Mr. Willkie's candidacy, intimates that he really did not mean what he said but was only making "a scapegoat" of Hitler.

These contradictions are obvious to almost every one. But the unconscious disclosures which are less easily detected are more interesting and important, for they represent a struggle between an enormous egotism and an inferiority complex. In this respect the resemblance between Willkie and Hitler is striking. Hitler before he acquired supreme power and had made conquests was the petty officer awed by his superiors, uneasy in their presence, but beyond their gaze supremely egotistical and with an unquenchable desire to talk. Willkie by his wish "to meet the champ," his frequent references to Groton and Harvard, and his "he can't high-hat me" shows a painful consciousness of inferiority. He is obsessed by it. Every daily expression of this kind is a pitiful plea to be noticed.

But along with this sense of inferiority there is an uninterrupted flow of boastful speech and the assertion of a colossal ego till at his Coffeyville address he ended with an explosion of capital I's like the rain of shrapnel. After a tirade of abuse of the President of the United States such as has seldom been heard, Mr. Willkie concluded in this way: "I warn you." "I say the time is now." "I represent your power." "If you elect me." "I shall preserve this power of yours." "I believe in your sense of responsibility." "I call upon you to help me fight this battle of America." "I call upon you to awaken your fellow citizens." "I say give our country back to us."

IT WON'T STAND UP!

I, I, I, I. It was the violent ego, the dictator concept, rising for the moment out of the subconscious. It could have been taken almost bodily from one of Fuehrer Hitler's old speeches.

WHY I'LL VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

By Samuel P. Gurman

Nationally, before the inauguration of President Roosevelt, the administrations of Coolidge and Hoover, like many before them, were attuned and sensitive to the needs and prosperity of Big Business. Both believed that the economic welfare of our country, of the middle man and working man, depended primarily on the prosperity of the big industrialist, captains of industry, and commercial giants.

Because the initial rise and success of Hoover came with his personal aggressive efforts in the field of economics, he naturally absorbed and shared the prevalent belief in and admiration for the man who made good—that is individualism.

The compass and guide book for the proper economic and political atmosphere were the Adam Smith theories of free competition, laissez-faire, and the least of government—all worked out in the early days of the simple, practically hand, economy of the industrial era.

The inapplicability of these theories to our complex, mass economy was disregarded. All maladjustments were to be cured by some piece of restraining legislation.

It was Franklin D. Roosevelt who saw that radical, remedial changes must be made in our economic and political theories to bring about the betterment and prosperity of the people of the United States. He had the enlightenment to see that the fact that the rich were getting richer, industrial giants making more money, did not necessarily mean that the great mass of our people would be better off; it could, as it did, work quite differently.

Roosevelt had the courage, conviction, imagination and dramatic personality in the great emergency of 1933 into which these policies brought us to cut out a new line of action. The banks, the mortgage people, the home owners, the farmers, the men without a job—all needed him and all gratefully and thankfully accepted him.

New Deal legislation has changed the trend of the theories of legisaltion from restricting us to helping us. The wage and hour act, banking deposit act, Wagner act, National Labor Relation Board, Securities and Exchange Commission, WPA, PWA, CCC, Social Security laws, as well as the housing and farm programs, revived and saved our economy. They put our economic train back on the rails, as President Roosevelt himself aptly put it.

Now the great industrial engineers, Willkie included, want to take over the train and run it to their own destination. These laws are far from perfect and, considering the intensity with which they have been fought, have worked better than could possibly be anticipated. We are now, at least, enjoying greater and sounder prosperity than can be found anywhere in the world.

Nationally, I am for the re-election of Roosevelt because we need his powerful, enlightened and vigorous leadership to entrench, improve and reinforce the New Deal laws.

On international grounds, the reasons for the re-election of Roosevelt are even stronger. Men of the Hoover, Willkie, Chamberlain and Dalladier ideologies have brought the world to a sorry pass. The whole world is in flames. Roosevelt has kept the flames away from us.

When he urged our preparation to prevent that conflagration here, he was called a "war monger." When he showed the unusual perspicacity and vision in his speech at Chicago that dictators should be quarantined, he was condemned and the Chamberlains, Hoovers and Willkie refused to heed his advice.

He is the outstanding leader of the world as a lover of peace. The people of the world trust him, despite personal slights of the dictators. The epithets burled at him at home and abroad of "dictator," "war monger" and "Communist" have not relaxed the grip he holds on the imagination, pulse and hope of the common man the world over. His foreign policies and his neutrality legislation, which he got through Congress against fierce opposition, have kept the fires of war away from our shores.

Should we at this time give up that leadership, vision, knowledge and experience acquired through this period of strain, emergency and stress for the inexperienced, untried Willkie?

There is no prohibition in the Constitution against a third term. The greater hope for the long life of our Constitution is its flexibility. Should we make it more rigid and less flexible by attaching traditions to it? It is not greater democracy to elect the most able and experienced leader when we want him? To quote Washington or any of the other past presidents on that issue is not unlike quoting a cleric of the revolutionary time on his thoughts on flying or telephoning.

In Peru, bridge supports sometimes are made of ropes of castus fiber.

'UNCLE BUD' ROBINSON AT CHURCH NAZARENE

"Uncle Bud" Robinson of Pasadena, Calif., and Dr. T. W. Willingham, the district superintendent of Missouri District, will be present at the local Church Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

"Uncle Bud" is nationally known, having made continuous trips for many years back and forth across the country, and a few years ago he made a trip to the Holy Land.

He is a unique character, a natural born psychologist, a very interesting person and deeply spiritual. Having been converted over 50 years ago when in the rough life of a Texas cowboy, he has a story to tell that is worth hearing.

Uncle Bud gets a crowd wherever he goes. People are always anxious to hear him. A full house is expected Sunday afternoon. The Nazarene people extend a hearty welcome to everyone to come and enjoy this treat with them.

The Western Union Case, which Mr. McKittrick guided to a successful conclusion saved the taxpayers millions of dollars. The Telegraph Company resisted an effort of the State Tax Commission to assess its property at $6,556,192, holding that the proper figure was $2,795,000. The case was contested before the Federal District Court of Kansas City, which upheld the state. Later the Federal Court of Appeals decided for the state. This decision established the right of the Tax Commission to assess utility properties at 65 per cent of their real value, and upheld the contention of the Tax Commission that other property in the state was not under-assessed. If the state had lost this case, the commission would have had to assess other property over the state an additional 35 per cent.

Of tremendous importance to liquor law enforcement was Attorney General McKittrick's successful fight to compel forfeiture of liquor dealers' $2,000 bonds when they violated liquor control statutes.

The Supreme Court recently upheld McKittrick's view that persons licensed to sell liquor by the drink who violated any provision of the Liquor Control Act forfeited their bonds and were subject to a penalty of $2,000. As a result of this decision many undesirable licensees have been forced to discontinue business because they could not obtain such bonds, and there has been a noticeable decline in the number of liquor law violations.

The outstanding record of efficiency, economy and fearless public service made by Roy McKittrick as Attorney General is one of which the Democratic Party may well be proud. He has served the people well and his re-election assures a continued honest and vigilant administration.

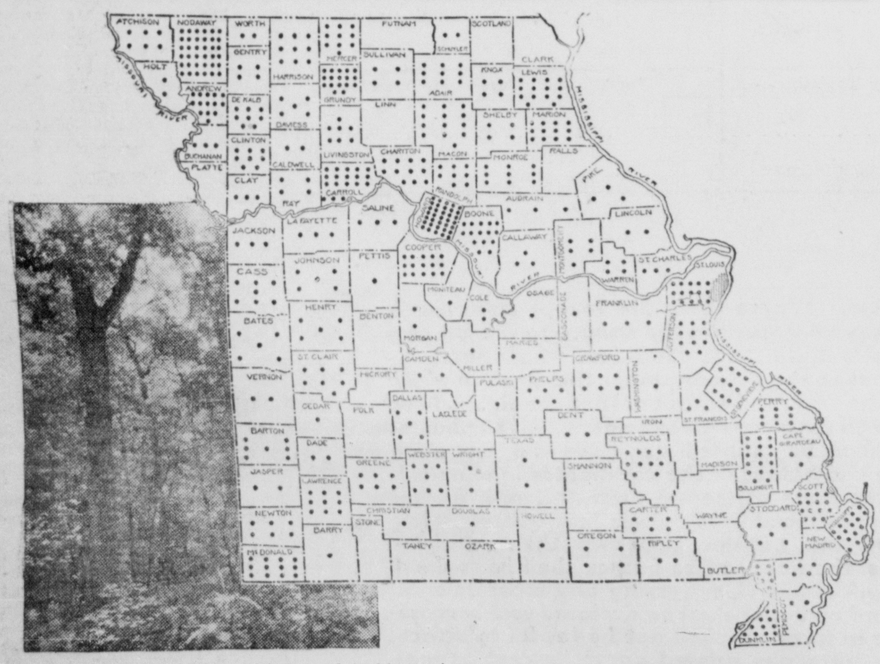
MILLION MORE TREES FOR MISSOURI



Already this year the Forestry Division of the Missouri Conservation Commission has distributed 1,054,919 trees to farmers all over the state of Missouri. The map above indicates where the trees were distributed, each dot representing a farmer who received them. They were sent to 628 farmers in 97 counties. Missouri farmers have been quick to realize the necessity of tree planting, not only to restore the soil of Missouri and prevent increased erosion, but as an aid in the restoration of wildlife in Missouri.

"Milestone Car" Presented to Contest Winners

Presentation of Chevrolet's "Milestone Car"—the 1,000,000th 1940 model produced by the industry's leader—was made at the New York World's Fair last week to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Weinert (shown here), of Iron Mountain, Mich., owners of the millionth Chevrolet six-cylinder model, built in 1929. The Weinerts were winners of a nation-wide contest conducted by Chevrolet to locate No. 1,000,000. As guests of Chevrolet, the Michigan couple drove to New York, arriving at the Fair with more than 110,000 miles on their '29 car, which Weinert had purchased as a used car, at a price of $25. M. E. Coyle (left), general manager of Chevrolet, presented the new 1940 Special De Luxe model to the Weinerts. Chevrolet's production of a million units this year maintains a seven-year record of a million a year average, with the 1,000,000th 1940 car following No. 900,000 by exactly one month. The well-traveled 1929 model has been returned to Detroit, where it will be placed on display.

CHAPTER NINE SYNOPSIS

Allan MacNally, young successful divorce lawyer, pays so much attention to his business that he begins to neglect his beautiful wife, Jerry. When he flies to Reno on an important case, Jerry goes out with her divorced sister, Wanda, and two men friends, on a tour of the night clubs. Allan returns, but Jerry is still out on the town.

CHAPTER X

Jerry wandered wearily in as the clock was striking four. She had been in no hurry to get home, although she couldn't ever remember being more bored in her life. Actually, she was a little afraid of going home. If she didn't find Mac there on her arrival, she didn't quite know what she would do.

But she saw him, hunched uncomfortably in a chair in the living room, dozing. He woke quickly, rubbed his eyes and looked at her.

"Oh, hello," Jerry said very calmly.

She had determined that she wouldn't lose her temper, that she would hear him through without interruption. They must have an understanding, and make an earnest attempt to get back to their old basis, where they had loved each other so much, and when everything had been glorious fun.

"So you've come home," Mac said sarcastically. "Well that's very very considerate of you, I must say."

His attitude did nothing to help Jerry keep her self-made promise. Here he has had me frantic all day, she thought, and he turns on me as though I'd done something wrong.

"Yes, I couldn't think of any place else to go," she said very casually, still holding herself in check. "Have you got a cigarette?"

"No, I haven't got a cigarette," he answered wrathfully. "Where have you been?"

"Hither and yon, hitting the high spots," Jerry said, knowing that she was being irritating.

"Who with?" he screamed at her.

"Wanda—" Jerry started.

"And a couple of boy friends," he finished. "I known that much!"

"Then why did you ask?" she wanted to know.

"Why did I ask?" he said, losing all patience. "My wife's out all night with a couple of men and all she says is 'Why did I ask?' Well, I'm asking, see? Who were they?"

"To tell you the truth," Jerry said, coldly furious, "I don't even remember their names. Look, my little man," she turned on him. "Don't give me that jealous husband stuff. Suppose you tell me where you've been since nine o'clock yesterday morning. Not that it's of any importance, but just as a mater of information."

"Where have I been? What have I been doing?" he asked, hurt at the suggestion. "Working. What I'm always doing—working. Working my fool head off so you can go out dolled up like a sailor's bride with strange men. That's what I've been doing," he said with fine righteousness.

"Oh, poo," Jerry said with disgust. "I'm going to bed."

"So that's it. Your conscience bother you so you're ducking," he taunted her. "Well let me tell you something . . ."

"Oh, no," Jerry interrupted. "You're through telling me anything. You've been screaming enough. Now I'm going to scream for awhile. Ever since you wiped the egg off your chin at breakfast yesterday, I haven't seen or heard from you—and all the while I was ninny enough to sit here praying that nothing had happened to you," she continued furiously. "And the only difference between your thoughtlessness yesterday and the kind you dish out every other day in the week is that yesterday happened to be my birthday, and it made it difficult to alibi for you to my relatives."

Jerry knew that if either of them caught their breath for a second there was a chance of straightening this particular tangle out. But there were so many tangles, and this was just a small part of them. Besides, she rationalized,, he has acted as though I'd given him a dirty deal. If I give in now, it will only happen a hundred more times. This had better be settled and my way, she decided.

Mac was still indignant. The same sort of thoughts were running through his head. His conscience was clear. He had been working and hard, and what thanks did he get. Nothing but complaints and haggling questions. He wanted more than anything to take Jerry in his arms and call off the cross words. But he felt she had been completely unjustified by attacking him.

"I remembered your birthday. I even got a present," he said in a conciliatory way, bring out a small jeweler's box from his pocket.

"I'm not asking for presents," Jerry said scornfully, not taking it from him. "All I'm asking is just a little ordinary consideration. Not much . . . Oh, what's the use?" she said turning out into the hall.

Mac was after her, holding on to her arm.

"Will you listen?" he pleaded. "I'm trying to tell you I had to fly to Reno in a hurry."

"Did you ever hear of the telephone?" she defied him. "It's a great little invention. Or didn't you have a nickel? That's a good alibi."

"You can go Brandon's way, or you can go mine, but you can't go both," she heard herself saying.

"Didn't you get my message?" he asked, surprised.

"What message?" Jerry said.

"I told a porter in the airport to phone you," he started.

"With a phone in every drug store, you tell a porter?" she queried. "Or you couldn't have phoned from Reno—if you went there? Or wired? Don't expect me to believe such idiotic lies?" she flared at him.

"You're going to hear me out," he told her. "You're going to get it through you head that I did fly to Reno because Brandon . . ."

They had finally arrived at the root of the trouble. Mentioning Barndon's name was like waving a red flag at Jerry. She had been wanting to have this out with Mac for a long while, have him leave Brandon as he had promised to. Then, she solemnly believed all their differences and petty troubles would be over. She wished that they both weren't so angry, but as long as the subject had come up, she figured she might as well have her say.

"Brandon?" she flung at him. "It's always Brandon, Brandon, Brandon. So he whistled and you went to him?"

"Will you get wise to yourself?" he said, lived with anger. "If it hadn't been for Brandon we'd still be in the shoe string class. We'd still be squeezing nickels for coffee and doughnuts."

"And that would suit me," she told him. "My grandparents lived on a shoe string and they'll die on a shoe string. But they'll have each other." There were tears in Jerry's eyes now, and they weren't there from anger. But Mac didn't notice.

"When I'm their age, maybe a shoestring will be okay," he allowed. "Right now, though, I'm reaching for the champagne and caviar! I'm going places."

"Calling your shots, are you?" she asked coldly.

"You bet I am," he answered defiantly.

"Then I'm calling mine too," she said, quietly determined. "It looks as though you and I were up against Brandon for keeps, and nothing I can say will alter that. So we have to face it."

"What are you talking about?" he wanted to know.

"You can go Brandon's way, or you can go mine, but you can't go both," she heard herself saying. "It's plain you don't want to go mine. That's it. Simply that."

"Look here," he shot back. "I've worked hard and I'm on my way up. I've sweated and I've broken my neck to build a fifty thousand dollar a year reputation. If you think I'm going to toss that in the gutter you're mistaken. That's as plain as I can ever make it."

"It's very plain," Jerry admitted, as she walked upstairs. Crying quietly, she packed a few things in an over night case, and walking past Mac, who said nothing and did nothing to stop her, she went out the door, and hailed a taxi to take her to Wanda's.

NEW RENTAL BOOKS PUBLIC LIBRARY

"Invitation to Live"—Douglas, Lloyd C.

This is another Dean Harcourt story in which he deeply stirs and changes the life of the rich girl, Barbara Breckenridge. Barbara, in turn, met: Sally, a sales girl with a natural talent for drama; Lee Richardson, who let it appear as if he had been drowned; and Katherine, who enjoyed being a martyr, and played an important part in their lives.

"You Can't Go Home Again"—Wolfe, Thomas.

George Kebber's search for truth is continued in this sequel to "The Web and the Rock." Both books are the recollection of the author's own life and his search for the meaning of life. Thomas Wolfe shows the same evidences of genius in this book that he showed in his other works.

"Madame Dorthea" — Undset, Sigrid.

Eighteenth century Norway is the background of this story of Madame Dorthea's adjustment to her husband's mysterious disappearance and her efforts to raise her children.

"Mr. Littlejohn"—Flavin, Martin.

Mr. Littlejohn, tired of the problems and obligations imposed on him by this world's goods, sets out disguised in a mustache to solve the enigma of his own life.

"Trelawny"—Armstrong, Margaret.

"For Whom the Bell Tolls"—Hemingway, Ernest.

This is probably Hemingway's best book since "Farewell to Arms." The scene takes place in Spain during the Spanish Civil War; the plot is an attempt of a young American in the Republican forces to blast a steel bridge.

To make one lump of sugar requires three feet of sugar cane.

HARRY S. TRUMAN for UNITED STATES SENATOR

FRANK G. HARRIS for LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

FORREST SMITH for STATE AUDITOR

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY OFFERS AN EXPERIENCED STATE TICKET

For United States Senator, Harry S. Truman is a statesman worthy to wear the mantle of great Missourians who have served with distinction in the National Congress. His efforts in behalf of the laboring man, the farmer, the war veteran, the railroads, and other groups of workers and lines of industry, have not only been noteworthy — they have been successful.

Our nominee for Governor is Lawrence McDaniel, whose familiarity with public affairs is comprehensive, covering a long period of years in which he carved a splendid record as Circuit Attorney and Excise Commissioner of the City of St. Louis. He knows the people of the State, knows the needs of the State, and fits this trying hour more than any man. As Governor his chief concern will be the people's welfare.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank G. Harris, Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown, State Auditor Forrest Smith, Attorney General Roy McKittrick and Supreme Court Justice George Robb Ellison are all candidates for re-election. They have well proved their fitness for the offices to which they again aspire. Together with Wilson Bell, the nominee for State Treasurer, they constitute a stalwart group of militant candidates, commanding the admiration and esteem of the people of all parties.

LAWRENCE McDANIEL for GOVERNOR

DWIGHT H. BROWN for SECRETARY OF STATE

ROY McKITTRICK for ATTORNEY GENERAL

NOVEMBER 5

DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE JEFFERSON CITY, MISSOURI

Democrats Generous With Missouri Schools

The Democratic Party since the days of Thomas Jefferson has been committed to the furtherance of public education. The past two Democratic administrations have expressed that interest in a most tangible way. Governors Guy B. Park and Lloyd C. Stark, the last four General Assemblies, and Lloyd W. King, State Superintendent of Schools, have made it possible for Misosuri to reach her peak in school progress.

Democratic General Assemblies have continued the customary practice of allocating one-third of the general revenue for the support of public elementary and secondary schools. Last year approximately thirteen and a half million dollars was distributed by the state for school support. This year the total amount will even exceed that sum. In 1933-34, the amount was but three and one-half million dollars. In addition, the state's institutions of higher learning have been adequately provided for. In recent years the increased appropriations for these insttituions made possible not only sadly needed new buildings but also the extension of the services of those institutions.

Missouri schools, which have been under the leadership of Superintendent King during the last five years, are marching forward. Unusual progress has been made in speech education, in music education and in vocational rehabilitation. Superintendent King has been successful to a marked degree in developing the State Department of Education into a position of educational leadership. He has done this with the cooperation of all forces in the state interested in education. Never have the educational interests of Missouri been better coordinated than at the present time.

Missouri may well be proud of its splendid state educational system—and of Lloyd W. King, who is directing it in so satisfactory and able a manner.

Frosted Sorghum May Be Poisonous

In an effort to splice short pastures, some Scott County farmers are using sorghum fields and second growth sorghum for pastures. Following frost, stock should be removed from these pastures of a possibility of poisoning, warns County Agent Lane. However, this frosted sorghum can safely be used as silage without any worry as to its effect, if the crop is harvested and ensiled just as soon as possible after the frost—particularly a heavy frost. Lighter frosts do not severely damage the crop.

The general utilization of silage made from frosted plants does not differ greatly from the usual precedure. The silage will be safe to feed as soon as the heat and fermentation processes have ceased. As a generalrule the crop will be satisfactory for use after it has been in the silo for seven to 14 days.

Another method of utilizing this damaged sorghum for forage is through cutting and allowing the fodder to thoroughly cure. Though not as safe as the silage process the poisonous property is usually destroyed to the extent that it will not cause death, but may cause scouring. The safetst way to test a crop in question is to turn an animal of little value into the field and observe the effect on this animal before attempting to turn in the whole herd.

MODERNIZATION KEY TO SAFETY IN HOME

The danger of loss to both property and life can be greatly reduced through the proper modernization of property.

Alterations and repairs to residential and income-producing properties will reduce considerably the possibility of fire frequency. Financial institutions qualified under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration make credit available for such improvements.

Faulty wiring systems, faulty gas or other heating systems, and neglect or attics, nooks, and other recesses where spontaneous combustion may work its havoc are considered among the chief causes of fires.

Proper maintenance of existing structures through annual improvement helps combat the menace of fire, contributing vastly to savings in property value, and increasing peace of mind on the part of occupants of the property.

Robins, sparrows, and thrushes often live to the age of 25 years.

According to records, more than 10 per cent of all fire alarms in the United States are for automobile fires.

Forrest Smith's Impressive Record as State Auditor

During the past few years, State Auditor Forrest Smith has made a noteworthy record in his office. Not only has he introduced modern business methods in his department, discarding the antiquated methods in use since the state was formed, but he has given the people of the state courteous and accommodating treatment at all times. He has saved the taxpayers of Missouri thousands of dollars through the efficient and economical operation of his office.

Under the administration of Forrest Smith the sales tax was introduced into Missouri. A new and untried law, it was freely predicted that it would prove unworkable. Auditor Smith accepted the responsibility, however, and has made an outstanding success of the administration of the law. He handled this troublesome question with such care and impartiality that it is now accepted without question by the people of the state and is the chief source of revenue for old age pensions and relief. He has administered this troublesome law at the unbelievable low cost of 1.93 per cent, which is the lowest collection cost of any state in the union.

An idea of the immense amount of work being done through Mr. Smith's direction may be realized in the fact that his office collected over 68 per cent of the general revenue collected in 1939, and this without a suggestion of favoritism or a hint of scandal or fraud.

In the four-year period of 1929-1932, when the State Auditor's office was under Republican direction, there was issued only 590,-370 warrants. During the four-year period, 1936-1939, under the administration of Auditor Forrest Smith, 1,875,333 warrants were issued was handled, because of Auditor Smith's modern office system, with a very small increase in cost.

He has conducted the Criminal Cost Department and the auditing of criminal cost bills in such a way that since 1937 all cost bills were paid without the necessity of a deficiency appropriation. This is most unusual in Missouri. Likewise, he has audited and paid all county officer's accounts for the assessment and collection of revenue without the need of a deficiency appropriation. So far as the records show, this is a precedent. In 1933, at the end of the Republican administration, a deficiency appropriation of $221,000 was required to pay these costs in full.

In supervising collection of the state income taxes, Mr. Smith has made an enviable record. During his years of service, changes have been made in the state income tax law placing directly upon the Auditor's office the liability for delinquent tax collections. This has greatly increased the work of the income tax department, but it has been assumed, however, without any appropriations increase. He has forced certain corporate interests to pay income taxes into Missouri's treasury the same as salaried people for the first time in the history of the office of State Auditor, and has brought income tax collections up to high levels. They have increased from $9,000,000 in 1935-1936 to an estimated $15,000,-000 in 1939-1940.

Previous to Auditor Smith's tenure in office, county audits were virtually unknown. At present, every county in the state has been audited once and sixty-five have been audited the second time Thousands of dollars have been returned to the state as a result of these audits. But this saving is the least of the benefits accruing to the taxpayers of the state. As an added benefit, inseparable with the close supervision from the state office, the counties are now on a business basis and there has been a material savings locally. A uniform system of bookkeeping, accounting and recording throughout the counties of the state has simplified the relation between the state and local governmental units, something that has long been needed in this state.

He has audited all State Institutions each year as provided by law. This too, for the first time in the history of the office. He has developed in these institutions a uniform system of accounting, an innovation which has proven beneficial and which has simplified the handling of state appropriations for such institutions.

There has been no increase in the cost of handling the gasoline tax refund though this refund has grown by leaps and bounds. In 1933, refunds were made to the amount of $205,179.62. Six years later, in 1939, the refund amounted to over three times the 1933 figure, or $657,439.28. As soon as the unusual growth of the gasoline tax refund became apparent, Auditor Smith discarded the old system in use in the Auditor's office and adopted a new system, efficient and simplified, which took care of the increasing load of work at no additional cost.

There has been a heavy registration of bonds during the administration of Auditor Forrest Smith. During the 1933-34 biennium, bonds were registered to the amount of $12,748,987. The peak of bond registration was reached in the 1937-38 biennial period when a total was registered to the amount of $25,835,830. While there has been no especial increase in the expense of handling this bond registration, the earnings for the state have been far above average. Auditor Smith's Republican predecessor collected $32,258.40 for the state in the four year period, 1929-1932 inclusive. Auditor Smith collected $48,377.45 in the four-year period, 1935-1938 inclusive.

Looking back over Auditor Smith's year in office, it can readily be seen that the record is one of a constant increase in responsibility, a constant growth in the departments of the office against which is balanced a continual striving for efficiency and economy, which necessarily called for a complete revolution in office methods and office systems. Forrest Smith has been equal to the job. He has justified the confidence placed in him by the people of Missouri. He has a record for accomplishments of which our state may well be proud.

Bob Winn Faithful Servant

"One good term deserves another" is a phrase frequently heard but there is one outstanding Democratic official in Missouri to whom the old adage does not and cannot apply—State Treasurer Robert W. Winn.

The Missouri Constitution prohibits the State Treasurer from succeeding himself and that is the one and only reason why the name of Bob Winn, as he is familiarly and affectionately known, will not appear on the Democratic ballot in November. Had it been possible for him to have succeeded himself, all agree that the nomination would have been his for the asking.

Treasurer Winn has achieved an enviable record in the high state office that he occupies. Every division of his large department has been placed on a systematic and efficient basis under his direction to the end that all duties are discharged speedily and with the greatest degree of accuracy. State funds placed in various depositories have been so safeguarded that not one cent of the people's money has been lost during his tenure of office. Other branches of the Treasurer's office, such as the Inheritance Tax Department, have been administered with the utmost satisfaction and at a low expense to the taxpayer. Although the work of his department has increased tremendously in the last few years, Treasurer Winn has performed the additional duties without an increase in personnel, every service posible being rendered the public.

All in all—though handicapped by a small appropriation—Bob Winn will leave behind him a splendid record of accomplishment when he steps out of the Treasurer's office next January.

Missouri is appreciative of his able and distinctive services and the Democratic Party is proud of the manner in which he has lived up to the trust imposed in him.

Former Senator Reed Speaks for Willkie

Former Senator James A. Reed, is being advertised in the Republican press as a speaker to fight Roosevelt on the third term. We know the former senator is a strong believer in the second term because he married Paul Donnell's widow, the famous Nellie Don. When the senator married this widow he also married a big dressmaking establishment which did not believe in collective barganing. It so happens after the senator inherited this gib business through marriage or we should say the second papa of it that he became violently opposed to the constructive labor laws of the new deal. Most all of us have been awarded a great deal of amusement out of watching an old man trying to champion a young woman as against the majority of his countrymen.

Senator Reed, if you will recall, twenty years back, is perhaps more to blame for the condition of the world today than any man we know of in this country. Versatile, selfish, and a judgement over balanced by personal hate, he fought Woodrow Wilson not alone at Versailles but on the Senate floor until America was doubtful. Had it not been for Reed and his type of personal politicians, Germany after it had been conquered by the American soldiers would have been given an economic and stable protective government that it might have built itself into a constructive nation as a cog in a peace world instead of an 'ism government of barbarism. We challenge Jim Reed's sincerity in his fight on the third term, and suggest that he devote all his efforts to the placements and security of his charming young widow wife and that if he does such he will have his hands full.

We suggest also to this man though we know he is a willful hater and an eloquent speaker one fact, namely, Missouri democracy which has honored him considers him now as dead as a Sunday blacksmith's forge.—Paris Mercury.

IN TOP FORM

The Champ came out swinging Wednesday night. His punch was devastating, his boxing was a thing of beauty, and his footwork dazzling. He looked like a million dollars.

In other words, President Roosevelt was in top form in the first of his avowedly political speeches of the 1940 campaign. The world's No. 1 radio personality was functioning perfectly. The magnificent voice, the easy delivery, the skillful balancing of drama and humor, were never demonstrated to better advantage.

The purpose of the speech, as the President stated it, was to "call the attention of the nation to deliberate or unwitting falsifications of fact" by his opponents, and he did the job with the keenest of relish. With a minimum of pointed words, he demolished some of the more fantastic scarecrows of the Willkie campaign. He demolished them without the rant or cant in which the campaign to date has abounded, but with facts, figures and logic.

The President also reviewed the record, and it is, of course, his privilege to present the most favorable aspects of his seven and a half years in office. The contrast between the national hoplessness in the depths of depression, and the revival of morale and of business in the New Deal's years, makes an impressive showing, as does the roll call of progressive legislation. Large-scale unemployment presists, and Mr. Roosevelt carefully skirted that fact, but there is encouragement in the recent months' items of recovery, and in all continuance of the New Deal's ameliorative efforts.

The President spoke explicitly on a subject that has disturbed many voters, the subject of possible involment in war. His pledge was sweeping: no intervention abroad, no secret pledges of any kind to a foreign Power, an arms program for national defense alone. These were highly reassuring words. They were approved by the vast majority of his hearers, for they accurately reflected the country's temper. The public approves, and despite the warmongers' most eloquent pleas, the people will insist on holding the President to his word.

All in all, it was an inspiring and a devasting performance. It was a speech that put new spirit into a campaign that had reached a stage of vagueness and monotony. To give an effective answer, Mr. Willkie must abandon his generalities and get down to points. Any sort of reply will be a colossal job at best—and the President still has four more speeches to make.—Post-Dispatch.

6494 HIGHEST NUMBER IN MISSOURI DRAFT LISTS

Jefferson City, Oct. 27.—The highest possible draft number in Missouri will be 6494—held by a resident of Pemiscot County.

Final revisions at selective service headquarters today fixed that top serial number in the Southeast Missouri county where an unexpected rush of river workers sent the registrations for ahead of advance expectations.

Keep Wildlife Out of Politics!

Why Proposition No. 5 Should be Defeated

1. It is costing Missouri taxpayers $80,000.00.
2. It is an attempt by politicians to regain control of wildlife and natural resources.
3. It will reduce wildlife releases and decrease supply.
4. It will curtail enforcement.
5. It will halt progress in conservation education.
6. It will prevent restoration of soils, waters, forests and wildlife.

Proposition No. 5 is condemned and opposed by the following state-wide organizations:

The Farm Bureau Federation, The Missouri Farmers' Association,
The Federation of Garden Clubs,
The Federation of Women's Clubs, The American Legion,
The Audubon Society and The Conservation Federation of Missouri.

WHY A MACHINE SENATOR

For six years Missouri has had Harry S. Truman as Senator. He was chosen by and represented a boss-controlled machine. His outstanding effort during his six year's service in the United States Senate was for this machine.

Why should not Missouri people have a Senator who will represent them and look after their interest? Neither Mr. Truman nor any one else has ever offered a valid reason why the machine should have a United States Senator, and the people be without representation.

A FREE MAN AVAILABLE

The Republican Party is offering for the consideration of Missouri voters Manvel H. Davis for the important position of United States Senator.

Both his private and public life has been clean and constructive. He is able and trustworthy. He is under obligation to no boss or machine. He will represent only Missouri People. We hold that the 3,500,000 people of Missouri have a right to select their own Senator. They should do so on November 5.

A SAFE MAN

He stands for government by the people and against machine-controlled government. For honest, economical and a democratic form of government.

He commands the confidence and respect of Missouri people. He will serve them honestly, ably and courageously.

A vote for him will be a vote for good government.

As Farmers Profit Cities Also Prosper

Farm Income Up

In 1932, when wheat was selling at the lowest price in 300 years, the one-fourth of our population engaged in farming had vanished from the market as customers for city goods. But under the New Deal, farm income has doubled.

World Market Sustained

By buying up price-depressing wheat and cotton surpluses from the farmers and selling them to exporters, the federal government has helped farmers to retain their share of the world market. This export subsidy program coupled with the Trade Agreements Program has helped reopen farmers' export markets.

Surpluses Salvaged

Where perishable farm surpluses glutted the market, the government has purchased them for distribution to families on relief. Since 1933 these purchases have totalled enough to load 5,000 trains of 45 cars each.

Electricity Extended

About one-fourth of the farms of this country now have electricity as compared with 1 in 10 in 1932. REA loans will provide service to 600,000 farm families.

Farm Families Rehabilitated

Rehabilitation loans have enabled 600,000 destitute farm families again to become selfsupporting. Tenants are becoming owners through the land-purchase program.

Money Goes to Town

Farmers are now able to buy as much from the city as they did in 1929. Retail sales of rural general merchandise have gone up by 102% since 1932. Farmers bought their share of the great increase in durable goods and autos.

Home Market Restored

A world market for the farmer's staples has meant the revival of city factories. Farmers with foreign markets are farmers with money in their pockets. One-fifth of all the factory workers reemployed since 1932 have gone back to work because of increased purchases by farm families. Then those factory hands became purchasers too.

Cities Are Better Fed

The cities get this surplus food to feed their needy people, and thus build up this country's health defense. The corner grocer also profits where surplus distribution is done under the Food Stamp Plan.

Appliance Sales Up

Arrival of electricity on American farms meant purchase of farm machinery, stoves, washing machines, irons, refrigerators, water pumps, plumbing supplies.

Debts Paid Off

Families borrowing under Farm Security have repaid nearly a third of the money loaned to them, and with their credit made sound are community assets, not liabilities.

"The amount of commodities which farmers buy is necessarily limited by the purchasing power of their commodities in exchange for city goods and services. This is the heart of the farm income problem and the basis of an important part of the city business problem."—Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture.

The Standard force has been kept mighty busy this week with printing and delivering the ballots and getting in type the registration numbers and names. Their issue of The Standard will prove one of the most sought-after papers for a long time.

Hon. C. M. Hulen, Democratic State Chairman comes out with the prediction that Roosevelt will carry Missouri by 300,000. Marion has always been an optomist cuss, but we are afraid he has his sights set for too long a range. The more you hear over the radio and the more you read in the metropolitan papers about the political campaign the less you know. All we know is that those who have benefitted by the Democratic administration will be very ungrateful if they vote the Republican ticket the coming Tuesday. Local Men Undergo Their First Draft

Sikeston and vicinity participated in the national draft lottery Tuesday by listening to the radio, scanning newspapers for serial and order numbers, and expressing their sentiments in no end of conversation.

In America's first peace-time conscription, the first man to be named in the draft in Scott County was Claud Finley, unmarried Blodgett farmer, 30 years old.

FIRST IN SIKESTON

The first Sikeston man was Morris Ellison French, 29, married and an employe of the Missouri Utlities Co.

Of the first one hundred order numbers in Scott County, fifty-one, or just over half, are those of Sikeston men.

(Names of the first one hundred persons in the draft are listed in a group in this issue.)

MEN LOOK FOR NAMES

The office of the Standard was swamped Tuesday afternoon, Wednesday and Thursday by registrants seeking their serial numbers, which were being set in type for this issue, except for the first 908 printed in the Tuesday edition. Callers scanned galley proofs as soon as they came off the proof press in search of their names.

The Benton office of the Draft Board likewise had a crowd of men looking for serial numbers, which were posted on bulletin board in the courthouse.

Portageville, Gideon Lead Madrid List

Portageville and Gideon led the list of the first ten men drawn in the draft lottery Tuesday from New Madrid County.

Four registrants including the first two drawn are of the Portageville community while the Gideon area also supplied four.

The distinction of holding No. 158 and being at the top of the list goes to I. K. Douglas, about 30 years old, of Portageville. He is married.

Next on the list is Dewey Monroe Todd of Portageville, whose serial number, 192, was the second to be pulled from the bowl at Washington.

REST OF FIRST TEN

With a total of 5727 registered in the county up to Thursday, others in the list of the first ten, with their serial numbers, are:

No. 3 — 4779 — James Duke. Gideon.

No. 4 — 5485 — Jesse Willard Cooper, Portageville Rt. 1.

No. 5—5375—Ernest Truman Newberry, Conran.

No. 6—4880—John David Elan, Gideon.

No. 7—4928—Louis Otto Willoughby, Gideon.

No. 8—105 — William Charles Crowe, Portageville.

No. 9—4861—Arlis William Billington, Gideon Rt. 1.

No. 10—5527—Matthews Brown, Morehouse, Colored.

Brown is the only negro in the first ten.

VARIES WITH SCOTT

Because New Madrid County had over 1600 more registrants than Scott County, whose total was 4089, there is a vast difference in the order numbers of the two counties. Those between No. 2 and No. 8 in New Madrid were discarded in Scott for being too high, so that No. 105 is third on the Scott County list. No. 188, which is seventh in the Scott County rotation, belongs to Willis Monroe Bland of Portageville Rt. 1, who stands eighteenth in New Madrid County.

Circuit Clerk Tom Lee, chairman of the New Madrid County Draft Board, said he expected orders by Monday from the government giving instructions about sending questionnaires to the quota of draftees to be called before the board.

T. E. L. CLASS

The T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Milburn Arbaugh Tuesday evening, November 5, with Mrs. Dean Marshall, Mrs. Boyd Scillian and Mrs. C. H. Lewis as assistant hostesses.

Scott Board Awaits Quota Set By Army

Scott County's Draft Board will wait until the United States Army sets the quota to be called before sending out the eight-page questionnaires to the designated group, according to Circuit Clerk Leo Pfefferkorn, secretary of the board.

Now that the order numbers have been determined by the draft lottery drawing in Washington on Tuesday, those whose numbers came early on the list can expect after receiving questionnaires to be called to Benton for an official appearance before the board and also for medical examination.

BOARD WEIGHS CASES

The board will determine if they shall be called to service or deferred because of dependants, physical disability, essential occupation or other cause.

The first number out of the goldfish bowl at Washington, No. 158, was the serial number of 6,175 men in as many draft areas in the United States.

To call up the 800,000 the Army wants on the first draft call, each draft area must supply, roughly, 130 men.

MAY CALL UP TO 650

Officials have estimated that only one man out of five will be eligible when exemptions are considered, so that 650 persons must come before the board in order to get the county quota for the army.

Any person whose order number is higher than 650 may be fairly certain of not being called to service this year.

All metropolitan papers carreid the order of the drawings in Washington.

South Carolina Governor Here

Governor B. R. Maybank of South Carolina, in Southeast Missouri on a speaking tour for the Roosevelt and state Democratic campaigns, made Sikeston his headquarters from Tuesday until Thursday.

Gov. Maybank spoke at Democratic gatherings Wednesday in Greenville, Mo., in the afternoon and at Bernie in the evening, after addressing a rally at Morley Tuesday evening.

The Governor and Mrs. Maybank, arriving here Tuesday afternoon for the speeches from St. Louis, were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Coleman until Thursday morning, when they left for Caruthersville.

The South Carolina executive was scheduled to speak Thursday evening at 7:30 at Caruthersville, at New Madrid 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, and on Saturday has two speaking engagements, at Doniphan at 3 p. m. and at Kennett at 7:30 p. m.

Scott Democratic Attorneys Endorse Judge Ellison

All Democratic attorneys in Scott County have endorsed George Robb Ellison as a candidate for re-election to the Supreme Court, according to Attorney Robert Dempster of Sikeston.

Judge Ellison, of Maryville, has served one term and has made an outstanding record, he said. Even Republican metropolitan newspapers have praised the record of Judge Ellison.

He was appointed in 1927 to a four-year term as Supreme Court Commissioner for a four-year term. He was elected Judge of the Supreme Court, Division 2, for a 10-year term, which expires this year.

Lawyers in seventy-nine counties throughout the state, a total of 775 attorneys, have endorsed Ellison.

SIKESTON MEN LEAVE FOR NAVY DUTY

Jerome "Romey" Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, and Leonard Colley, son of Mrs. Gertrude Colley, left here Wednesday en route to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., to begin serving an enlistment in the United States Navy.

List of First Hundred Scott County Draftees

Listed below are the names of the first one hundred men drawn for the draft Tuesday. Army officials estimate that, with 6175 draft areas, approximately 650 men will be called from each area to obtain the 800,000 men desired by the army. Of the 650, it is expected about 130 will be chosen, the remainder being deferred by exemptions.

158 Claud Richard Finley, Blodgett.
192 Clarence Hicks, Vanduser.
105 Robt. Clayton Cooper, Chaffee.

FIRST SCOTT DRAFTEE GRINS ON HEARING NEWS

"Yeah," grinned Claud, at the edge of the cotton field.

Claud Richard Finley, aged 30 and unmarried, had just been informed by a Standard representative that he was Public Draftee No. 1 in Scott County. He was located Tuesday afternoon picking cotton with his father and mother in a field near their home, four miles east of Blodgett.

Asked what he thought about it, Claud good-naturedly replied:

"Oh, there's nothing to think."

Three neighbors who had been chasing, unsuccessfully, a yearling heifer in an adjoining cornfield, ventured up and wondered how soon Claud would have to report to the Draft Board.

"I'm not worrying about that," remarked the draftee, who is six feet two inches tall and weighs over 200 pounds. "I won't have to go today."

Asked if he had any reason for claiming exemption, Claud said he knew of none, "unless it would be for helpin' my parents."

His father, Robert Richard Finley, said Claud helped them with the farm work and contributed to their support. Whether he would be deferred under the classification as essential to agriculture is a matter for the Draft Board. He said he had estimated the board would have to call up 500 men to get 100 eligible for the first draft.

Figuring pay, clothes, board and room while in the army, Claud estimated he would be making more money in training than in farm work.

Claud said he had no girl friend, so there would be no tearful parting.

The No. 1 draftee registered at Blodgett and his registration card, in the shuffle at the Benton draft office, received No. 158—the first number Secretary of War Stimson pulled from the draft lottery bowl at Washington.

Finley was born on the Chewning farm about six miles east of Benton on Highway 55 and has lived all his life in Scott County. He attended Owensby and Lemmons schools. With his parents, he lives on the J. W. Moore farm on Highway 55, about four miles east of Blodgett.

There are four sons in the family. Three had to register, but only Claud is a bachelor. Coda Finley, who lives near Blodgett, and Clarence Finley, of St. Louis, are under the 35 age limit. Both have four children. Lee Finley, who is married but has no children, was above the maximum. He lives closer to Charleston.

Just one thing bothered Claud. When he received the registration certificate to carry with him, the clerk switched answers during the rush and checked him as having brown eyes and blue hair. Claud noticed it later and would live to have it corrected.

This is the first time Claud ever came out first in a drawing; for that matter, the first time he ever had his name in a lottery, as far as he can recall. He never tried to win in a bank night, turkey raffle, quilt contest at a church bazaar, or the like.

"Never had time for such things," he said.

Small Girl Hit by Car on Grid Field

An automobile that crashed through a fence traveled the length of the football field at the High School Monday afternoon, hitting a small girl who was playing on the field but not causing serious injuries.

The car, driven by Mrs. Benjamin B. Schade, wife of the purchasing agent at the airport, was traveling east on Woodlawn, which comes to a dead end on Moore at the west end of the grid field. At the intersection, Mrs. Schade intended to step on the brake but pressed instead on the accelerator, becoming unnerved when the car lept forward.

Luckily, Coach Green had just called the football squad onto the bleachers for a discussion, and the field was clear of players. Crashing through the wire fence, the car ran the length of the field, coming to a stop against a pile of dirt by the swimming pool project. Jo Ellen Standley, 2½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Standley, romping on the field with some other children, was grazed as the car went past. She received a cut across the right cheek and a few minor scratches and was treated by Dr. M. G. Anderson.

BAPTIST CIRCLE TO HEAR BOOK REVIEW

The members of the Business Women's Circle of the First Baptist Church will enjoy a pot luck supper at the home of Mrs. Milem Limbaugh Monday evening, November 4, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. Following the supper hour Mrs. Limbaugh will give a review of the book "Rebirth of a Nation," by Jacob Gartenhaus.

Farmer Falls Under Truck, Fatally Hurt

Attempting to jump from a truck on which he was riding as it swerved to avoid another truck, Charles Kirkpatrick, 35-year-old farmer, was fatally injured at 7 o'clock Monday evening on Highway 61 at the Matthews lane.

Kirkpatrick was crushed beneath the wheels of a large transport truck on the highway.

LIVES THREE HOURS

He lived for three hours, dying at 10 o'clock at the Sikeston General Hospital. He suffered a severely crushed skull, both legs badly broken, crushed chest, broken neck, broken collar bone and abdominal injuries.

The truck carrying Kirkpatrick had gone to Matthews with some grain and was returning to the farm where he lived, about two miles east of Highway 61, when the accident occurred, it was learned.

With the owner of the truck, John Riley, negro, Kirkpatrick was riding on the rear bed of the truck, driven by another negro, Charles Hudnall, 40, Matthews Rt. 2, it was related to Sgt. Melvin Dace of the State Patrol. There were no sides on the bed, and Kirkpatrick sat with his legs dangling over the left side.

SWERVES TO AVOID CRASH

Hudnall came to the highway and in an effort to avoid hitting the southbound transport, an East Texas Motor Freight hauler driven by Charles R. Whitehead, 36, of Blytheville, Ar., swung to the south also.

Riley heard Kirkpatrick shout, "Jump John," but the negro rolled backward on the truck bed. The trucks did not collide. Kirkpatrick jumped and fell under the transport.

OPERATED FARM

The farmer had been connected with his brother, F. C. Kirkpatrick, who died last April 20, in the operation of a 3000-acre farm east of Matthews. His mother, Mrs. Maggie Kirkpatrick, died a month ago in East St. Louis.

Surviving are a brother, Alec Kirkpatrick, of Saltillo, Miss., and a sister, Mrs. Mary Keyes of St. Louis.

He was born May 20, 1905, at Saltillo. Mr. Kirkpatrick and his brother came to this section two years ago.

The remains were removed to the Albritton Funeral home and shipped by train Wednesday morning to Tupelo, Miss. Rites were held Wednesday afternoon at Saltillo.

Flag Drive Begins Friday

A drive to sell American Flags in Sikeston will begin this Friday, Nov. 1, it was decided by Henry Meldrum Post at its meeting Monday night at the armory.

The Flag committee, Loomis Mayfield, Ben Welter and Jean Hirschberg, reported a hundred Flags had been purchased. The Legion hopes to sell one for every business house and residence and to urge all to display the Flag on all national holidays.

For uniformity, only one size was ordered, three by five feet, with standard mounting poles, to be set either on the lawn in front of the residence or mounted at an angle from the house. Prices will be found in an ad in this issue.

Col. Harry E. Dudley, commander of the 140th Infantry, and Capt. Wade Shankle, commander of Company K, invited members to join the Home Defense Unit being formed here to replace the National Guard, leaving soon for a year's training camp. Twelve Legionnaires have joined, and at least twenty more are expected to join within the next week.

There will be no regular meeting of the Legion until Nov. 18, as most local members plan to go to Kennett for the district Armistice Day celebration on Nov. 11.

LEGION AUXILIARY

The Auxiliary of the American Legion will meet at the home of Mrs. Jean Hirschberg Tuesday night, November 5, with Mrs. Loomis Mayfield as assistant hostess. The meeting will open promptly at 7:30 and all members are requested to be there on time.

In Charge of County Demo Tour

People desiring to join in the big Democratic motor parade throughout Scott County Monday are asked to contact J. S. Wallace, candidate for re-election as State Representative, who is chairman of arrangements. The caravan will leave Benton at 7:45 a. m. and conclude the tour at 7 p. m. in Illmo, where a rally and free motion picture show will take place. A full itinerary is given in a story on the front page of the third section.

Air School Plans Expansion to Train Up to 240 Cadets

Third Hangar, New Barracks Sites Being Laid Out; to Be Completed by December 20

Contemplating its first major expansion only seven weeks after the opening, the Missouri Institute of Aeronautics has a contractor laying out the site for a new barracks and a third hangar, anticipating a class of 240 cadets by the first of the year.

Construction will likely start in the next few days, and the buildings should be ready for use by December 20, according to A. B. Woodbury, general manager.

The Board of Directors of the Institute will meet Tuesday to discuss the three-fold enlargement.

SEE 320 EVENTUALLY

With slightly less than 90 students now enrolled in the primary training of the United States Army Air Corps, the Institute has been considered seriously by the War Department for a capacity of 320 students, it has been learned here. This would require still another dormitory.

It is possible that after enlarging to accommodate 240 cadets, a further expansion will be in order, Mr. Woodbury said.

W. L. Wimmer of East St. Louis, contractor on the all the present buildings except the hangars, is laying out the site of the new structures.

Each of the two dormitories now in use have a capacity of 72 students, and another dormitory would be the same size. A third hangar, with a uniform capacity of 28 planes, would bring the total capacity to 84.

SECOND HANGAR RISING

Construction of the second hangar, begun nearly a month ago, is progressing rapidly, and most of the steel frame work has been put in place.

The flying school requires one plane to approximately three students.

Increase in the number of cadets would mean more civilian instructors of the institution founded by Oliver Parks of East St. Louis. Having 19 employed now and needing one for every five students, the school would need 48 instructors for the 240 cadets expected by the first of the year.

The United States Army personnel, which now consists of four officers and eight enlisted men, might also be increased.

Under the initial expansion, probably the one auxiliary flying field north of the city would be needed, Mr. Woodbury said.

BIGGER ARMY PROGRAM

Necessity for the larger flying school may be indicated in the War Department's defense program, which was raised recently from 12,000 to 15,000 pilots per year. Shortly before it was advanced from 7000 to 12,000.

The Institute now has the two barracks, a class building, cafeteria, administration building, one complete and one partially built hangar.

COUNTY LISTS ORDER NUMBERS UP TO 4089

All numbers drawn in the draft lottery which are larger than the highest Scott County number will be discarded in determining the order in the County, Circuit Clerk Leo Pfefferkorn, secretary of the county Draft Board, said Tuesday.

Up to five o'clock Tuesday afternoon, there were 4089 registrants in the county. So, in the lists printed in the metropolitan newspapers, the registrant should find his serial number in the list, cross out all preceding numbers above 4089, and then count from figure at the top of the list—No. 158—to determine his order number.

A few more men between 21 and 35 years may register in the meantime, raising the total above 4089 by several, but it will not materially affect the person's order number and chances of being called to service.

A man's number might be well down the list in the national drawing and still close to the top in the Scott County listing. For instance, the third man on the Scott County list, Robert Clayton Cooper of Chaffee, is eleventh in the national drawing. However, eight numbers above his are higher than 4089 and hence are not considered in Scott County.

Sikeston Man, Who Had Lost Number, Stands Last on List

Two Sikeston men had numbers which were declared missing after the drawing was completed in Washington. That of Otis Herman Parks, 1835, was never found, along with five other numbers too high to affect Scott County.

Another number, 1033, that of Robert Lee Stone in this county, was said to be missing at the end of the main drawing, but later it was discovered that it and another supposedly lost number already had been drawn, in order 8998.

A "junior lottery" of the six missing numbers was held, and Parks' number was next to the last in the nation, No. 9001, and as far as Scott County is concerned he is at the absolute bottom of the list. Parks' mail address here is general delivery.

Officials could not explain how the six capsules came to be missing, but thought they might have dropped into the coat sleeve of some official doing the drawing, or could have fallen to the floor in the long session.

MISS GARTEN WILL REVIEW AT POPLAR BLUFF

Mrs. Kathryn Turney Garten of Indianapolis, Ind., noted in the literary circles of Indiana and Missouri, who has made several appearances in Sikeston, will be in Poplar Bluff on Sunday afternoon, November 3, to review "The Bible Designed to be Read as Living Literature," by Bates. Expressions From Without

THE REAL "INDISPENSABLE" MAN

Dear Colonel Blanton:

Speaking of "Indispensable" men—A realization has suddenly seemed to dawn on thinking voters of America that right here in our midst we may have that very chap. His name is Wendell Willkie if you don't happen to have heard of him before and he came to public notice some four months ago at a Republican National Convention. His chief recommendations at that time are reported to have been a finesse in selling Kilowatts and a "get the money" record as a Wall Street Attorney. Since that convention the public has received vast information from many impassioned speeches of Mr. Willkie. He admits openly that he has a list of all governmental diseases and "By Jeeminy" he also has a sure cure for very single one of them—all written down in his note book—and he is ready now to treat his patient—Uncle Sam. The only thing in the way is that he must be elected President first and then "recovery" starts. The morning after he takes his seat in the White House each of the millions of unemployed will have a job waiting for him and promotions are going to come to all the balance of us poor mortals rapidly. This incomparable Kilowatt Expert—Lawyer from Wall Street seems to have, according to his own testimony, not only "somethin'" but Everything on the ball. This gentleman's attitude indicates he will direct Battle Ship builders to turn out a big one each day—at least one major Tank every hour while airplane assemblers will be expected to shovel molten steel into one end of a machine and every few minutes discharge at the other end one complete bomber—fully equipped—armed and manned by an American Ace who with automatic fuel drawn from the skies will tear out across the Atlantic to stop Hitler. Some Man—this Mr. Wendell Willkie. One may gather from his radio conversations that he will be perfectly willing if elected to even give his personal endorsement on all Social Security Insurance Policies in case owners of them do not feel perfectly secure under the signature of Uncle Sam—alone. And—further—Mr. Willkie assures us he will bring added prosperity to farmers, put all small business men on their feet, Yes—and "kep us out of war" too—while chickens fatten in every garage and autos drop in every pot—or is it the other way round? To be sure all these blessings can not arrive until the first Bull Session of Kilowatt Congress convenes. When those boys get together taxes will be reduced and reduced and reduced to an irriducible minimum—if you know what that means.

All this is "somethin'" ain't it Colonel? Like makers of "Peruna" who agree to cure everything from Female Trouble to Malignant Hookworm—Mr. Willkie is surely going full speed ahead on promises. His complete menu of claims and promises may be thoroughly answered by that old piece of street slang boys use when one of their number does too much bragging, viz; "all who believe that—stand on their heads".

I can almost hear you ask—"Do you expect me to print that dam foolishness?" You may use your own judgment about that. I do admit that most of it is rather exaggerated—and reckless—but as compared to the "Know It All" attitude of Willkie—these few comparisons are a very poor second.

That indispensable Man? Republicans don't have to leave their party to find him. If he can muster ten per cent of his claims—Willkie deserves that compliment.

COMMON SENSE.

P. S. to friends:

Bring your whole familly and meet me at the polls Tuesday and lets join hands and ballots for Franklin D. the President who has done more for common people like you and me than any other man in three generations.

Bomb Reported Found on U. S. Army Transport

Panama, Panama, Oct. 29.—An official source aboard the United States army transport Republic refused to confirm or deny today a seaman's story that a time bomb had been found aboard the ship shortly after it sailed from San Francisco Oct. 18 with 3000 soldiers and passengers.

According to the seaman's story, H. F. Dodd ,the ship's master of arms, found in the after hold a box containing "a mechanical contraption" and enough nitroglycerin to blow the vessel "clear out of the water."

Dodd was said to have carried the box on deck, "praying all the way," and dumped it overboard. Most of those on the Republic were unaware of what had happened, the seaman said.

An inquiry was reported held aboard the Republic following its arrival here yesterday, but Col. Joseph Bibbs, the ship's adjutant, answered queries with: "I have no statement to make."

The Republic was expected to sail from Cristobal for New York tonight after making the eastward passage through the canal.

The city of St. Louis has had an awful struggle to abate its smoke nuisance and thinks it just about has the problem licked. A quicker and surer plan, a writer in the St. Louis Star-Times suggests, would be to elect Mr. Wendell Willkie president, calling attention that in most of the Hoover administration the smoke was not bothersome at all.—Caruthersville Democrat.

BULLDOGS HOST TO BLUFF IN LOOP CLASH

With both teams undefeated in conference play, one team is certain to be eliminated from consideration, unless Charleston later should defeat the winner and succumb to the loser, which would leave the loop in a three-way tie.

Comparisons mean little in forecasting the winner. Poplar Bluff eked out a 7-6 victory over Perryville, although decisively outplaying the Pirates, and Sikeston tromped the Perry County eleven, 26-6. On the other hand, the Bulldogs rang up two touchdowns in beating Jackson, 14-0, while the Mules ran will against the Indians, 38-14. Sikeston bumped East Prairie, 51-0, and Poplar Bluff sailed through Kennett, 44-6. The Bulldogs also have the 21-14 victory over Christian Bros. of St. Louis.

Each team has a set back, the Growlers to Dexter, 7-6, and Poplar Bluff to powerful Crystal City, 7-0, last week.

"Torchy" Godwin has the best crew assembled under him since he took over the coaching reins at Poplar Bluff three seasons ago. His team is strong on passing and has used the shovel pass to great advantage this season. It will be up to Sikeston to stop the passing attack in order to overcome the Mules.

POPULAR BLUFF LINE

The Bulldog line, who put up a valiant and more-than-equal battle against the crushing power of the Dexter line, will not be faced with so much tonnage against the Mules. Coach Godwin's line, if he uses the 165-pound Troy Pinkston at left tackle, will average a little over 159 pounds. But if the bluky Melville Nunn, at 210 pounds, is started, the Mules will have a line averaging 166 pounds.

The usual starting line for Sikeston averages 165 pounds.

This is not to say that Poplar Bluff will not have some good sized men in the wall. Coach Godwin plays his tackles big. John Bryant, on the right side, is 175 pounds, so Pinkston is the lightest of the tackle trio. Light, fast guards, are in the starting lineup, Oscar Hopson and Glen Gillis, both registering about 145. A husky one at left end is Francis Williams, 180 pounds, while Charley Couch at the other outpost is 152, about the same weight as James Allen, the center.

MULE BACKFIELD

In the backfield, Poplar Bluff has two 160-pounders, Boots Glaze and Sonny Walker. Buddy Shadle is 150 and Buddy Walker 145. The backfield averages 154 pounds, and Sikeston's 161.

With Harold Taylor still nursing a broken bone in the hand, Coach Green pobably will start Billy Orr in the blocking back position.

POPLAR BLUFF CLASH IS HOMECOMING GAME

The Sikeston-Poplar Bluff contest here Friday night will be the Homecoming Game for Sikeston High School. All Bulldog alumni who have lettered in any sport can obtain tickets to the game free by registering with "Sheik" Jones, president of the Alumni Association.

MARILYN MAYFIELD IS HALLOWEEN HOSTESS

Marilyn Mayfield was hostess at a Halloween party Thursday night from 7:30 to 9:30 at her parents' home on Center Street. The rooms were decorated with witches, pumpkins and colored lights and the favors and refreshments carried out the same theme. The following guests were invited to attend in masked costumes: Ruth Ann and Buddy Forrester, Margaret Ann White, Barbara Ann Canedy, Barbara Bethune, Mary Ann Tomerlin, Mary Eugenia Blanton, Alice Martin, Frances Ann Newsum, John Kendig, Betty Ann and Billy Northington, Gene Hirschberg, Virginia Bowles, Eddie McAmis, John Caverno, Barbara Jean Guthrie, Harold Coleman, Janet Stevens, Dot and Charles Matthews, Sue Sikes, Jack Bowman, Frances Mattingly, Ned Tanner, Barbara Lennox, Lorene Fowler, Donald Ray Francis, Gene Nicholson, Betty Drake Patty Comstock. Miss Ragains and Mrs. Irma Allen assisted Mrs. Mayfield in entertaining.

THREE CLOSE GRID GAMES UP FRIDAY

Three good games should be on the bill of fare of the Southeast Missouri gridiron Friday.

Because of the strength of the teams, and with the North Division title dangling possibly for the winner, the Sikeston-Poplar Bluff game here tops the list.

Another thriller most likely will be Charleston at Chaffee, while two teams who have never won a game, Perryville and Jackson, meet on the latter's court for a conference clash. Dexter should not have much trouble at Kennett.

The Red Devils and Charleston should put up a scrap in this nonconference game. Dexter, a measuring rod for both, beat the Jays, 18-6, and stopped Chaffee, 19-13. Jackson, another measuring rod, lost to Charleston, 13-7, and to Chaffee, 6-0. Chaffee waded through Kennett, 19-0, and lost a hard-fought tussle to Cape Girardeau, 12-7. The Blue Jays dropped East Prairie, 44-0, and Perryville, 25-0.

Perryville will find the odds against itself when it goes to Jackson. Results of past games give the Indians the edge.

Only a miracle could give Kennett a victory over Dexter. The Bearcats should achieve their third straight conference victory, leaving only East Prairie between Dexter and its second straight South Division title.

FIDELIS CLASS

The Fidelis Class of the First Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. A. M. Jackson on Moore Avenue Monday night, November 4, at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Cecil Boyer and Mrs. David Elrod will be assistant hostesses.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Robert Weeks was taken Wednesday night in the Albritton ambulance to St. Francis Hospital.

Woman's Club Sponsoring Review of Hit Play

The Sikeston Woman's Club will present Mrs. Oscar Carroll, talented dramatic reader in a play review of "Life With Father", the happiest and most engaging of all last season's Broadway success, Friday afternoon, Nov. 15, at the Library auditorium. Tickets will be twenty-five cents. They will be on sale beginning next week by all members of the club.

The play "Life With Father" is an American period comedy of the 1880's and was based on sketches written by Clarence Day, one of America's best-loved authors. His books "Life With Father", "Life With Mother", "God and My Father" and "Father and I" enchanted a national audience and have made "Father" a representative American figure and an authentic part of American folklore.

As only a limited number can be seated in the Library auditorium all who wish to be sure of an opportunity to attend this outstanding literary event are urged to make their reservations early. The Ways and Means Committee of the club, in charge of the play review, has announced that no one may be seated after the review starts. The review will last approximately an hour and a quarter, being skillfully cut to this length for the occasion by Mrs. Carroll.

The play is included in the 1939-40 Burns Mantle "Best Plays". In this volume each year are included the ten best plays of the previous Broadway season. This year the emphasis is on comedy, despite the war in Europe, and "Life With Father", a play of universal application and tremendous gayety, will be found a delightful interlude among the tragic happenings of today.

Proceeds will be used to finance the civic work of the Woman's Club.

Dies of Heart Attack at Bedside Of Ill Husband

Seated at the bedside of her ill husband, Mrs. Rosa Butler, 58, died of a heart attack suddenly in her chair Tuesday night at Charter Oak, below Canalou.

The husband, J. A. Butler, is ill of nephritis. Mrs. Butler had not been ill previously.

The body was removed to the Welsh Funeral Home and services, conducted by Rev. H. G. Oliver of Charter Oak, were held Thursday morning at the residence. Interment was at Kewanee.

Mrs. Butler was born Feb. 13, 1852.

Surviving are the husband; two daughters, Mrs. Golda Weaver and Mrs. Lottie Clanin, of Canalou, three stepsons, Leslie and Jesse Butler, of Canalou, and Clarence Butler, of Charter Oak; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Addie White, of Campbell; a brother, Jake Willis, of Illmo, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Diggins, of McDougal, Ark.

Mrs. J. E. Poyner Dies of Heart Attack

Mrs. Bertrude L. Poyner, 51 years old, died suddenly at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening of a heart atack at her home, 112 Trotter. She had not been ill previously.

Mrs. Poyner was born in Greenway, Ark., in 1889. Her husband, J. E. Poyner, is employed at the Shoe Factory.

The body was removed to the Albritton Funeral Home and taken to Rector, Ark. for services Thursday by Rev. A. J. Gould, Baptist minister there, followed by interment at Rector.

Besides the husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Willie Berry of Paragould, Ark.; a daughter, Miss Nannie Frances Poyner of Sikeston; six brothers, Evans Berry of Bardwell, Ark., Louie and Homer Berry of Rector, Allen Berry of Caraway, Ark., Ted Berry of Pontiac, Mich., and McDowell Berry of Memphis, Tenn.; three sisters, Mrs. Vivian Laffoon, Mrs. Mary Laffoon and Mrs. Ira Holder, all of Little Rock, Ark.

WPA Projects Fit Into Defense Program

Considerable work done for peacetime purposes by Scott County men employed by the Work Projects Administration in the five years it has been in existence could become part of the "second line of defense" in this country's mounting preparedness program, a survey made by Chester R. Treece, WPA area engineer, shows.

Good roads will be of vital importance to the movement of farm products and materials essential to a stepped-up industry, of troops and military supplies, Mr. Treece points out, adding that public buildings suitable for the accommodation of large assemblages of men or supplies, or both, might be used in many instances in the defense effort.

Most of the WPA work in this county, he says, has gone into farm-to-market and feeder routes and building construction. His survey shows that the road jobs now add up to approximately 165 miles of all-weather routes. If laid end-to-end they would extend from Sikeston to St. Louis.

The county's WPA-constructed buildings total eleven. Nine of these conceivably might be used for concentration of men or storage of supplies or materials. They are the Benton jail, Chaffee auditorium-gymnasium, Crowder gymnasium, Miner Community Building, Vanduser City Hall, and Sikeston Armory, Boy Scout Cabin, Library, and Recreation Center buildings.

Another aspect of the WPA program, he adds, also may be taken into account in any review of our resources for defense. Skills and morale necessary to a concerted and satisfactory defense effort have been preserved on these jobs. An average of 517 men a month have been given employment on WPA projects in Scott County during these five years.

Among their major accomplishments listed by Mr. Treece, in addition to those already mentioned, are the construction of a grade school at New Hamburg, and a school in District 13, Wylie School, near Chaffee.

Nearing completion is a school at Perkins, and a school building is under construction for the Morley Consolidated District.

TO CAPE HOSPITAL

Mrs. Clarence Patterson of Canalou was taken Saturday night in the Albritton ambulance to St. Francis Hospital for an appendix operation.

Have 7 choice residence lots located on concrete street in B. F. Chaney Addition priced $375.00 to $750.00. Inside and corner lots 100x170, $350.00, inside lots 80 to 100 feet front by 170 feet deep, $300. The B. F. Chaney Addition is going to be the second East Acres to Sikeston as it is restricted to homes to cost over $2500.00.

The next and most modern grade school will in my opinion be built in the southeast part of Sikeston. There are no other locations offered as desirable as the lots in Chaney Addition and as cheap in price.

Keep Faith in Sikeston building program, as there are many people planning to bring their business and manufacturers to this city in the near future. Sikeston is a safe place to invest in real estate and loans.

53 acres of land 6 miles north of Sikeston, small improvements, $20.00 per acre, small cash payment, easy terms, on balance.

160 acres, 2 miles southeast of Benton, Part black land, rest flat sand 30 acres timber, $12.50 per acre; small cash payment.

470 acres 6 miles south of Poplar Bluff on U. S. concrete Highway; large improvements; one-half cleared; 160 acres rolling land, balance bottom land, 40 bu. corn and a bale of cotton per acre this year's crop. Priced $30.00 per acre.

Now since the time is near November 5, Election Day, I cannot work or talk much until I get off on to politics and as the Pole Cat Editor has been pouring the New Deal on we Republicans and Jeffersonian Democrats, I decided to buy this space to tell you voters what I think you ought to do on November 5th.

In the first place, I want to tell you a remark Mr. A. J. Matthews made to me several years ago when I was worrying about the outcome of our national election. He said, "Now Keith, you don't need to worry about who is president for when things get so bad the damn fool people will fix it." His statement gives me consolation now, as I believe it is time, using his words, "for the damn fool people to fix it" again.

I am sure there are a lot of people worrying about how to vote on November 5, I hope I will be able to help you on your decision.

In the first place, as the old saying goes "Where there is a lot of smoke, there must be a dangerous fire", since there is a very large number of the most prominent Democrats who know the inside movements of the New Deal, declare its continuation in power, to be dangerous to the Democratic party as wel las to the welfare and freedom of all people, that being the case, that should be enough notice for us, who do not know the inside working of the New Deal, to change it on November 5th. We can protect our right to vote, NOW, and in the future by voting for Wendell Willkie, which will break up, as they say, the perpetuated program, built up and financed by the taxpayers against their wishes. When this unquestionable perpetuated program is broken up, then use your influence and votes to restrict the right to any person to hold any public office in the United States for a longer period than two terms. NO THIRD TERM. These high offices are a gift of the people. See that no man abuses the peoples rights. Change Nov. 5th.

Mr. Roosevelt recently stated one of the new deal first achievement was to set up a sound banking system. "The effect was", he made it so sound that the poorer classes and even people with ordinary means have not been able to borrow a single dollar out of any Bank since 1933. I am one of that class.

It is my opinion if the deposit of all the banks had been insured by the government 75 per cent of all the banks that had to close under the new deal would have survived as the people would have brought back the deposits that belong to the smaller bank. Thousand of people would still be employed in the banking business, the stock holders would have saved millions in good assets and the common people would have a banking connection. Not first class legistration but "Class Legistration".

FARM PROGRAM

Where is the justice in the farm program of the new deal, taking the industrial and city tax payers money and giving it to the farmer to stop productions which increase the cost of living of the city tax payer, reducing the labor on the farm making more competition for the man in the city that has a job.

Under the new deal the government is building thousands upon thousands of cheap houses to take care of the tenants that the farmers needed on the farm before he was paid to stop production.

Who will benefit by this large spending program of the tax payers money by the new deal. No one but the large planters. They will use this labor a short time in the spring and fall, the rest of the year they will be on relief at the government's expense, "more class legistration".

SOCIAL SECURITY

The social security act which is popular discussion in this campaign, is all right but you got to have a job a long time first.

I am opposed to the present law of the old Age Pension. I think if the government is going to take the tax payers money to pay old age pensions, that every American citizen who reaches a certain age limit is entitled to the same amount paid if he wants to draw it, regardless of race color or his financial standing. This would end all politics in Old Age Pension. Then the needy pensioner would not be subject to the approval of some private party who might be their friend or enemy. "This is more class legistration".

The labor question of this county is one and most important to be solved. The best way to solve the labor question is to unite labor and capital in order to increase production. When this is done, we will have a labor condition worth while. One where a laboring man does not have to work for his enemy. Wendell Willkie will increase production so there will be a job for a man no matter where he is located. If you want to move to another city, there will be a job there waiting for you. That is the kind of labor condition we need. Make the laboring man independent so if one factory price and terms does not suit him he can go to another. Labor also must be reasonable in its demands so his job can be maintained at a fair price by giving an honest day's work in order to produce a profit to his employer.

FEDERAL HOUSING

If I remember right the sound banking system, ask the banks to remove all real estate loans from their books, in the rural district, real estate was about all the security they had to offer so there was nothing left for the banks to do except to buy government bonds to finance the New Deal.

Then the new deal set up agencies to take care of the loan business under the F. H. A. Housing Program.

The New Deal proposed to raise the standard of living by forcing the home owners to build in many cases houses that cost several times more than they could actually afford. Of course they could take it or leave it," Many took a chance and are now living in a house that cost three or four thousand dollars when they would of much rather had a thousand dollar home and one they could have been more certain to have paid for during their life time.

I do not know of a single FHA Loan made for less than two thousand dollars. There are a much larger number of people that need homes that can not qualify for FHA Loans than those that can and these people have feeling and want the priviledge of the insured loans and have a just right to demand a home that they could pay 10% down in cash or lot value and build a home that they could pay for ranging in price from 800 to 1600 dollars, with payments in proportion. It is my opinion and I am saying to the lending institution if they would buy these small loans in the amount of certified material and labor bill, they would have a safer loan than the average FHA loan—even if they are insured by the government you would not need 60 to 90 days of FHA correspondance that cost a $100.00 or more—these local loans can be arranged in 5 days at a cost of not over $15. Why should we have class legistration in the Housing program.

GOVERNMENT DEBT

The New Deal in this campaign has not even mentioned it, they must be ashamed of it, who knows what they aim to do with it, the arugment on the street is what do you care you won't have to pay any part of it, ain't that a swell.

Let me tell all you people that do not think about the debt, every dollar spent by the new deal will have to be paid back with all cost and interest and paid back by the common classes, which will mean a tax burden almost impossible to bear. You have two choices, pay back dollar for dollar or buy revolution and repudiation then a dictator that will place the common classes under military rule, which means that the whole United States is made into one common penitentiary so far as personal liberty is concerned, under dictatorship you are made a slave to the army and government, they take everything you earn and issue you back in some reported cases not half enough to live on only five more days until the decision will be made. Don't forget this is the most important election of your life time.

Vote for Wendell Willkie he is the safest man to lead us the next four years while we unite our people to bear any burden that may fall upon the United States.

E. J. Keith.

Flag Facts Issued In Connection With Legion Sale Drive

In connection with the campaign to sell American Flags, which the Legion will start this Friday, President Jean Hirschberg has issued the following interesting facts about the Flag:

"Comparatively few citizens of the United States are fully acquainted with the actual regulations governing the use of the Flag. A knowledge of these facts are important. Every citizen should know them.

"The Flag should be honored and respected, should never be abused and should never be displayed if soiled, frayed, or weather-beaten.

"All schools, public and private, and all public meetings of any description are required to display the Flag respectively outside of the buildings and at the meetings. Most of the States require that the Flag be displayed also in the auditorium and in each classroom.

"Bright, clean Flags should always be displayed, regardless of the occasion or the place at which they are used."

In the immediate future, Flags should be displayed in Sikeston on election day, Armistice Day and on November 25, when the National Guard is mobilized for camp, Mr. Hirschberg said.

METHODIST DEPARTMENT HAS HALLOWEEN PARTY

The junior department of the Methodist Sunday School enjoyed a masquerade Halloween party Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. W. P. Wilkerson, superintendent of the department. Mrs. Wilkerson was assisted in entertaining by her corps of teachers, Mrs. Raymond Palm, Miss Louise Wood, Miss Frances Sitzes, Ray Culinan and Charles Boyce. The house was decorated with the usual symbols of Halloween and the refreshments and games carried out that theme.

TREATED FOR AUTO MISHAP INJURIES

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Poage of Charleston were taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau Wednesday evening for treatment of injuries they received when their automobile turned over near East Prairie. The accident was caused by a punctured tire. Mrs. Poage was able to return to her home Thursday afternoon but Mr. Poage remained in the hospital for further examinations. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Poage of Sikeston.

The Standard $2 per year.

If Your Eyes Could Talk!

HERE'S WHAT THEY'D SAY:

"Every time you go to a show, walk out in bright sunlight or lie down to read, you put extra strain on us. This can be stopped.

"Visit Dr. Hale optician and let him prescribe glasses that are guaranteed to relieve undue eye strain."
